RAMSAY MACDONALD IS DEAD

ALARM GROWS IN WASHINGTON OVER BUSINESS

President Faced by Need of Action.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Amid increasing signs of alarm in the administration over the recession of business, President Roosevelt continued today his conferences with his advisers on the crisis.

At the close of the day, beset by conflicting counsels and faced by waning confidence in his economic panaceas even within his official family, the President faced a dilemma on which way to turn.

He now confronts the necessity of deciding whether to order a "retreat from Moscow" to more conservative policies calculated to reassure the business world or to give the country's economic system another shot in the arm of inflation or a billion dollar spending of public funds, which would reanimate business enterprise.

Fear Inflation Decision.

Those who know Mr. Roosevelt best and know his reluctance to confess a mistake look for the President to turn to inflation or spending or both in preference to any acknowledged abandonment of the radical policies that are widely reputed to have chilled private enterprise.

On one flank, however, the President has given the signal secretly to fall back from Moscow in an orderly manner. That is on the tax flank. The tax on undivided profits, which some of the President's closest advisers admit has checked business expansion, is to be not repealed [for that would be a confession of error] but very greatly modified.

Administration leaders in congress received word from the President to go ahead with revision of the surplus profits tax and also the capital gains and profits tax which likewise is under fire as a deterrent of investment.

Modification of these soak-the-rich taxes will not take place, however, until the regular session of congress beginning in January, although the ways and means committee has been at work on the problem for the last ten days, having begun it a month earlier than scheduled because of the pressing necessity felt by the administration to do something to halt the business recession.

Immediate Action Needed.

With industry slackening further and further and stocks steadily slumping, however, alarm began to permeate the administration and the President was convinced that something more immediately effective than tax revision must be resorted to at once to avert what many fear is a Roosevelt depression in the making.

That is the explanation of the procession of Roosevelt advisers to Hyde Park in the last few weeks and now currently to the White House, all hastily summoned by the President to counsel him what to do about the crisis.

Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission, former chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, a stock market millionaire who "talks turkey" to Mr. Roosevelt and enjoys presidential confidence, is reputed to have wrung from the President at Hyde Park the O. K. on tax revision.

Demands Balanced Budget.

Information percolating from the White House depicts the President's advisers running around in circles, each with a pet project for stopping the Roosevelt depression. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau astounded everybody, including the President, by pounding the presidential desk under the presidential nose and declaiming that nothing short of balancing the budget is going to calm the apprehensions of the business community and speed up the wheels of industry. Mr. Roosevelt promptly deputed Mr. Morgenthau to fly a trial balloon, testing the reaction of business to possible measures for meeting the crisis, in a speech in New York tomorrow.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, urged the President to return to a generous spending program to increase purchasing power. He thought not less than a billion dollars would be necessary for this campaign in the next year. The balancing of the budget would be delayed thereby, but only temporarily.

Only a few months ago Eccles served notice on the President that

JAPANESE TRAP 6,000 SHANGHAI SUICIDE TROOPS

Attack Remnants of Chinese Forces.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Japanese shock troops, supported by tanks and batteries of machine guns, opened an attack all along Zahwei creek this morning in an attempt to drive the last remaining Chinese forces from Shanghai.

Entrenched behind sand-bagged barricades in the Nantao native district bordering the French concession, 6,000 Chinese soldiers were resolved to resist until death.

As the Japanese went into action against the Chinese who appeared trapped inside a bayonet-pointed crescent, thousands of foreign and Chinese civilians crowded the streets of the French area to view the battle.

Mines Explode in Nantao.

Bursts of hand grenades and machine guns clearly traced the line of fighting along Zahwei creek toward the Whangpoo river.

A prelude to the Japanese assault came earlier when two land mines exploded in Nantao. The blasts were followed by the chatter of machine guns and rifles. The thunderous explosion of the mines shook houses in the French concession.

While the vanguard of Japanese troops moved into battle Japanese planes roared overhead bombing clusters of stubborn Chinese defenders wherever they could be spotted.

Two Avenues of Escape.

It appeared certain the last remnants of Chinese defenders of Shanghai would be annihilated if they made a last stand. There was no avenue of escape except across the Whangpoo river or into the French area, where they would be disarmed and interned.

A Japanese column which had moved up from the south reported the capture of the important city of Sungkiang, twenty-two miles southwest of Shanghai on the Shanghai-Hangchow railroad, during the night.

The retreat of Shanghai's defenders under cover of darkness Monday night toward their "winter line" protecting Nanking, the capital, was not a vital blow to the nation's defense, Dictator Chiang Kai-shek said.

He asserted the withdrawal would shift the scene of war to the vast delta lands in the lake region west of the fallen city. These lines reach as far back as Changshu, Kashing, and Soochow, some fifty miles away from Shanghai.

"We will fight with the same vigor and determination in the future as we did at Shanghai," the generalissimo said confidently.

Pursue Retreating Chinese.

Japanese troops pressing in pursuit of the Chinese retreating from Shanghai rounded the corner of the French concession and passed the Siccawei cathedral along Siccawei creek, the dividing line between Nantao and the French area in western Shanghai.

The Chinese had dynamited and burned all bridges across the Zahwei creek in the path of the Japanese and had barricaded the far side.

The situation left Shanghai isolated from the rest of the nation. A circle of Japanese men and steel hemmed in 3,000,000 Chinese inhabitants, 1,000,000 Chinese refugees and thou-

QUEEN OF THE BORNEO WILD MEN TELLS HOW WILD WILD MEN ARE

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Sylvia of Sarawak, ranee [queen] of the last absolute monarchy in the world, arrived on the Aquitania today to write a book and do a movie about the wild men in Borneo whom she and her husband, Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, govern.

"They're really wild, too, with their habit of cutting off heads and hanging them on the wall for you when you come to dinner," the slim, English born ranee said as she clutched a purse on which sparkled the royal crest. "The native girls in Sarawak wouldn't think of marrying a boy who hadn't obtained at least one head," she added.

FIVE REAP $30,000 IN 6 WEEKS WITH A POLICE SHIELD

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—A shield is only a means of identification to a cop, but it meant $5,000 a week income to five men locked up in the Bronx today. Through industrious flashing of the bit of metal on bookmakers and dice operators, the five prisoners realized $30,000 in six weeks, according to police.

A little over a month ago detectives were assigned to break up the gang. They found their method distressingly simple.

The gang would send a man with the shield to the owner of a game or a racing book. After a few words he would ask the keeper to step around the corner and talk things over, police said. Around the corner would be the rest of the outfit. They played their victim for all he had.

Precaution Almost Ends Life of Sleeper on Pier

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Many pounds of prevention almost proved fatal to Maxine Burak tonight. Burak napped on an East river pier after roping himself to a large rock as a precaution against falling into the water. He fell anyway, and the rock with him, effectively anchoring him to the bottom. Passersby who had seen the alarming spectacle of a rock pursuing Burak into the river and then Burak pursuing the rock to the bottom rescued him.

IndianSummer Casts Languid Magic on City

The summer and the winter here
Midway a truce are holding;
A soft, consenting atmosphere
Their tents of peace enfolding.
—Whittier.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

To those who wandered in the woods and fields yesterday, watching the pageantry of the passing year and the evolutionary flow of nature, and to those who got just a glimpse above the housetops and the stones of the serene golden light irradiating the earth, Indian summer came as a moment of pause and wonder.

Indian summer is one of nature's soft and intermittent moods, born out of the southwest air currents, when the sun's rays are becoming more oblique, when the atmosphere is filled with dust particles from dying vegetation and smoke from meadow fires, when calm descends and living things are given a few days to retreat to winter shelter, divest their outworn garments, take a last flight in the sun.

Year's Best Days.

The first killing frost this year occurred on Oct. 14, and since that time this section has had an unusual number of warm, fine days, the best of the year to many minds. It was 63 yesterday, eleven degrees above the normal. Since Oct. 28 there have been half a dozen days of similar mellow texture.

Indian summer is as uncertain in some ways as spring. In France it is likened to the last love of a woman. In England it is called St. Martin's day, and the official date is Nov. 11. But it may come anywhere in late October or early November. The legend is that St. Martin gave his cloak to a beggar on a wintry November day and that because of this kind deed summer came again to the land where he walked.

Its earliest use in America, according to researchers for the American-English dictionary being prepared at the University of Chicago, was in the letters of St. John Cultivateur, a Frenchmen writing home in 1778.

Origin Is Mystery.

The origin of the term is a mystery. It is attributed by some to roving bands of Indians burning over forest lands, or to the last season when the Indians might be expected to attack white settlements. Also its deceptiveness is likened to the Indian characteristics. The word may have come from a similar season in East India.

One of the most beautiful of the phenomena of the season is the flight of the spiders. Those who walked in the meadows or on golf links noted the unusual number of gossamer webs in the grass and bushes. Because of the refraction of the sun's rays they are seen more clearly than at other times.

Jonathan Edwards, American divine and metaphysician, who wrote of the freedom of the will, observed the flight of the spiders and described it. J. Arthur Thomson, professor of Aberural history at the University of Aberdeen, also called it the supreme note of autumnal restlessness. It occurs after the first shock of frost, when the young spiders get on top of plants and fences, their heads facing a gentle current of air.

Nights a Revelation.

Earlier American writers, such as Emerson, Cooper, and John Greenleaf Whittier, have written of Indian summer. At this season, with the new moon, the nights, too, are a revelation. The Indians themselves are said to have attributed the season to the god of the southwest, where they went after death. Millions of insects are dying every minute, but they have made provision for their young, some even for their unborn progeny. The animals are busy hiding their winter stores. The last tension of life has gone out of the leaves, but the withdrawal has only been in the nature of a storehouse for the seeds and green of the awakening next spring. Indian summer is a pause in the great rhythm of nature.

WILD STEAM ROLLER GUIDED DOWN HILL TO AVOID HITTING 60 MEN

West Orange, N. J., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Cool headedness of a steam roller operator averted a possible tragedy when his 13 ton machine went out of control today atop a high hill and imperiled 60 laborers before it crashed into a gully.

When the gear mechanism fouled Nick Chiarolonzio, of Summit, N. J., stayed at the steering wheel and shouted warnings to 30 men in the path of the steam roller. He guided the machine past a ditch filled with another 30 men before jumping into a sandpile.

In its 200 yard flight the steam roller tore up two sections of newly laid road and damaged a grader and concrete mixer. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Michigan Probes 'Salaried Athletes'

Hears Alumni Slush Funds Aid Football

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Campus rumors that powerful alumni groups, notably those in Chicago and Cleveland, have been secretly subsidizing football players at the University of Michigan, were brought into the open here today.

The board in control of physical education issued a statement promising an investigation. Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics, and Prof. Ralph W. Aigler, chairman, signed the statement. Harry Kipke, football coach, said he "indorsed the investigation."

Board's Delay Criticized.

A member of the board, who asked that his identity be withheld, criticized the school's athletic leaders for not taking action sooner. He intimated the board knew for some time that reports of subsidization were being widely circulated.

It is known that alumni groups have contributed to what amounts to a slush fund. Freshmen athletes have been given employment by Ann Arbor merchants at agreed wages. Money from the alumni fund, it is rumored, has been turned over to the employers to help meet such pay rolls. Several Chicago athletes are said to be beneficiaries of this arrangement. One of them, according to campus comment, was guaranteed $8 a week by the head of an Ann Arbor factory. He was supposed to render eight hours of service. Whether he actually worked eight hours, his check always came to $8 a week.

Caused's Iowa's Trouble.

Alumni activity in the recruiting and subsidization of college athletes came into prominence in 1929 when the University of Iowa was suspended from the Big Ten conference on the charge that athletes' expenses were being paid from a slush fund operated by Iowa City merchants.

Iowa was not restored to good standing in the conference until the faculty representatives from other schools were convinced that university authorities had regained control of the conduct of athletics. Members of the conference were prohibited from scheduling contests with Iowa during the year the ban was in effect.

Say Four Brought from Kiski.

Cleveland alumni are credited with recruiting four prominent members of this year's freshman squad at Michigan. All came from Kiski academy at Saltburg, Pa., which has sent many athletes to eastern schools who later became headline figures. They are Paul Kromer, half back from Lorain, O.; Howard Mehaffey, full back from Pittsburgh; Ralph Fritz, a guard from New Kensington, Pa., and Jack Meyer, a half back from Elyria, O. All four boys are on the National Youth administration pay roll in Ann Arbor.

Meyer, when interviewed by a CHICAGO TRIBUNE representative tonight, said: "The rumors are absurd. I am receiving no outside help from any one. I came to Michigan of my own volition. I had planned to go to Princeton, but when I learned that my friend Paul

BRITISH LEADER SUFFERS HEART ATTACK ON SHIP

Served as Premier in Three Cabinets.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—James Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister of Great Britain, died tonight of a heart attack aboard the liner Reina del Pacifico. The famous laborite, who had been head of three British governments, was 71 years of age. He had been for practical purposes retired from politics since 1935, when Stanley Baldwin succeeded him as prime minister. MacDonald had been offered a peerage but declined, saying he "always had been a man of the people," and desired to remain so.

With his daughter Sheila, MacDonald left England Thursday, bound for South America on what was to have been a three months' vacation. He had been in poor health [he was nearly blind] for several years.

The news of his death reached England in radio messages from the ship to two other daughters, Miss Ishbel MacDonald and Mrs. A. Mackinnon, wife of a Leeds doctor.

End Is "Peaceful."

"The message said he had passed away peacefully at 8:45 p. m.," Dr. Mackinnon said.

Malcolm MacDonald, British secretary for dominions and son of the former prime minister, is in Brussels, Belgium, attending the nine power conference on the Chinese-Japanese war. He was informed of his father's death by telephone.

MacDonald's other son, Alastair, in north England and could not be reached immediately. The former prime minister was a widower.

Before leaving England, MacDonald said he had no particular plans. "I am just in search of the most elusive of all forms of happiness—rest," he said. He had planned to spend some of his time in Peru and Chile.

The body will be embalmed aboard ship and taken to Bermuda, where the vessel is due Nov. 15. From Bermuda the remains will be returned to England for burial.

BORN IN POVERTY.

James Ramsay MacDonald, man of destiny of the British labor movement, was probably one of the select few who will be remembered when the ages have selected the significant from the insignificant of his time.

From obscurity and abject poverty, as dire as ever faced a backwoods American boy dreaming of the White House, this Scot struggled from the bleak North sea fishing village of Lossiemouth on Moray Firth, to become thrice prime minister of Great Britain, director of the home government of a world-wide empire. His first cabinet was formed in 1924, the second in 1929, and the third in 1931.

The world felt his influence as an oustanding statesman, a worker for the common weal, a crusader for enduring peace and disarmament after the cataclysm of the world war.

Carried Banner of Labor.

His career was unique in British history. No prime minister before him had been born into such poverty. None had ever entered the historic portals of No. 10 Downing street as bearer of the political banner of the laboring class.

Passing years, it has been predicted, may give MacDonald a place in the Anglo-Saxon pageant alongside that of Abraham Lincoln. Agonizing misery and unremitting toil finally rewarded both; humanitarian characters touched with genius, mellowed by romantic love and darkened by personal tragedies, their stories seem strangely woven from the same life thread.

Each, steadfast to an ideal, sought a new social order, Lincoln as the liberator; MacDonald as the practical idealist who worked a lifetime for a socialistic Britain and a pacified world.

Bitter Foe of Communism.

MacDonald was combined prophet, organizer and administrator of the distinctive brand of socialism that is British. It differs from the Marxian creed of Russian communists in that it is evolutionary rather than revolutionary. It denounces capitalism and communism in the same breath, supplanting the violence of class war with the doctrin of the "inevitability of gradualness" toward universal democracy.

An example of this doctrin, MacDonald was active in politics for

Before Breakdown

Ramsay MacDonald as he appeared while attending sessions of the imperial conference in London last May. British statesmen were called then to discuss empire and international problems.

nearly 40 years before he got to parliament; it was 18 years more before he captured the highest prize in the gift of the British people. He trudged down the middle of the road, denouncing the "socialism-in-our-time" slogan of the British extremists as a flashing futility, and fighting communism at every step.

A life long pacifist, he announced on the eve of August, 1914, that he would have nothing to do with the world war. Through 1914-'18 he was reviled as a traitor, made a political outcast, harried by ridicule and calumny. His hair whitened and his shoulders sagged, but from the depths he toiled upward to the prime ministership six years later without having recanted a word or sacrificed a jot of his principles.

Warning of 1931 Recalled.

On July 11, 1931, he stood on the platform of Albert hall in London along with Stanley Baldwin and David Lloyd George, leaders of labor's political foes, and through an international hookup of radio that carried his words to a world-wide audience said:

"People who seek safety by arms are like people seeking safety under trees in a thunderstorm. They are at the point which is first to be struck when the storm breaks."

The two room cottage in which MacDonald was born on Oct. 12, 1866, still stands in Lossiemouth. And there on the Scottish coast, where life is hard and great storms steel a hardy breed, he spent his first eighteen years.

His schooling was scant and ended when he was 12. Thereafter he dug potatoes until the village schoolmaster made him a pupil teacher. This set the boy's mind into channels that led higher than grubbing in the fields or braving the dangers of a fishing smack.

An Avid Reader.

He devoured every printed page on which he could lay his hands, fiction and folk lore, science and religion.

A stray copy of Henry George's "Progress and Poverty" found its way into the village at a time when agricultural Scotland was having a hard time and hatred of landlordism was taking root. It planted the seeds that made a Socialist out of MacDonald.

But while politics always interested him, his first love was science. In 1884 he bent his steps toward London, his ambition being to work by day and study by night for a scholarship in one of the science schools of the capital. Work was scarce and he starved in a garret.

Struggling thus from dawn to midnight, without exercise or relaxation, a breakdown was inevitable. It ended his dream of a scientific career.

In 1888 he turned to politics, and for four years was secretary to Thomas Lough, a radical candidate for parliament, receiving $375 a year. When he left Lough MacDonald knew the inside workings of the British political machinery.

Then he turned to journalism, joined the Independent Labor party and the Fabian society, and became right hand man of Keir Hardie. In 1895 he tried for parliament on his own hook, but a Southampton constituency gave him only 867 votes.

Campaign Brings Romance.

But that poll brought him romance, for one of the contributors to his campaign fund was "M. E. Gladstone." Investigation showed this was Margaret Ethel Gladstone, daughter of a scientist. She and MacDonald were married in 1896.

She was a woman of wide culture, a devoted social worker. She brought her husband financial independence. They possessed means which enabled them to spend a honeymoon in the United States, where they met Jane Addams; and to tour Canada, Australia, India, and South Africa.

MacDonald finally won his first seat in parliament in 1906. In 1910 he became parliamentary leader of his party.

Then tragedy struck him. In 1911 came the deaths of a 6 year old son, his mother, and his wife. MacDonald was left with five children, Alastair, Ishbel, Malcolm, Joan, and Sheila.

Plunging deeper into political life, MacDonald warned against mounting armaments and when the crash came in 1914 took the step that dropped him into a pit of calumny. There was no election in wartime England, so he held his seat until 1918. Then the "hang-the-kaiser" election saw his defeat by 14,000 votes.

In 1924 Labor was put in power with MacDonald as premier.

But eight months later his conciliatory policy toward Russia and his government's leniency with world war offenders alienated the Liberals and parliament was dissolved. The Conservatives won power.

The next election came in May, 1929, and Labor won all along the line. MacDonald's second Labor cabinet was formed.

His first big concern was with naval armaments and he made his historic trip to the United States, discussing the subject with President Hoover while the two sat on a log on the banks of the Rapidan. That talk laid the foundations for the naval conference in London early in 1930.

But his domestic problems multiplied. Unemployment increased until the dole debt grew at the rate of $5,000,000 a week.

Labor Party Splits.

The Labor party split wide open in August, 1931, when a budget crisis brought out a proposal to cut the dole of unemployed workers. The cabinet resigned and the next day MacDonald formed a coalition cabinet composed of right wing Laborites, Conservatives, and Liberals.

The action aroused intense feeling in labor ranks. The party expelled MacDonald as its leader. The party organization in the Seaham Harbor district, which MacDonald had represented in parliament for many years, also repudiated him and called on him to resign, but he held to his course.

In October MacDonald's cabinet suspended the gold standard, parliament passed a national economy measure and then the appeal was made to the country. The result was a smashing victory for the "national" government and MacDonald scored a personal triumph by again winning the seat from Seaham Harbor.

Between 1932 and 1935 the MacDonald government suffered a series of political setbacks, including the abortive world economic conference at London in 1933. MacDonald had visited President Roosevelt in Washington to prepare the way for this conference. Finally, on June 7 of 1935, MacDonald was succeeded as premier by Stanley Baldwin. MacDonald went into virtual retirement.

SCIENCE UNVEILS FUTURE MARVELS OF OIL INDUSTRY

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Estimates that the world has oil resources sufficient for centuries on end, perhaps thousands of years, and that airplane speeds of 500 miles an hour will come within ten years were made yesterday by Dr. Gustav Egloff at the 18th annual meeting of the American Petroleum institute at the Stevens hotel. Dr. Egloff, director of research for the Universal Oil Products company of Chicago, has been a specialist in oil cracking for years and holds 237 patents relating to oil processing.

Dr. Egloff expressed a belief that by July, 1939, all army and navy planes will use gasoline of 100 octane rating, compared with the 87 octane rating of present day aviation fuels and the 65 to 75 octane number of gasolines now used in automobiles.

Greater Efficiency in Sight.

"Gasoline has been produced in the laboratory as high as 125 to 150 octane," said Dr. Egloff. "By 1939 advances made in the design of airplane motors will require 100 octane gasoline or higher. This will enable planes to carry a pay load at least 30 per cent greater than at present at speeds 35 per cent higher.

"A few years ago 100 octane gasoline was a chemical curiosity. It cost about $20 a gallon. Recently it has been placed on the market at less than 50 cents a gallon. Much of the high octane gasoline will be made from a by-product gas resulting from the cracking process. Up to a few years ago this was practically worthless, most of it being allowed to escape into the air. Such improvements have been brought about by research in the oil industry, which spends at least $50,000,000 a year in its laboratories."

Working on New Oils.

Besides high octane gas, the industry is also developing lubricating oils of greater film strength, Dr. Egloff said, to enable the lubricants to hold up under the tremendous heat and pressure which future high speed, high power airplanes, and automobiles will require.

Dr. Egloff also asserted that there will be oil to drive and lubricate engines of the future. One year after the drilling of the Drake well in 1859 a shortage of coal oil was predicted, he recalled, and since then every five to seven years have brought predictions of scarcity.

"It's always the same old cry," said Dr. Egloff. "But in 1937 we used 30 per cent more gasoline and oil than at the peak of the prosperity years. We have resources of oils that will last for centuries on end.

Indicates Great New Pools.

"Geologists now say oil exists as far as thirty-five miles beneath the earth's surface. The seismographic records indicate that. Eventually the oil industry will tap those almost unbelievable depths economically. Today some of the deepest wells go down two miles, and within ten years we will be drilling down three miles.

"And just as the supply is enormous, so are the possibilities of petroleum. Ethyl alcohol is now being made from it. Every product that can be produced from coal tar can also be produced from petroleum. Synthetic rubber, with wearing qualities two to four times as great as para rubber, which may make it possible for a motorist to ride 80,000 miles on a set of tires, can be made from petroleum whenever processes are perfected to make its manufacture economically justifiable."

STUDENTS' CODE CALL FOR SEATS STIRS UP NAVY

John Kenton.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Providence, R. I., Nov. 9.—(AP)—John Kenton, 16 years old, a freshman at Brown university, saved 32 cents on a telegram, but started the U. S. navy intelligence bureau on a spy hunt.

Kenton, whose home is at Jackson Heights, N. Y., wanted to communicate with Andrew Bato of Orange, N. J., a student at Yale. They had planned to attend the Brown-Yale game at New Haven last week and that required some telegraphing.

So Kenton walked into a telegraph office and handed in this wire, partly in code and partly in Hungarian:

Costs Only 32 Cents.

"Thirty-two cents," said the clerk. Somewhere along the line to New Haven the message fell into the hands of the navy intelligence. An agent called on Bato.

The agent explained that at the New London submarine base a new torpedo chamber had been invented by a Mr. Brown and designated as the Brown section. Was Mr. Bato in the secret employ of a foreign power?

Student Tells the Story.

Bato broke down and told all. The wire, translated by him read:

"I can come after all, if you want me to. Will arrive by train at 12:14 [that "12:14" is how you say "tizenkettotizennegykor" in English]. Please buy ticket in Brown section. Will repay."

"In English it would have cost me sixty-four cents," Kenton explained.

RUSSIA EXECUTES 10 FOR PLOTTING STALIN MURDER

MOSCOW, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Seventeen men, including ten terrorists convicted of plotting an attempt to assassinate Josef Stalin, general secretary of the communist party, were reported executed today.

A Tiflis newspaper reported those shot for the assassination plots were accused of taking orders from an alleged Trotzkyist center in Moscow. It said they confessed several unsuccessful attempts to kill Stalin in 1933 and 1935. Two of those executed were brothers of the late Nestor Lakoba, a former president of the Abkhazian republic. One of them, Mikhail Lakoba, once served as a bodyguard of Leon Trotzky before his exile.

Others reported shot included four convicted of grain spoiling in Tadjikistan, another in Turkmenistan, and two convicted of raiding collective farms in Uzbekistan.

Warsaw Students Attack Jews Outside 'Ghetto' Seats

WARSAW, Nov. 9.—Anti-Jewish student rioting was renewed at the Warsaw Law school today. Six Jewish students were injured when Nationalists broke into a lecture hall and attempted to unseat Jews occupying benches outside the Ghetto section.

WHY PAROLEES STAY HOME: THEY EXPECT VISITORS

Enforcement Agents Now Make Night Calls.

Paroled convicts who used to look lightly upon the 10:30 curfew regulations have shifted their viewpoint.

T. P. Sullivan, superintendent of parole supervision, said yesterday that under a new system of enforcement agents of his office have been calling at parolees' homes at nights. Knowing that failure to be by the harthside means a trip back to prison the parolees, Sullivan continued, are earnest in obeying the regulations.

Stay Off Streets at Night.

"Not one has been taken to the detective bureau either charged with or suspected of a crime since Oct. 29," he said. "The report that we are making night visits has spread among the men and they are staying off the streets in the midnight hours.

"Formerly our men worked in the daytime, and had to take the word of the parolees' relatives on their night behavior. We have also tightened up on special permissions for the paroled men to remain out at night. Such permission must be obtained from the agent on the case."

36 Violators Returned.

Sullivan said old parole violators are rapidly being rounded up and returned to prison, 36 having been sent back since Oct. 1. Many of them were captured in distant states. Formerly the parole agents only went after those seized by police in nearby states. Now Illinois sends anywhere for a violator and this is having its effect. The parolees are remaining in the state, as a general rule, so they may finish their three years of official supervision [four for second offenders].

The twenty-two parole agents in this district, which includes Cook, Kane, Lake, Du Page, and McHenry counties, must watch over 2,750 parolees. Besides visiting their homes and the places where the parolees work, they inspect cafés and other night life spots. Parolees found in such places after 10:30 p. m. are sent back to prison.

WINDSORS SHUT DOOR TO VISITORS; SPEND QUIET DAY TOGETHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII. of England, and his duchess took a long step back to normal today, abandoning the tense business of the last few days. They denied themselves to friends and lunched in their Hotel Meurice apartment.

Tonight they had dinner with Lord Brownlow at Larue's, one of the city's temples of good eating, across the street from the Madeleine church. It is a place often visited by French statesmen, especially President Albert Lebrun.

SIMPSON FIANCEE DIVORCED IN RENO AND SPEEDS EAST

Reno, Nev., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray, fiancée of Ernest A. Simpson, former husband of the duchess of Windsor, was granted an uncontested divorce here today at a private hearing.

The former Baltimore society woman obtained the divorce from Jacques A. L. Raffray, New York insurance broker and former French army officer, on the grounds of cruelty. She left by train tonight for New York to meet Simpson. Raffray will wed Mrs. Connie De Bower of New York when she obtains a divorce next week.

Simpson Awaits Fiancée.

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Ernest A. Simpson, former husband of the duchess of Windsor, prepared here tonight for the arrival of his fiancée, Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray, from Reno.

Simpson told reporters he hopes to marry Mrs. Raffray "somewhere in Connecticut" before the end of November. It was Mrs. Raffray who introduced the duchess to Simpson at a party in New York in 1925.

Magda De Fontanges Held at Ellis Island.

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Barred from this country on grounds of "moral turpitude," Magda de Fontanges appealed from Ellis Island tonight for an opportunity to tell Washington authorities all about the romantic interlude she said she had with Premier Benito Mussolini.

The Svelte, red haired French journalist, who came here to appear in a Broadway night club at $50 a week, was ordered excluded after a private hearing before a special board of inquiry headed by Immigration Commissioner Rudolf Reimer.

The board announced it had decided against permitting Mlle. de Fontanges to enter the country "because of an admission of a crime involving moral turpitude, to wit: Assault with a dangerous weapon."

"Unforgettable Hours" Recalled.

She was convicted in Paris last summer of shooting Count Charles Pineton de Chambrun, former French ambassador to Italy. At the time she testified he had broken up her "unforgettable hours of love with Mussolini."

The Italian dictator's name was not mentioned at today's hearing, she said, adding:

"They asked me why I shot De Chambrun and I told them it was because he mixed into my private life."

She was not asked for further details, she said, and she would like to lay all the facts of the "regrettable episode" before the board of review at Washington.

Pending action by Washington authorities on her appeal Commissioner Reimer said she would remain at Ellis Island.

Surprise of Her Life.

The vivacious 30 year old writer, who speaks no English, seemed unperturbed when taken to the immigration station in upper New York harbor. Through an interpreter she said it was "the greatest surprise of my life" when her right to enter the country was challenged. She added that she hoped she would not be returned to France because the ocean trip had made her "so very sick."

The case recalled the difficulties experienced by Vera, former countess of Cathcart, when she attempted to enter the country eleven years ago and was barred on grounds of "moral turpitude" as a result of divorce proceedings in England. She finally obtained a habeas corpus writ and was permitted to enter.

Seek Trustee to Liquidate Chicago's Hamilton Club

Oscar E. Carlstrom, president of the Hamilton club, announced last night that attorneys will appear before Federal Judge William H. Holly today and ask for the appointment of a trustee in liquidation for the club. Whether the organization, which was founded 47 years ago and for many years was a headquarters for Republican politicians, will then close its doors will rest with the trustee. Mr. Carlstrom, a former attorney general of Illinois, said the officers of the club have fought for seven or eight years against insurmountable odds to save the institution.

London Home Robbed

MRS. LEANDER J. M'CORMICK.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—London's fashionable Mayfair district was startled tonight by two robberies that netted jewels valued at $94,000.

The Berkley Square apartment of Mrs. Leander J. McCormick was robbed of gems valued at $4,000. Before her marriage to the member of the McCormick family of Chicago, she was the Comtesse de Fleurieu.

In another raid, jewels valued at $90,000 were taken from the Park Lane apartment of Mrs. Hesketh Wright. Three marked bandits, armed with revolvers, gagged a maid and then, entering Mrs. Wright's bedroom, forced her at the point of a gun to surrender keys to a safe.

SECOND MURDER TRIAL IS SET FOR CORYDON BLACK

CRIMINAL COURT.

James C. Blakley, forgery, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush. Earl Griffin, rape, 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

Corydon Black, 35 years old, who was saved from the electric chair when the Illinois Supreme court reversed his conviction and ordered a new trial on Oct. 23, was ordered by Chief Justice Harrington of the Criminal court yesterday to face his second trial on Nov. 23 before Judge Joseph Sabath.

Black was condemned to death after a jury last January found him guilty of the poison murder of his divorced wife, Cordelia, in her apartment at 1550 West 95th street on Oct. 5, 1936. His defense was that she drank poison cocktails with him in a suicide pact.

In granting Black a new trial, the high court held that the prosecutor prejudiced the jury with references to prior criminal acts of Black not connected with the murder case.

SHANAHAN WILL TRIAL ENDS IN DISAGREEMENT

Jury Dismissed After 11½ Hours of Deliberation.

Unable to agree after deliberating eleven and a half hours on whether the last will of David E. Shanahan, disposing of an estate of $850,000, is valid, a jury in the court of Judge Michael Feinberg was dismissed late yesterday afternoon.

The case, which had been in progress for three weeks, was given to the jury late Monday afternoon. Failing to reach a verdict by 10 p. m., its members were locked up and resumed their discussion yesterday morning.

At 3:30 p. m. Judge Feinberg called the jury into his courtroom and questioned the foreman, Harry S. Lewis, on the prospects of agreement.

"I don't think there are any," replied Lewis. "The dissenters among us refuse to give in."

Warned Not to Talk.

The judge then dismissed the twelve men, warning them not to talk about their deliberations, as the case would have to be retried. He then conferred with the jurors for a half hour before allowing them to return to their homes.

"It is a smart jury," he reported when he emerged; "they even burned their ballots."

The jury was also in disagreement as to whether the deathbed marriage of the 74 year old Shanahan, former banker who was for twenty-one years speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, and his former secretary, Miss Helen Troesch, 41 years old, was valid. Mrs. Shanahan is the heir to the entire estate under the will, which was signed Oct. 5, 1936, the day the marriage was solemnized.

Principals Not in Court.

She was not in court when the jury was dismissed. Neither were Misses Margaret and Mary Flynn, cousins of Mr. Shanahan and his nearest of kin, who sought to invalidate the will and the marriage on the ground that Shanahan was not mentally competent during the latter part of his long final illness. He died on Oct. 18, 1936.

The jurors had been instructed that they alone would decide whether the will should be upheld, but that their decision in regard to the marriage was only advisory. Judge Feinberg said that the case would have to be tried again, either before a jury or by agreement before a judge.

It was indicated that attorneys for both sides will appear before the judge on Nov. 19. Motions for a new trial probably will be made then.

HELD TO JURY ON NARCOTICS CHARGE.

Charles Butkas, 40 years old, an ex-convict, was held to the grand jury on $5,000 bond yesterday by United States Commissioner E. K. Walker on charges of violating the Harrison anti-narcotics act.

Air Chief Finds 'Best Friend' and Wife Kissing; Kills Both

Glendale, Cal., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Paul A. Wright, former Chicagoan and president of the Union Air terminal here, signed a confession tonight that he killed his comely wife and his best friend early today when he found them kissing in the Wright home.

Mrs. Maureen M. Kimmel.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Wright, a shell shocked war veteran, said he had brought his pal, John Bryant Kimmel, trafic manager at the airport, home with him "to square things with my wife" after the two men had spent the night making a round of night clubs.

"I went into a white rage, I guess, when I saw them sitting on the piano bench embracing," said Wright, rather dazedly. "Now I suppose I'll sit on the hot seat and like it.

Suspected Wife for Two Years.

"I had suspected Evelyn of stepping out during the past two years, but I never thought it was with my buddy."

Mrs. Wright was dead of four wounds in her head and shoulders when police arrived at the Wright's Verdugo Vista home. She was 28, ten years younger than her husband. She had been society editor of the Detroit Times and, before her marriage to Wright in Chicago in 1932, was the wife of Clark Banion, secretary to Charles Bowles when he was mayor of Detroit.

Spattered with Bullets.

Kimmel, who was 35 years old, died this afternoon in Burbank hospital. He was shot five times, the bullets ranging from his head to his legs.

Wright and Kimmel, who had been close friends as well as business associates for years, spent last evening "out" in Hollywood. They started the night at a stag party and initiation ceremony at the Q. B. [Quiet Birdmen] club, an aviators' organization, and then went to several night spots.

The two pals arrived at the Wright home some time after midnight, with Kimmel willingly going along to help provide an "alibi" for Wright returning home so late.

"My wife held a jealous attitude toward me," explained Wright, "so I sometimes had my friends vouch for my whereabouts when I was away from home for any length of time.

Spies Them on Piano Bench.

"Evelyn was waiting up for me when we got home. John and I sat before the fire in the living room and we had some drinks. Feeling dopey, I decided to go into the bedroom off the living room and take a nap.

"When I awakened sometime later I heard them talking. I thought it odd that John hadn't gone home. I got up and walked to the door.

"I'll never forget it—they were sitting on the piano bench with their arms around each other.

"I said, 'Well, what's this?'—or something like that.

"Everything suddenly went white before my eyes. It was like a flash of flame. I went back into the room, got my gun, and came out shooting."

Daughter and Maid Sleep On.

The Wrights' daughter, Helen, 3 years old, and a Negro maid slept on, undisturbed by the shots. Wright telephoned police immediately and then walked several blocks to meet the officers, still clutching his pistol.

Kimmel's blonde wife, Maureen Mitchell Kimmel, a former United Air Lines hostess whom he married two years ago, was with her husband when he died. She said he had telephoned her last night that he wouldn't be home for some time because "Wright's in trouble."

Mrs. Wright was the mother of a 6½ year old daughter by her marriage to Banion. The child was adopted by Mrs. Wright's father, J. E. McBride, wealthy Detroit business man. Wright telephoned the McBrides in Detroit that his wife was dead.

WELL KNOWN IN CHICAGO.

The Wrights lived in Chicago until two years ago and Paul Wright was well known among airmen and air line executives here. In 1932 he became assistant to L. D. Seymour, who was at the time president of American Airways, predecessor company to American Air Lines. Early in 1935 he became assistant to W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines. In October, that year, he was sent to Los Angeles to take charge of Union air terminal.

CHINA'S SOLDIERS POORLY ARMED, PICTURES SHOW

U. S. Army Officers Tell Weapons' Weaknesses.

BY GREER WILLIAMS.

Press photographs of the arms which Chinese infantrymen are using against Japan drew the attention yesterday of officers at the headquarters of the United States army Sixth corps area in Chicago.

The pictures, they said, indicate that some of the Nanking government's units have no standard weapons but are armed with an assortment of submachine guns, machine rifles, rifle-pistols and other arms made in various European countries. This lack of a standard naturally causes difficult problems in distribution of ammunition, often making the weapons ineffective under combat conditions.

Unsuitable Weapons Used.

Also, the officers agreed after studying the pictures, the Chinese infantrymen are armed with two types of guns not suited to open battle. Photographs of Chinese communist soldiers [who are now allied with Nanking in opposing the Japanese in North China], with .45 caliber submachine guns provided a case in point.

These guns, apparently of Czechoslovakian make, are similar to the tommy guns used by American gangsters.

"The United States army issues tommy guns only to tank men for defense at close quarters should the tank stall," said Maj. A. L. Hamblen, assistant chief of staf for military intelligence.

Good Only for Scatter Fire.

Maj. Hamblen said that tommy guns are good only for hose or scatter fire at short range since they shoot a modified pistol bullet with little more than pistol velocity. Equipped with magazines and not drums, the guns fire about 25 rounds with an effective range of less than 200 yards compared with 800 yards for rifles and more for machine guns.

Maj. Hamblen and Capt. G. T. Rowland, assistant corps area ordnance officer, were equally unimpressed by the numerous semi-automatic pistols with detachable shoulder stocks shown in pictures taken in Shanghai.

The pistols, said to look like German Lugers, were believed to be of .25 or .27 caliber and accurate up to only 50 or 75 yards. The officers said they were good for street fighting or riot duty, but not much else.

Automatic Rifles Used.

They were more interested in two types of automatic rifles and machine guns pictured on the Shanghai front. Capt. Rowland found one to be of essentially the same design as the .30 caliber Browning automatic rifle, which is now standard American infantry equipment. This rifle shoots 10 rounds singly or in bursts. It was considered probable that the Chinese Browning was made by an American controlled company in Belgium.

Another type of automatic weapon shown in the hands of many Chinese soldiers at Shanghai puzzled the experts. This .30 caliber gun has an air cooling radiator around its barrel and a funnel shaped flash hider, but its chief characteristics are a magazine loading the receiver from the top. This requires offset sights, the rifleman sighting along the side of the barrel. The arrangement is unusual in rifles, although common among field pieces. The officers said it was possibly of Czechoslavakian make, but were not certain.

25 NEW JERSEY WOMEN UNDERGO SYPHILIS TEST

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Twenty-five socially prominent women in Montclair, N. J., voluntarily submitted to Wasserman tests today in a drive to turn the nation's spotlight on syphilis and remove the stigma from persons taking such examinations. More than 100 other women have volunteered to take the test. A lone male, John G. Truesdell, also showed up to take the test. "If these women can do it, so can I. It's a grand idea," he asserted.

HELD TO JURY AS ROBBER.

Francis Burster, 32 years old, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $5,000 by Judge Joseph Graber in Felony court yesterday on a charge of robbery with a gun.

Chinese Weapons

(Story in adjoining column.)

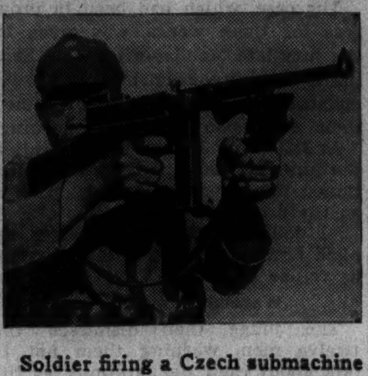
Rifle pistol which army officers said looked like a German Luger and described as useless as a combat weapon.



Soldier firing a Czech submachine gun much like the tommy guns used by American gangsters. This, too, is considered worthless in combat because of its short range.

sands of American and other foreigners.

The port no longer was serviceable for military purposes. Only a few foreign and Japanese vessels connected Shanghai with the outside world. Railroads and highways inland from Shanghai were cut or blocked by the Japanese in all directions.

The domain of O. K. Yui, mayor of Greater Shanghai, was reduced by the Japanese occupation from an area of 193 square miles to three square miles—the two-thirds of the Nantao district where the embattled rearguard still held out. The other third of Nantao was reserved as a refugee camp for the city's hordes of homeless and penniless Chinese.

The Japanese held Woosung, Kiangwan, Chapei and Paoshan, districts north and west of the international settlement that have been the field of the battle for Shanghai.

Yui still counted Pootung, the once rich industrial and agricultural district across the Whangpoo from the foreign zone, as held by the Chinese.

The only remaining active Shanghai front, therefore, was the Nantao area bounded on the north and west by the French concession, on the east by the Whangpoo and on the south by Zahwei creek.

Capture Shansi's Capital.

PEIPING, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Japanese announced tonight they had occupied Tiayuanfu, capital of Shansi province in North China, after twenty-four hours of street fighting within the city's walls.

Not one Chinese soldier escaped alive, a Japanese army statement reported. It said an unknown number of soldiers from two Shansi divisions died fighting rather than surrender.

Three other provincial seats—the capitals of Hopei, Chahar, and Suiyuan provinces—already have fallen to the Japanese legions in four months of the conquest of North China.

JAPAN FORBIDS U.S. DESTROYERS TO STOP AT KOBE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 9.—American naval authorities who have been dispatching destroyers on weekly trips between Shanghai and Kobe, Japan, today received official notice from Tokio that the warships no longer will be permitted to call there. The destroyers have been carrying mail and passengers to trans-Pacific liners.

Tokio's action confirmed reports that Kobe, which is Japan's second largest port, has been completely take nover for military concentration and transport purposes. It also was regarded as confirming rumors that the Japanese army is sending heavy reinforcements to the Shanghai area.

ITALY INSISTS PACT IS 'AIMED 'AT WORLD REDS

ROME, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A government spokesman tonight gave new assurances that the Italian-German-Japanese agreement against communism was aimed at no country, but at "international communists who are active throughout the world."

"The agreement should not be regarded as a peril," he said, "but rather like a league against tuberculosis. It is only an agreement of the three powers, open to the adherence of others, to preserve peace by combating the infection of communism.

ANTI-RED PACT SNAGS PARLEY ON PEACE IN ORIENT

Head of Soviet Delegation Bolts Brussels.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 9.—The anti-communist pact signed in Rome last Saturday by Germany, Japan, and Italy, today brought the work of the Brussels conference on the Chinese-Japanese war to a standstill while its leaders cudgled their brains to find an effective defense against the strategy of the allied Fascist powers.

A meeting, scheduled originally for this morning and then for 4 o'clock this afternoon, had to be put off until tomorrow. The official reason was that the continent was isolated by a fog in the English channel and Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, could not arrive from London in time. But the real reason was a dispute over the composition of the steering committee which it is proposed to set up.

Litvinov Leaves Suddenly.

The British want the committee limited to the signatories of the nine power treaty, excepting China and Japan, thus freezing out the Russians and including the Italians. The Russians said that since the signing of the anti-communist pact, Italy is an open ally of Japan and that it is, therefore, preposterous to include it on a supposedly impartial mediating body.

[Dispatches from Tokio said observers there believed relations between Russia and Japan were nearing the breaking point as a result of the strengthening of the anti-communist pact. Both nations were reported to be massing great armies along the Manchukuo-Siberia frontier.]

Partly as a protest against the British suggestion, Maxim Litvinov, soviet Russian foreign commissar, left for Moscow this evening after calling on Norman H. Davis, head of the United States delegation, to say good-by.

Threatens to Quit for Good.

Litvinov promised to return if the conference ever got down to real business. At the same time it was understood he hinted to Davis that if Italy is put on the committee and Russia left out in the cold the entire Russian delegation will be withdrawn from Brussels.

The Russians would accept a small committee of the United States, England, and Belgium, and it is even possible that the Italians would. The French want to be on the committee, however, which is all right with the Russians, but not acceptable to the Italians, unless they are on it, too.

As for the Chinese, they have no objections to the presence of Italy on a mediation committee. As they see it, the conference is divided into two phases—the first phase is marked by a vain attempt at mediation, and the second phase will be that in which to take action to check Japan or help China.

If the proposed committee would be a real steering committee of the conference and not just a mediation committee, the Chinese would object to the presence of Italy as it would, they charge, be a guarantee that nothing would be done to stop Japan.

It is, therefore, probable that the question of the committee will be left undecided until the Japanese answer to an invitation to discuss the Chinese-Japanese war with a small number of powers has been received at the end of the week.

The Japanese themselves may lift the conference out of the hole in which it is bogged at present. The opinion was expressed in Japanese diplomatic quarters here that Tokio's reply would refuse the conference's offer of mediation and would not leave the door open for further negotiation.

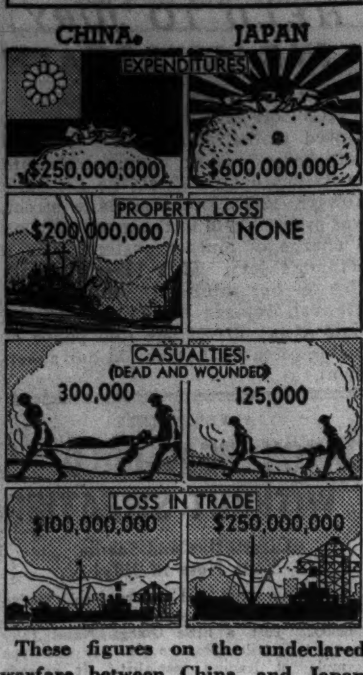
Based on New Ground.

The Japanese refusal, it was understood, would be based upon entirely new ground—the participation of Russia, which is not a signatory of the nine power treaty. This treaty guarantees the territorial integrity of China.

Even if Russia is not on the mediation committee, Japanese spokesmen pointed out that Russia joined in fixing the mandate of the committee, therefore "tagging it."

The views expressed by Japanese diplomats here are that the Japanese will refuse to negotiate with any powers or even any single power mandated by the conference to talk with them.

Warfare Is Costly



These figures on the undeclared warfare between China and Japan are the totals for the cost in North China and the Shanghai areas.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Neutral observers of the Chinese-Japanese war today summarized the cost of the conflict in the Shanghai and North China areas thus far as roughly—Expenditures: Chinese, $250,000,000, Japanese, $600,000,000; property loss: Chinese, $200,000,000; casualties [dead and wounded]: Japanese, 125,000; Chinese, 300,000; trade loss: Japanese, $250,000,000, and Chinese, $100,000,000.

BRITISH PREMIER LAUDS U. S. AID TO PEACE EFFORT

Helps Promote Success at Brussels, He Says.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain declared tonight that a great step forward in bringing about a settlement in the far east had been made by lining up the United States to "coöperate" at the Brussels conference along the lines exposed by Norman H. Davis, head of the United States delegation to the Brussels talks.

[Davis at Brussels said: "We expect to join with other nations in urging upon Japan and China that they resort to peaceful processes. The government of the United States is prepared to share in the common efforts to devise, within the scope of treaty provisions and principles, a means of finding a pacific solution."]

Makes a Promise for Britain.

Stating that American influence and interests in the far east were considerable, Chamberlain said the coöperation of the United States was essential to any success in stopping the Chinese-Japanese war.

If America would "coöperate," Britain would "collaborate" to promote success at Brussels, he said.

Chamberlain said that American coöperation at Brussels was "the first and most valuable step toward fulfilment of the desire expressed by President Roosevelt in his speech on international affairs at Chicago for a concerted effort by peace loving nations for sanctity of treaties and settlement of differences by peaceful means."

He said he was convinced that a greater community of purpose between England and America would go even further to prevent law breaking nations from disturbing the peace of the English speaking world.

Seeks "Good Trade Treaty."

Chamberlain said also that a good trade treaty between America and Britain would bring results to the world far transcending the immediate advantages to trade in the respective countries. He was vague about when and how such a treaty was to be concluded.

Turning to European affairs, Chamberlain made brief reference to Britain's relations with Italy and Germany and to the Rome-Berlin axis, but ignored the anti-communist pact of which Italy became an adherent last Saturday, joining Japan and Germany.

Chamberlain reviewed the economic progress since the depression, and declared the world is "practically back to the good year of 1929."

POLAND SUPPORTS BUT WON'T SIGN 'ANTI-RED PACT

Resists Plea to Join Fascist Alliance.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 9.—The Polish government sympathizes with the anti-communist pact signed in Rome Saturday by Japan, Germany, and Italy, but does not contemplate actively joining it, a foreign office spokesman said tonight. He had spent a busy day receiving representatives of other governments who called to inquire into Poland's attitude.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., United States ambassador, and Sir Howard W. Kennard, British ambassador, were among the callers.

Urged by Berlin to Join.

Poland is being urged by Berlin to join the pact. Berlin's relations with Warsaw have been improving, but the poles say that they do not believe it will strengthen the chances of peace in northeastern Europe if they openly join the German-Italian-Japanese combination.

Seconding the efforts of German diplomats, the Japanese maintain a large military mission in Poland, which recently has been reported to have been active in subsidizing the Polish press. Shuichi Sakoh, Tokio's first ambassador to Warsaw, will present his credentials to President Moscicki tomorrow.

Polish Papers Back Pact.

There has been a growing number of articles in the Polish press advocating that Poland join the anti-communism pact. Vladislaw Studnicki is leader of the press campaign for closer German-Polish relations, urging that Poland join before it is too late. He warned the government that some day the German army is going to march through Poland to attack Russia, and that it is best the Germans do this with official sanction.

Studnicki contended that Poland cannot depend upon support from either Great Britain or the United States and that international events are developing so rapidly that the government must choose its friends now.

Studies Shipping Harbor Plans for Indiana Shore

After hearing from Indiana political, industrial and civil leaders, Capt. S. N. Karrick, United States district engineer, yesterday took under advisement a proposal for the construction of a shipping harbor on the Indiana shore of Lake Michigan. Some of the spokesmen favored its construction at Burns Ditch, near Gary. Others, including United States Senator Sherman Minton, who appeared in person, and Senator Frederick Van Nuys, whose communication was read, merely spoke for a harbor without suggesting a site.

HITLER FORGES 'IRON RING' TO ISOLATE SOVIET

Germany Expects Soon to Be World Power.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—Germany today celebrated the fourteenth anniversary of Adolf Hitler's "greatest failure"—the unsuccessful beer cellar putsch in Munich in 1923. The reichsfuehrer and his comrades gathered in Munich to recall that ill fated day when they went to jail instead of into power.

As the Nazis celebrated, diplomats eyed the rôle Germany is playing in world affairs. They saw Hitler pushing ahead along a path which he believes will restore Germany not only as a big continental power, but as a world power.

Close friends of the reichsfuehrer gave THE TRIBUNE an outline of his fundamental policy for the present and future which has never been revealed before. It shows that Germany, which formerly saw herself surrounded by a "ring of iron alliances," is stepping forth to use the isolation of Russia, France, and possibly England as a means of obtaining what she feels is her due.

Fears Russia as Foe.

Hitler, his friends said, is convinced the country which has the support of "steam roller Russia" can be the outstanding power in Europe. Since he built his Nazi party in Germany with the help of campaigns against the soviets and the Jews, Hitler felt he could not seek an alliance with the soviets, nor did he want others to enjoy Russian support in an emergency.

Therefore, he had to isolate Russia, to create a ring of neutral countries through which the Reds must go before they can reach Germany. Once Russia is unable to move, Hitler told friends, France and England will be ready to make concessions to Germany and allow her again to become a world power with possessions in foreign lands.

Hitler, an unknown Austrian born soldier of the world war, has made remarkable progress in his four and a half years in power in forging his ring of iron around the soviets.

Italy on Guard by Sea.

Japan and Italy have become Hitler's allies in a strong anti-communist pact. Mussolini's ships can prevent the Russians from entering the Mediterranean for an open showdown.

Poland once seemed a dangerous factor for Germany. By making concessions to her, Hitler succeeded in inducing her to sign an alliance with Germany. He paid a price in prestige among his own eastern population because the German minorities still are being oppressed in Poland.

Germany has a close understanding, both military and economic, with Finland. Official Germany declares that the number of groups sympathizing with her in the Baltic states is growing steadily, but even if this were not so, the German navy in the Baltic is strong enough to scare off the soviet navy.

In Rumania and Hungary negotiations for a rapprochement with Germany are progressing satisfactorily. While the Germans have to date been unable to induce Rumania to break away from the little entente [Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia], they were successful in their efforts to prevent a Russian-Rumanian pact.

Has Friends in Balkans.

Jugo-Slavia has become a close friend of Germany, as have Bulgaria and Greece.

Austria plays a negligible rôle in the political picture as Hitler sees it. He made sacrifices of prestige among the eastern Germans when he signed an agreement with Austria last year, but he felt the agreement would win friends for him in Anglo-Saxon countries.

Iran [Persia] has been won by Hitler's men in recent months. Iran has been buying arms and machinery from Germany on a big scale.

Two links are missing in the ring of iron around Russia. They are Czechoslovakia and Turkey.

Germany has sent many negotiators and lecturers trying to induce Turkey to break her friendship with Russia. Without Turkey in the ring, the soviets still can break through the Dardanelles even though the number of sympathizers for Germany and Italy is increasing steadily among Arab populations of the near east.

An anti-Czech campaign is being waged in the German press on the radio, but Der Fuehrer is said to be willing to sign an agreement with Czechoslovakia similar to the one he signed with Poland. It is said that the sword rattling campaign is scaring the Czechs and will induce them to sever their ties with Moscow.

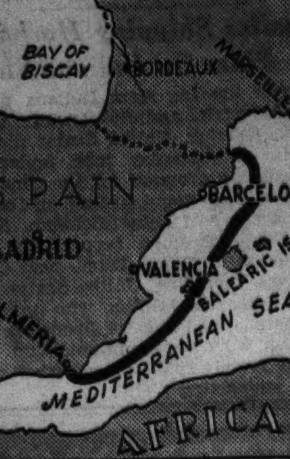
If a pact with Czechoslovakia becomes a reality it will be signed only at a moment the Nazis deem dramatic enough to impress the "sentimental Anglo-Saxon nations" and induce their populations to help Germany in her claims for colonies and concessions which "the big German nation requires."

Belgium's understanding with Germany will help isolate France just as a victory for Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel leader, in Spain would make the French more willing to come to terms with Hitler.

Germany believes that "America, England, and the soviets plan to use the Brussels conference as a platform for a demonstration against the anti-communist pact," and, therefore,, German official sources indicated that Germany may be willing later to go to Brussels.

BLOCKADE BEGINS

(Story in adjoining column.)



A naval blockade of the entire loyalist coast of Spain (indicated by heavy black line) will begin today, Spanish rebels announced. French naval authorities warned shipping to be on lookout for mines laid by rebels along 300 miles of Spanish coastline.

REBELS MINE 300 MILES OF SPANISH LOYALIST COAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The French navy ministry today warned all shipping approaching the Spanish Mediterranean coast to be on the lookout for mines.

This followed the announcement of the Spanish rebels that a naval blockade of the entire Spanish loyalist coast will begin tomorrow. French naval authorities said they had been informed the rebels were laying mines along 300 miles of coastline from the French border to Almeria, southeastern Spain.

Faced by a blockade by sea, and the rebel army on land, the loyalists would have only about 175 miles of the frontier along France open to free trade.

Battle in River Valley.

Reports of fighting along the Aragon front near the French border contained news of successes by both the loyalists and rebels.

The loyalists claimed that yesterday one of their patrols crossed the Gallego river and dynamited the railroad connecting Jaca and Sabinanigo. This is a line connecting rebel territory with France.

Rebels reported their troops today forded the icy waters of the Gallego and captured three hills on the government side near Sabinanigo. By the action, the rebels claimed to control the entire Gallego valley from the river's source to where it joins the Ebro near Saragossa. The rebels admitted the loyalists still are making dangerous counter thrusts and hold a number of important positions that must be cleaned up.

Catalans Reëlect Companys.

Recent reports of unrest in Barcelona, the new loyalist capital of Spain, were quieted today with the announcement that the Catalan parliament by a vote of 45 to 1 refused to accept the resignation of President Luis Companys. He was reëlected for an unstated term.

The Catalan government is autonomous and separate from the republican government which is in the process of transfer from Valencia. Premier Juan Negrin is expected soon to take up offices in Barcelona.

UNWED MOTHER HELD TO JURY IN BABY'S DEATH

Miss Cora Mae Marsh, 28 years old, unwed mother who threw her new born baby down an incinerator chute to its death Oct. 22 at the La Salle Towers, 1211 North La Salle street, was ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of murder yesterday by a coroner's jury. Miss Marsh, on advice on her attorney, William Scott Stewart, refused to testify. At the time of her arrest she told police of giving birth to the baby in her apartment.

YALE PRESIDENT SEES AMERICAN LIBERTY IN PERIL

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—President Charles Seymour of Yale university said today that American liberty was in danger because of a "too general tendency to shift responsibility from the community to the central government."

Speaking at the opening of the New Haven Community Chest campaign, the educator said "if it continues you will find the central government stepping in to take control—control not merely of the social problems of relief, but of all other community problems."

"When that happens liberty will have disappeared and authority will be supreme," he said. "The only safeguard against the danger that our affairs will be run for us by a distant political force is to shoulder the responsibility of running them adequately ourselves."

HITLER HONORS GEN. LUDENDORFF AS A NAZI HERO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—Gen. Erich F. W. Ludendorff was honored today by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler on the occasion of the fourteenth anniversary of the successful Nazi "beer hall" putsch in Munich.

Although Ludendorff, quartermaster general to Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg during the world war, was one of the main participants in the Munich putsch, the Nazis heretofore had ignored him because of a quarrel he had with Hitler.

Tonight newspapers prominently displayed a message sent to Ludendorff by Hitler. It said: "On the occasion of today's anniversary I remember with reverence and thankfulness that you fought in our ranks for the resurrection of the German nation."

Bank Robbers Hand Over 41 Millions to Uncle Sam

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The government's pursuit of bank robbers netted more than $41,000,000 in fines and loot recovered during the last fiscal year, J. Edgar Hoover said today. Expenses were $5,800,000.

21 CONVICTIONS! IT'S RECORD DAY IN SAFETY COURT

Braude Jails 6, Fines 11; 4 Win Probation.

A new record for a day's convictions in Safety court was set yesterday by Judge J M. Braude with twenty suspensions of driving privileges and one conviction in which a suspension was not ordered. The previous record for a day was twenty suspensions and jail sentences.

Judge Braude sent six of the motorists to jail yesterday and fined eleven. Among those fined was Raymond O'Donnell, 33 years old, 8253 South Laflin street, who said he is a brother of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, known as a prohibition era beer runner. Charged with leaving the scene of an accident Monday at 84th and Peoria streets, O'Donnell was fined $10, ordered to pay for $50 damage, and was suspended from driving for sixty days. He said he is a moving picture machine operator and a truck driver.

Gets Thirty Days in Jail.

The defendant who did not receive a suspension is William Keinert, 701 Brompton place, who was sentenced to thirty days in jail for drunken driving.

WILLIAM DUNNE, colored, 4420 South Michigan avenue, drunken driving, 15 days, six months.

W. H. VANDAGRIFF, 427 South Damen avenue, drunken driving, 10 days, six months.

Ordered to Pay Fines.

In addition to O'Donnell, the following received fines and suspensions:

CHARLES KOCOLEWSKI, 6227 Woodlawn avenue, drunken driving, $100, one year.

ALF NELSON, 2532 Lincoln avenue, drunken driving, $100, sixty days.

JAMES LAVIN, 629 West 43d place, reckless driving, $10, three months.

EINAR JACOBSON, 2207 Hancock avenue, reckless driving, $50, six months.

Four Put on Probation.

Four motorists were placed on probation and ordered not to drive. Charles Goergen, 2358 North Moody avenue, and Stanley Buczkowciz, 4308 Augusta boulevard, were placed on probation for six months and suspended from driving in that period.

Eugene Beck, 5105 Patterson avenue, charged with leaving the scene of an accident, and William Pendleton, colored, 6007 Calumet avenue, charged with reckless driving, were put on probation for three months and one year, respectively, and barred from driving during their probation.

He's in the Navy

GRACE McDONALD.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Bradford Green, age 22, was trumpeting for the navy again today, his request for a discharge from his three year enlistment having been refused. When the navy ruled that he must serve the remaining two and a half years of his enlistment, Green, who wrote the music for the Broadway show "Right This Way," wasn't the only one that felt the jar of discord. Grace McDonald also suffered. She wrote President Roosevelt a letter asking him to obtain Green's release. She said that she and Green were in love and that he only joined the navy because of continued failure to get his music accepted. Then Green said Miss McDonald, who is 18 years old, is just a "good friend."

SMASHES WINDOW; SEIZES GEMS.

Jewelry valued at $500 was taken yesterday by a thief who broke a display window of the Phillips Jewelry store, 1429 Milwaukee avenue.

WOMAN SECOND TO DIE AS RESULT OF HARVEY CRASH

Five Other Victims Are Still in Hospital.

Mrs. Marie Wood, 43 years old, 6439 Drexel avenue, died at Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, early yesterday, the second fatality of a collision last Sunday at 159th and Halsted streets in the suburb. Five persons are still in the hospital as a result of the crash.

Anton Sutton, 1460 West 114th place, died in County hospital yesterday of injuries suffered when he fell or jumped from the running board of an automobile in front of 1643 Monterey avenue on Sunday. Milton Carlson, 1246 West 104th street, and Charles Eldridge, 11155 Edgemont avenue, who were also in the car, were held by Morgan Park police for the inquest.

Dies in Hospital.

Edward Bickley, 5220 North Wolcott avenue, a millwright, died at St. Anne's hospital yesterday. He was struck by an automobile on Oct. 29. Robert Stephenson, 5249 Patterson avenue, was driving the car.

Found unconscious near his wrecked motorcycle in a ditch alongside Southwest highway near Ridgeland avenue, Worth township, Monday night, Oscar Maronese, 9222 Normal avenue, died yesterday in the Little Company of Mary hospital.

Irwin Schneegas, 5953 South Racine avenue, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving last night after his truck collided with a police accident prevention bureau squad car at Hermitage avenue and 87th street. Policemen John Donohoe and Peter Schaack, riding in the squad car, were slightly injured.

Teacher Is Injured.

Miss Loretta Rambow, 28 years old, 4220 Jackson boulevard, a language teacher at the Crane high school, was injured by an automobile last evening when the trafic lights changed as she was crossing Jackson boulevard at Oakley boulevard. She was taken to the St. Mary's of Nazareth hospital suffering from a possible skull fracture.

Walter Kelly, 9 years old, 4823 Wolcott avenue, was critically injured yesterday by an automobile as he alighted from a Lawrence avenue street car at Wolcott avenue. Summerdale police took him to the Ravenswood hospital. Robert Burtner, 8324 North Keating avenue, Niles Center, was the driver.

These deaths raised the Cook county toll since Jan. 1 to 922 at 4 p. m. yesterday. Of these 698 were killed in Chicago, where 19,800 were injured in the same period.

[See editorial page for the massacre clock.]

MIXES A JALOPY WITH AN ELEVATED TRAIN; GETS A WRECK

Leonard Simons, 18 years old, climbed into his old automobile yesterday, jiggled it, and as usual the car started rolling down an incline in the back yard of his home at 100 South Clinton avenue, Oak Park. But when Simons applied the brakes they failed.

The car rolled on until stopped by the tracks of the elevated line, which run on the surface in Oak Park.

Simons heard the warning toot of an approaching train and jumped clear just as the train struck the car, demolishing it.

"It was only a jalopy," said Leonard.

COURTNEY URGES STATE CAMP FOR DELINQUENT BOYS

Following an interview yesterday with Gervase Blake, the youngster who has admitted setting nine fires and committing fifty-two burglaries, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney announced he would propose to Gov. Henry Horner that a camp, similar to CCC camps, be established for such juveniles.

Blake, who is 14 years old, was on probation from the Juvenile court for thievery when he committed his crimes. He has a clear, bright mind, his questioners have found, but his energies have been misdirected.

"This boy and others like him present a serious problem that I feel can be best approached through camp discipline," Courtney said.

The Blake boy is now in custody of juvenile authorities and is to be given a mental examination. He is the son of Joseph Blake, a coal yard employé, 2125 Devon avenue.

EARLY SHOPPING SELF-SATISFACTION

By CALEB

NOW and again these days, we see people shopping here for what very obviously are Christmas gifts—shopping early in order to avoid the final holiday rush.

It reminds us of something one woman does each year which might well be done by many more people. She shops very early and places in, or pastes on, each Christmas package a letter, telling the recipient all the nice things she thinks of that recipient. It's a sort of "flowers for the living" idea. She believes in saying the nice things here and now.

She writes her appreciation of the friendship of an old acquaintance. That acquaintance will receive a modest gift which will seem a very rich one because of the friendly accompanying note. She sends a gift clear across the country. When it arrives, the cheery voice and the written handclasp of the sender seem real. For the letter makes the present very personal.

Of course there are other advantages to early Christmas shopping.

There is your own convenience to be considered. Service is better when the store is not overcrowded. You can select more deliberately when you have more time and fewer people about you.

We have had Christmas paper and wrappings and similar items on display for weeks so they are available to you.

Moreover, you can have presents monogrammed—or you can have photographs taken—a sure sign to recipients of your early thoughtfulness.

Finally we have seen a number of different types of self-satisfaction, but we have never seen anything that quite equals the self-satisfaction of people who get their Christmas shopping done early—and then laugh at those who don't.

If you can shop early and not become too superior to the common run of humanity by virtue of your wisdom and foresightedness, we commend the idea to you.

FLORIDANS CITE RULING ON LANDIS AGAINST BLACK

Recall Highest Court's Act in Berger Case.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Twice defeated in attempts to force Associate Justice Black out of their lawsuit, Florida oil share brokers today laid the groundwork for another drive against President Roosevelt's appointee to the Supreme court bench.

Beaten yesterday in seeking a rehearing of their cases, the Floridans asked for leave to renew that demand today, giving as a reason Justice Black's supposed participation in yesterday's denial. Basically they argued the same allegations of bias and prejudice on the part of Justice Black that they did in their original plea for a review of a lower court decision and in the unsuccessful rehearing request disposed of yesterday with the single word "denied."

Says Court Overlooks Plea.

Saying that the court apparently had overlooked their previous insistence that Justice Black take himself out of the plea for rehearing, they asserted that his alleged presence made yesterday's action illegal.

As a new reason why Justice Black should disqualify himself they pointed to the court's sixteen year old decision in the famous Victor L. Berger case. This was a ruling that Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, accused by Berger of bias, must not sit in the District court in the trial of the Berger case.

The 6 to 3 decision in the case of Berger, quoted by the Florida men, revealed some highly interesting attitudes on the parts of Justices Braindeis and McReynolds, the only members of the present high bench sitting when the court acted on the case of the former Milwaukee congressman accused of violating the world war espionage act.

Views Held on Landis.

Mr. Brandeis, now a liberal with Mr. Black, voted to disqualify Judge Landis, but Justice McReynolds, a present arch conservative, strenuously objected to such a course. He argued that Judge Landis must not be thrust aside merely because he disliked Germans generally, and said that bias must be displayed toward an individual and not a class.

William C. Pierce, who with W. K. Zewadsi represents the Florida oil brokers, presented the newest petition to the court this afternoon. His formal request was for leave to file the document, whereupon Chief Justice Hughes told him to leave the papers with the clerk. A ruling on the motion may be made Monday.

Asked to Reconsider.

The Florida oil brokers are asking reconsideration of the court action Oct. 18 refusing review of constitutionality of the 1933 securities act. They opposed Mr. Black's participation in the two previous denials on the ground of prejudice, inasmuch as he, as head of the senate lobby committee, favored seizure of private telegrams. The brokers are fighting such a threatened seizure by the securities and exchange commission.

The Supreme court, the Floridans added, had held in the Berger case that where bias and prejudice is alleged against a district judge, "he should proceed no further . . . and should not assume to sit in judgment" on his own case.

"Such rule of decision announced by this court," the petition said, "should likewise apply to this court as well as inferior courts notwithstanding section 21 [of the judicial code] as aforesaid has reference to inferior judges."

Again the oil brokers asked that Justice Black disqualify himself.

LAYOFF FOR 8 CLOSES HUDSON SHOP AT DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Hudson Motor Car company closed its plant today because of a dispute over the laying off of eight men in the paint department.

That company has 10,000 to 12,000 employés. Spokesmen for the company and the United Automobile Workers of America said negotiations were in progress. They predicted the plant would reopen on Wednesday.

The Hudson company is the first major automobile manufacturer to be closed by a labor dispute in the current production season.

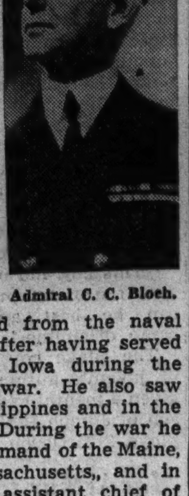
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson tonight announced Admiral Claude C. Bloch will succeed Admiral Arthur Japy Hepburn as commander in chief of the United States fleet. The change will be about May 1, in the regular shift of duty throughout the navy high command. Ten other high naval officers are to be shifted.



Admiral C. C. Bloch.

Admiral Bloch is 59 years old. He was graduated from the naval academy in 1899 after having served on the U. S. S. Iowa during the Spanish-American war. He also saw service in the Philippines and in the Boxer campaign. During the war he saw service in command of the Maine, Arizona, and Massachusetts,, and in the last year as assistant chief of ordnance. Recently he had been judge advocate of the navy.

ALARM SPREADS IN WASHINGTON OVER BUSINESS

President Is Faced by Need of Action.

unless the budget were balanced promptly a ruinous inflation would result. Eccles changes his mind frequently, however, particularly under presidential pressure. He was against revising the stock market margin requirements until Mr. Roosevelt nudged him.

Confers with Several.

Today Mr. Roosevelt conferred with Secretary Morgenthau, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Representative Marvin Jones [D., Tex.], chairman of the house agriculture committee; Representative Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, and Representative Fred M. Vinson [D., Ky.], chairman of the ways and means tax subcommittee. Doughton said taxes were discussed, and Mr. Roosevelt at his press conference would not enlarge upon this statement. Nor would he disclose where he is getting, if anywhere, on the business crisis.

Asked whether he was still confident that he will balance the budget in the fiscal year which begins next July 1, in view of the information he has received in two days of conferences with spending, fiscal, and congressional leaders, Mr. Roosevelt answered that he hoped so.

Discusses Utilities Situation.

Apparently apropos of the assertion of the Public Utility Executives' committee that but for the administration's antagonism to private utilities they would be expending 3½ billions on construction the President had prepared for the press conference by digging up his observations to the press in 1934.

He said he had not changed his view as then expressed that there would be no conflict between government and the utilities if they would return to the old English law of property valuation.

NORTH CHICAGO FOUNDRY STRIKE CALLED BY C. I. O.

A strike affecting the 700 employés of the Chicago Hardware Foundry company in North Chicago was called by C. I. O. officials at noon yesterday in protest, they said, against dismissal of three union leaders who opposed installation of a speedup system in the plant.

Edward B. Sherwin, president of the company, said a study was being made of foundry operation with a view to improving production to meet competition, but denied that any speedup was planned. The engineer making the study was warned to get out of the plant, he declared, by Alex Jaroski and W. Howlett, union stewards, and Philip Lorek. They were paid off immediately.

The strikers work for the foundry and a plant of its affiliate, the Sani-Products company, which are located near the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation, where tear gas bombs ended a long sitdown strike last February.

CHARGE COMPANY UNION FOSTERED BY MISS PERKINS

Federal Workers Seek to Cut Office Red Tape.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The United Federal Workers of America, an organization of government employés affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization, today declared that Secretary Frances Perkins' proposed method for the handling of grievances in the labor department, "if used by employers in private industry would be declared a company union device."

The proposed method was to form a conciliation committee to consist of eleven members, six to represent three unions of government employés [A. F. of L., C. I. O., and independent union], and five others.

Method of Selection.

All are named by the secretary of labor, the union agents from a list of nominations made by their respective organizations [from employés in nonsupervisory positions] and the others from employés in supervisory positions.

The conciliation committee is a device set up in 1933 when there were two unions of government employés interested in a method of handling protests. At that time a conciliation committee of eight was created,

Seek to Avoid Red Tape.

Under an order signed by Secretary Perkins on Oct. 12, 1937, the grievance procedure was modified so that suggestions involving policies of personnel administration are to be presented to the director of personnel, who would study the proposal and then submit it with his findings to the conciliation committee. Upon completion of its deliberations the committee would advise the secretary of its conclusions.

The United Federal Workers of America sought to confer directly with the secretary of labor or her representative without the intermediary step of having grievances routed through the conciliation committee or being compelled to appear jointly with spokesmen of the other government workers' unions.

OHIO GOV. DAVEY ASSAILS LEWIS STRIKE TACTICS

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey, of Ohio, said tonight that John L. Lewis, chairman of the C. I. O., "lost" the Ohio steel strike last spring "because . . . when he could no longer make use of violence, intimidation, and bloodshed, his only weapons for victory were gone."

"I have been accused," the governor told a meeting of the Ohio Society of New York, "of breaking the steel strike. This is not true. Nor did the companies win the strike. John L. Lewis lost that strike. . . . ."

"John L. Lewis had made the public boast that I cannot be governor of Ohio again. I am not so sure that it makes a great deal of difference to me. When the time comes I can walk out of the governor's office with my head erect and with my full self-respect."

HELD TO JURY ON ARSON CHARGE.

Justice of the Peace Charles Hayes of Woodstock yesterday ordered Eugene Conrad, a farm hand, held to the McHenry county grand jury on a charge of arson in $10,000 bond. Sherif Henry Nulle said Conrad confessed setting fires on the farm of Joseph Grivetti, east of Harvard, on Oct. 23.

THE PHANTOM GUEST IN YOUR HOME

THIS week the millions who read LOOK will be brought face to face with their personal problem of hidden taxes.

Thousands of editorials (in type) have discussed the staggering total subtracted from income by pernicious hidden taxes. One picture editorial in LOOK makes the whole matter daylight-clear! (This absorbing feature appears in the Nov. 23rd issue of LOOK, on sale today at all newsstands.)

MOST TALKED-ABOUT MAGAZINE IN AMERICA

LOOK is today the most talked-about magazine in America. Newspaper editors commend it for discussing important social and economic problems in a way everyone can understand. Educators use LOOK in class rooms. Individuals everywhere express approval of LOOK's sound editorial planning.

LOOK is the word-saving, time-saving magazine of this fast-moving age!

A NEW WAY TO INTEREST MILLIONS

LOOK interests millions because LOOK is a new way to interest millions. In ten short months its circulation has reached the amazing figure of two million—a circulation peak which other major magazines required years to reach.

HIGHER RATIO OF READER POWER

A recent survey by Booz Fry Allen & Hamilton, one of the country's leading research organizations, discovered that LOOK develops 50% to 100% more reader interest per page than one of the country's leading weeklies. And it further established that that high interest is stabilized throughout the book : : : that LOOK's back pages get the same high ratio of "reader power" as its first pages!

Advertising orders already on file forecast a big swing to LOOK in 1938!

NATION-WIDE APPROVAL FOR THE SOLID WORTH OF LOOK!

: : : "LOOK promises to print more series of this nature (public events) in an earnest bid to become 'the first mass-circulation magazine which devotes special attention to social issues.'" SCHOLASTIC (The American High School Weekly)

"LOOK : : : is the journalistic marvel of the age. Obviously a journal of such vast circulation can be a tremendous force for good . . . We salute LOOK for its courage : : :" THE NEW REPUBLIC

"America, this strong people, will never let the issues of another world smother it and its liberties . . . that is why we admire the sort of thing LOOK magazine does." THE WISCONSIN STATE JOURNAL

"When the new picture magazines first appeared, we kept our fingers crossed and waited to discover any philosophy in them other than an avid desire for circulation . . . We congratulate Publisher Cowles and Managing Editor Pope for their achievement." THE NATION

"With a circulation of nearly two million LOOK could have clung to an inane tabloid formula. Recent features bear witness to a candid comprehension of social problems." SURVEY GRAPHIC

"Bully for LOOK! It is great that a journal of national circulation and popular appeal should lead the way to counteract . . . intolerance." Marco Morrow, Assistant Publisher, CAPPER PUBLICATIONS

"WE ALL"

"My husband, myself and the children all like REM. Glad to recommend it."

Albert

Mrs. W. M. De Ghelder
3354 Nicholson Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

That's because—

Thousands of mothers, like Mrs. De Ghelder, have found that REM brings prompt relief from coughs. That's why they're glad to "pass the good word along." There are definite reasons why REM brings relief so quickly:

(1) REM is made specifically for coughs resulting from colds.

(2) REM is a real cough medicine, not just a "tickle stopper."

(3) REM is thorough because it works two ways . . . not only in the throat, but also systemically. That's what makes it so very much more effective.

So if you have a cough resulting from a cold, don't fool around with it! Go after it with a real cough medicine like REM.

C. I. O. AND LABOR PEACE BLOCKED BY JOHN L. LEWIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—An agreement on a basis for the drawing up of a peace treaty between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization was blocked today by John L. Lewis, C. I. O. generalissimo, it was learned tonight.

The peace committees of the two rival wings of trades unionism adjourned after Lewis disagreed with his group of conferees over the procedure for the negotiations. The conference will resume on Nov. 18 while in the interim the C. I. O. group will attempt to reach an agreement.

Charge Membership Raids.

The plan which Lewis shied away from provided that subcommittees be formed to iron out jurisdictional quarrels between the unions of the federation and the C. I. O. In addition, these arbitration groups would also be charged with the task of settling domestic difficulties within the C. I. O. itself, for the Lewis forces have been in violent dispute over their own territories. Several C. I. O. leaders have charged membership raids against each other on the one hand while on the other they have invaded A. F. of L. unions.

Under the terms of this program, upon which nearly all the C. I. O. negotiators were reported to have agreed, the Lewis organization would go out of business and one by one his unions would be merged with the A. F. of L. Lewis put his foot down firmly on the scheme during a recess in the afternoon, it was learned. The boss of the C. I. O. won't play ball unless he can pitch and the A. F. of L. wants to put him in the outfield, or perhaps on the bench.

If the plan is accepted Lewis will revert to his old time job as president of the United Mine Workers and be forced to give up his far-flung labor kingdom.

Some Might Return to A. F. of L.

A meeting of the C. I. O. group, for the purpose of discussing the proposal has been called for 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The possibility exists that if Lewis remains adamant that some of his associate union leaders, sick of internal strife, will go back to the A. F. of L., on their own hook.

George M. Harrison, president of the railway clerks and chairman of the federation bargaining group, acted as spokesman when the conferees quit the meeting room.

"We haven't made any agreement on anything, although we have made some progress on these difficult problems," said Harrison. "We discussed the whole field of organization."

Harrison did not offer any specific information on the "progress" of the conference. In the interim until Nov. 18, he said, both sides would probably confer with their officials, President William Green of the A. F. of L. and Lewis of the C. I. O. The two factions will mull over the various propositions introduced.

No Predictions to Make.

Standing at his side, Philip Murray, chairman of the C. I. O. negotiators and head of the steel workers' organizing committee for Lewis, said he had "no predictions" to make on the outcome of the powwow.

It was believed that during the recess Murray and other C. I. O. lieutenants would attempt to obtain Lewis' agreement to the plan of dividing up the negotiations by subcommittees.

The plan follows the general outline advanced by the A. F. of L. conferees and the agreement to follow its pattern is in itself another example of the step by step surrender of the C. I. O. in the negotiations.

The loss of thousands, some reports say hundreds of thousands, of dues paying members by the C. I. O. has contributed more to the capitulation of the Lewis forces than any other single factor.

UNION PAINTERS' STRIKE MAY LOCK OUT CONGRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Another strike in the capitol building today threatened to turn the impending special session of congress into a curbstone gathering.

Forty-two union painters walked out of the capitol and two house office buildings in protest against employment of nonunion men on the gangs which are trying to get the structures into shape by Nov. 15.

Architect David Lynn sent an S O S to the labor department. Unless the strike is settled, he said, members of congress will return to find the doors of the structures locked.

Compromise Is Sought.

The conciliation department called Lynn and Bryce P. Holcombe, business agent of the painters' union, into conference in an effort to mediate the dispute. It was expected a compromise would be effected so the men would be back at work tomorrow.

Last week a strike threatened to tie up the air-conditioning plants of the buildings. It was adjusted. The painters' strike is directly against the United States government by men directly on the government pay roll with no question of outside contractor involved.

Jobs Up to Congressmen.

The strike involves only the capitol and the two house office buildings, the senate office building not being involved. Union painters protested that only union men should be employed. It was explained that this could not be done, because painters are hired when they bring letters of recommendation from senators or members of congress. This same course is followed regarding artisans in other trades.

The strike today was called because Lynn is employing 36 nonunion men along with 42 union men. Being patronage jobs, no questions as to union affiliations are asked. The full scale is paid.

POISON DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

The death of Miss Winifred Anglin, 38 years old, 200 Latrobe avenue, who swallowed poison yesterday in the bathroom of her home, was an accident, a coroner's jury decided later at the inquest.

Your own Milkman

will gladly tell you why your family should drink SOFKURD

● Your own milkman delivers SOFKURD (Mineral Modified Milk) daily to all on his route who request it. He knows that the demand for it is growing by leaps and bounds. He knows, too, the reasons why.

He will tell you that the scientific SOFKURD process takes fresh, sweet, Grade A milk and makes it even more digestible, therefore more nourishing, more beneficial.

SOFKURD remains a liquid throughout digestion. It is more nourishing because a greater percentage of milk's wholesome food value is made available for body use.

It is more beneficial because (remaining liquid throughout digestion) all the fats, minerals, carbohydrates, proteins and vitamins are quickly and easily convertible into body tissues, heat and energy.

Your own milkman will tell you that more and more people are now drinking milk because of the mineral-modifying SOFKURD process. Because SOFKURD "agrees" with everyone. It is pasteurized and has a rich, creamy, country-fresh flavor.

Ask your dairy . . or mark your milk card for SOFKURD . . .

FIRST PERSONAL PROPERTY ROLLS FOR '37 UP 81%

16 Country Townships Get Their Assessments.

Assessor John S. Clark yesterday published his 1937 personal property assessments for sixteen country townships in Cook county, the first fruits of his new policy of basing personalty assessments on federal income tax returns, to which he now has access.

The assessed valuation on personalty for the group of townships totaled $13,557,603, an increase of 81 per cent over the 1936 figure for the same areas. The nature of the townships, however, kept this from being an accurate index of the probable increase in the county as a whole.

Thirteen Rural Townships.

Thirteen of the townships are almost purely rural in character, with little personal property beyond household goods, now exempt from assessment in ordinary households, and tools and stock. Two of the townships, Stickney and Calumet, have considerable manufacturing districts.

The remaining one, Barrington, contains the homes of a number of well-to-do Chicago families, and its increase, Mr. Clark said, reflects in some measure what may be expected from the new system in the way of putting intangible assets—stocks, bonds, and cash—on the assessment rolls.

Stickney township furnished nearly half the total assessments on the list. Its 1937 total is $6,322,528, which is a 184 per cent increase over the 1936 township roll of $2,223,735. These increases, Mr. Clark said, result almost wholly from increased valuations placed on industrial machinery in the Clearing manufacturing district as the result of information gleaned from balance sheets which the concerns in question are required to file with their income tax returns.

Industrial Assessments.

Some of the larger of these industrial assessments for 1936 and 1937 follow, the asterik [*] signifying the taxpayer filed a sworn return:

The Barrington assessment roll increased 116 per cent, from $297,686 in 1936 to $644,504 this year. The majority of the fine estates in the Barrington district, however, are in Lake county.

Number of Items Assessed.

The number of items assessed in the sixteen townships was 5,374 this year as against 5,377 for 1936. In 1935, however, before Assessor Clark struck full value assessments under $400 [largely household goods] off the rolls, they totaled 13,318. Since this is probably a fair index of the reduction throughout the county, it indicates a reduction by more than 50 per cent of the routine costs of billing and collecting personal property taxes.

The county assessor said, however, this saving will be a minor one beside that resulting from a more collectible personal property roll which he believes will result from his new appraisal system. The great evil arising from non-collection of previous personal property taxes has been that local governments extended, anticipated and spent tax funds based on the rolls, but the rolls were never collected and have been largely responsible for budget deficits and financial distress of the governments.

MITZI MAYFAIR.

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Mitzi Mayfair, a Broadway dancer, was back in New York today with first hand knowledge of Jersey justice. She was haled before Magistrate William P. Young in Burlington, N. J., last night and fined $40 for speeding. Mitzi was arrested by an officer who said he chased her thirty miles and that she was doing eighty miles an hour. She was detained until friends arrived with cash to pay her fine.

EMPLOYES' CLUB AT TRIBUNE WILL DIVIDE $209,859

CHICAGO TRIBUNE employés who are members of the Dearborn Mutual Benefit association will receive checks totaling $209,859 next Monday. Fred C. Weber, treasurer, made the announcement yesterday. The amount distributed in 1936 was $191,504.

The association is operated as a Christmas savings club and all employés of THE TRIBUNE are eligible to membership. This year there were 1,803 members, an increase of 78 over last year. Each member pays 25 cents a week for each share purchased, and the maximum number of shares per person is ten. During the year, death benefits of $750 each were paid in twenty-two cases, a total of $16,500.

Officers beside Treasurer Weber are: Joseph Larson, president; Charles Jacobs, secretary, and A. E. Bierma, chairman of the executive committee. The officers are chosen from the members and all departments of THE TRIBUNE are represented on the board of directors. The association was founded more than thirty years ago.

CITY DEATH RATE IS LOWER THAN REST OF STATE'S

Chicago had a lower death rate, infant mortality rate, and mortality rate among mothers in childbirth, than the rest of the state during the first eight months of the year in comparison with the same period last year. In making this announcement yesterday, Mayor Kelly praised the city board of health and Chicago physicians.

Deaths from all causes in Chicago amounted to 24,856, or 10.7 per 1,000 population. Downstate deaths totaled 34,543, a rate of 12, while the total for the state was 59,399, or 11.4 per 1,000.

The infant mortality rate here was 40.8 per 1,000 births, compared with 50.1 downstate and 46.7 for the entire state. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said 40 more Chicago mothers would have died in childbirth in the eight months period if the downstate rate had prevailed.

COURT FREES BOY IN GUN DEATH OF MOTHER'S SUITOR

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Foster Steven Gee, 15 year old, was exonerated in a juvenile court hearing today for fatally shooting his widowed mother's drunken suitor, Floyd G. Petersen, Grand Rapids newspaper man.

Judge F. E. N. Thatcher said there was no evidence the Whitehall, Mich., high school boy was delinquent.

"The testimony indicated that Petersen brought on his own death," Prosecutor Fred Piatt said. "It was alleged he was brandishing a pistol and threatening to kill the entire Gee family."

.410 Shotgun Ends Life.

Young Gee, foster son of Mrs. Ruby L. Gee, whose husband died six years ago, shot Peterson in the head with a .410 gauge shotgun early yesterday morning. Peterson was spending the week-end at the Gee home, which he frequently had done during the two years he had been courting Mrs. Gee.

Only brief testimony was added today to the evidence taken yesterday afternoon at a hearing before Judge Thatcher. M. J. Folkert, superintendent of schools at Whitehall, testified Foster is a good student, but recently had neglected his studies, apparently because of worry.

Worried Over Mother.

"I had been worried about Peterson bothering my mother," Foster said. "I feared for her safety. He had been coming to the home often and was drinking a lot."

Foster, although nervous, was in good spirits and anxious to "get back to school and see the kids."

Today's WOMEN . . . Today's JOURNAL

If you're a woman, a glance over the last dozen issues of the Journal will give you a new pride in your sex.

Here, at last, you'll say, is a magazine that is edited for women as human beings, with an editorial policy wide enough and fearless enough to take in all the interests of the woman of today.

Not just her interest in homemaking and food buying and child rearing; but in the whole living world around her. Politics. Social relationships. War. The beneficent acts of Science. The behavior of men and of nations.

* * *

THE AMERICAN WOMAN OF TODAY has a freer mind than the woman of fifty years ago. She isn't afraid of the new, the strange, even the shocking. Not if it's true. She isn't afraid to plunge below the surface, confront the underside of things as they are.

It is for this more realistic, more curious, more honest woman of 1938 that the Journal is planned—is edited—and is printed.

American women have been wanting this kind of women's magazine. That's why more people are reading today's Journal than ever before in its history.

Read the December Journal! Then reflect for a moment . . . THREE MILLION WOMEN WILL BUY IT! MANY TIMES THREE MILLION WILL READ IT!

WHY CAN'T WE KEEP OUT OF WAR?

Mrs. Roosevelt as a lecturer in Chicago said that 98 per cent of the American people desired peace and were determined to keep out of war but that isolation was difficult or impossible to maintain. People relying on it did not take into full account all the factors which intertwine the destinies of one people with others. The President's remarks, she said, had been misinterpreted. What he meant was that people, regardless of their will and their best efforts, might be unable to keep out of troubles arising outside of their own country and spreading throughout the world.

The idea that international relations have so interlocked the affairs of people of various countries that none can rely upon itself for its own security is dominating in circles in which there is the most talk of peace. The theory is insidious because it prevails where the devotion against war is assumed to be strongest.

A country whose territory is threatened by the ambitions and operations of greater powers is manifestly in danger. If a nation lies in the path of a warlike march it may fear that it will be another Belgium. There are small countries in Europe which have that fear today. One is Czechoslovakia, which, with an admirable system of government and a peaceable, progressive population, finds itself in danger. Austria also is unfortunate. Peoples with restless, aggressive, and powerful neighbors may look to the future as somewhat beyond their power to manage.

With the United States conditions are different and it is a mistake to begin consideration of trouble abroad by conceding the improbability of American immunity from them. In such thinking the initial impulse is wrong. It concedes what ought not to be recognized. It is not impossible or beyond the power of wise American government to protect the people of the United States from events abroad which do not involve their national welfare.

Ideas of what are right and wrong in international relations may be largely matters of personal view and sympathy. That they can be promoted externally to benefit another nation seeking its own advantage is well known. We have definite ideas of what a nation should do to keep place with other people. When what we consider right is entirely disregarded by some power whose military might we instinctively fear, we will hear a great deal against the ruthless nation and be told that something ought to be done about it. That's the way we start.

The United States could have avoided taking part in the world war. It is a costly myth that escape was impossible. Our government chose to regard certain aggravations, admittedly grievous and hard to bear, as unescapable causes for entering that costly and deadly conflict. If these causes had stood by themselves entirely they would have yielded, as many others have, to adjustment if, moreover, the American government had been respected as the real power of the nation entitled it to be. Back of these causes which provoked the war was a sentiment which had been fostered during the years of American immunity, driving the nation into a conflict in which, as the treaty of peace sufficiently revealed, there were no American interests purely regarded as such.

Nineteen years ago American conscripts in Europe were falling by the thousands before machine guns. A year later America looked in vain at the assemblage of European peacemakers at Versailles to discover one particular in the outcome of the war which justified the sacrifices. The safety of democracy, the freedom of the seas, the rights of minorities, the self-determination of peoples, the destruction of militarism, international government by treaties, the personal liberty of the individual man, the blessings of universal peace, the brotherhood of man, the renunciation of war—all these inspired phrases and lofty ideals disappeared like morning mist. Look at the world today.

Now, with a new generation of Americans arrived at military age, we are plagued with a recurrence of the sentiments as phrases which overpowered what is still proclaimed as the instinctive American desire not to wage useless wars. Again we are told that so complex are the affairs of the world that no one nation can count upon its own resources for its own security. Again the mistakes, the perverted ambitions, the ambitions, rancors and misgovernment of countries the United States cannot control are supposed to involve us in their calamities and crimes. The idea that we must should be subdued by the determination that we shall not be. That determination is not strengthened by official declarations that there are mad governments and destroying armies which the United States must quarantine and subdue.

Such declarations seek war before it has arisen. America is told that it has enemies when none attacks. It is told that it has responsibilities where none exists. Under such influence it already has signed agreements which it cannot in common sense meet. We can keep out of war, but not by going out to meet it half way.

TAXI CHARGES.

Before the city council yields to pressure for higher taxi rates it should give serious consideration to the opinion of Mayor Kelly that a lowering of rates rather than a raising would benefit taxi drivers as well as the public. Chicago rates, he points out, are in terms about the same as those of New York, the nearest comparable city, but the short haul in New York is much cheaper than the short haul in Chicago, and it is in this field that increased returns are to be found.

There is no doubt that much patronage is lost in Chicago because a short ride is more expensive than the average man is willing to pay if he can avoid it, as he can in various ways for a short distance. Men take cabs in New York city, in spite of congestion, for short distances because the charge is low for delay; in New York an allowance of 6 minutes before delay charge begins, in Chicago 10 cents for delay of 3 minutes, but the first period amounts to only 90 seconds.

In short, our plan throws the heaviest charge on the short trip, with the result of discouraging custom. A trip across the loop costs from 35 to 45 cents exclusive of tip, under average conditions. It would be worth while, it seems to us, to try cultivating cab-mindedness in the downtown district and put passengers in the empty cabs that now cruise interminably through loop streets.

The taxi driver should have a good living wage. He is a skilled man and should be compensated for his skill and experience. But it is doubtful that making his commodity more costly will help him to sell more of it, and it seems probable, especially in times when easy spending is not likely, except by government, that lowering fares would bring him a better total return. From the point of view of public utility it would be a desirable improvement of our transport facilities in the business district.

RESPONSIBLE LEGISLATORS.

In his address at the banquet given in his honor by the Kiwanis clubs of Chicago, Mr. Frank J. Loesch calls attention to a defect in the Illinois constitution which needs correction. The constitution provides that no person holding a lucrative office under the United States or this state shall hold a seat in the general assembly. But this prohibition does not cover holders of any county, city, town, park district or other municipal office.

"The result," said Mr. Loesch, "is that a number of the legislators are holders of local salaried offices. They represent and are the creatures of the men who put them into salaried jobs and who control their votes. The voters are generally ignorant of these facts, and in electing such men the people deprive themselves of that independent representation in the legislature which the constitution intended to secure for them."

It is certain a free responsiveness to the voters who elect him is the first duty of the legislator. It should not be deflected by personal responsibility to political bosses. If we are to have responsible lawmaking and laws expressive of the people's will we must have legislators responsible only to their electors. Mr. Loesch has pointed the way to the removal of a serious obstruction to good government in Illinois.

WHO WILL WIN?

No city in America has suffered under the rule of the alliance of crime and corrupt politics more than New York. From time to time there has been revolt and good citizenship has asserted itself. The late election is an example of citizen power and after the long years of misrule there is hope that better days have come. But it is a hope only. Mr. Dewey has shown all the qualities of a leader against the monster, but single handed, as he is likely to find himself so far as political machinery is concerned, he faces a tremendous task. Public support may fade, as it has so often in the past, and the alliance, which does not sleep, may defeat him in the end.

If Mr. Dewey wins he may go far. But political conditions long and deeply entrenched in the life of New York City may prove to be too much even for so valorous and formidable a champion as he has shown himself to be. The test is not only his. It is primarily that of the people of his great city.

Editorial of the Day

TO THE CONSTITUTION'S DEFENSE.

[Danville (Ill.) Commercial-News.]

A plan to enroll 10 million American citizens—5 million Democrats and 5 million Republicans—is announced by the National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government.

The committee, which led the popular fight against the President's Supreme court packing plan, is not content with its temporary victory in the senate last summer.

It realizes that the President's determination to warp the court to his purposes is unbending; that, in spite of official avowals to the contrary, an effort will be made in the elections of 1938 to defeat the Democratic senators who led the fight and the Republicans who stood solidly opposed.

It realizes that a new senate and a new house may be asked again to consider the dangerous step again.

The committee does not make the issue a partisan one. It is not a partisan issue in any sense of the word. Whatever any voter thinks about the wisdom of the President's objectives and methods on other matters, there is a unity of feeling among thousands of voters that the government's powers or the President's should not be changed except by the methods the constitution provides.

The committee is constantly receiving letters from persons in all walks of life and of all shades of political belief commanding its efforts as a fight against unconstitutional one-man rule.

The committee and its thousands of supporters recognize that an attack on the Supreme court, or on the men who defended it, is an attack on free speech, a free press, freedom of worship, and freedom from arbitrary denial of individual right by legislatures and courts.

A court made up of men chosen, as Justice Black was chosen, in a vindictive attempt to force the President's will against any other considerations, would give scant consideration to such rights if they stood in the way of a temporary objective.

Ten million free men and women will be a powerful force to prevent further attack.

EVERYBODY'S SAFE.

Clerk—A good idea. But, by the way, our terms for guests with fire escapes are cash in advance.—Toronto Globe-Mail.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

THE MAN WITH THE FOGHORN VOICE, some people call the old gentleman who exhorts loop sinners to repent. We tried various distances, so that we could tell you about him today, and can assure you that he can be heard for three blocks. At a range of half a block he's more easily understood than at twenty paces, for the volume is deafening when he's close. For more than thirty years (he believes it's thirty-two) he has been waving his Bible, calling upon sinners to mend their ways, and passing out religious cards downtown. You'll find him at work every Monday, no matter what the weather, stalking up and down La Salle, Clark, and Dearborn streets; he doesn't think there are any more sinners on those streets, proportionately, but he gets his message to more people there. At 89 he believes his voice is getting stronger from constant use. Yelling never makes him hoarse or hurts his throat.

Although loop crowds see him but once a week, he is working the rest of the time at his home out in Morgan Park. For many years he has been writing the words and music to biblical songs. With that task nearing completion he's hoping to find some one who will finance the publication. When he finds some one who is interested he sings his songs in a vibrant, melodious voice that carries almost as far as his preachings. He is a stern, uncompromising figure in his long black coat, worn now, but obviously expensive. His tie is always of spotless white. Hecklers he seldom meets. He has no desire to punish those he does encounter, but punish them he does, nevertheless, drowning them out with his lusty voice in his effort to win them over and leaving them looking a bit foolish because they haven't the lung power to get what they wanted to say before the crowd. Long years of shouting have made it difficult for him to speak in a conversational tone. In a casual discussion of his work he may break into a roar that rumbles and echoes down the street.

He has no income, he says, and contributions to his work have aggregated no more than $25 in all the years that he has been about it. How, then, does he finance himself? That, he implies, is a personal matter that he does not feel called upon to explain. Many are the evangelists and ministers he has known, he says; yet he has never felt the urge to study for the ministry. There is more to be accomplished, as he sees it, calling the attention of those who might never get to church to the advantages of living right.

YOU.

I heard of you last night through tongues of gossips;
They say your end is destined to be bad.
Your so-called friends agreed you'd earned your trials,
The while I thought of yesteryears we had.

Defiantly I joined the whispered jesting
And said this more than justified my fears;
But in the silent shadows of the midnight
I found my pillow wet with sudden tears.

For even though love dies mid youthful passions
To bloom, more beautiful, some later spring,
The heart still holds a scar from its disaster,
That brings a message for remembering.

WELL, IT WASN'T A DUCK.

"I have had a very unpleasant experience during the past two weeks and I suppose I might as well tell about it. My trouble began with a buzzing in my left ear, and it bothered me every now and then, so on Monday I went up to Williamsburg and called on Dr. Sinn. He located a large wood tick on the ear drum in my ear. Well, the doctor pulled the tick out and it was about a half inch in diameter, alive, and seemed to be thriving nicely. When I saw the tick I felt like swearing, and in fact the doctor did swear a little. My ear is still very sore and if anything like that happens to me again, I will call on a doctor immediately."—Holbrook correspondent in Williamsburg, Ia., Shopper, via A. H.

CO-OPERATION MEANS SAFE CHILDBIRTH.

IT was Oliver Wendell Holmes, the poet-physician, who focused public attention upon puerperal fever—that dread affliction which has cost the lives of so many mothers. In his memorable essay published in 1843 he proved beyond question that infection could be carried from the chamber of one lying-in woman to that of another by the physician, the nurse, or the midwife. That it was done regularly was shown by the long mortality lists.

The medical profession, the public, and civic organizations are now launched on a nation-wide campaign of education in an effort to make childbirth less hazardous. Due to advances in modern obstetrics, the erection of well equipped hospitals, and the better training of nurses and physicians, it has been possible to protect the mother in ways hitherto undreamed of and, for the last few years, the death rate has been falling steadily.

But mothers themselves must bear a large share of the responsibility. It is not difficult to obtain the necessary knowledge so that any reasonably intelligent person can observe signs of trouble which may ensue during the rather long period before the baby arrives. The wisest thing, of course, is to consult a careful physician as soon as the fact of pregnancy is established. He in turn will take the blood pressure, examine the urine, look for complicating elements, such as tuberculosis or infection, and then give instructions as to diet, exercise, and numerous other factors.

But every prospective mother will not visit the doctor. She may rely on a grandmother—possibly a neighbor—whose chief recommendation is that she has had eleven children [four of whom are living]. The advice thus procured—in some instances—is perfectly sound; in others, it is likely not to be. As a result, eclampsia [a much dreaded complication] may develop, jeopardizing the life of both mother and babe. If the situation is identified in time, if the physician is alert and competent, there is no occasion for apprehension; but if a convulsion appears out of a clear sky an inexcusable emergency manifests itself.

Ignorance and indifference play an important rôle. In many of our large cities one may be perfectly sure that at least one-third of all maternal deaths can be attributed to gross stupidity, superstition, or utter lack of coöperation on the part of the patients. Furthermore, the majority of those who lose their lives from infection have not consulted a physician.

Prevention of disaster requires an aroused public—cognizant of the fact that childbirth, while a normal, natural process in the present state of our civilization cannot be considered 100 per cent safe unless we employ the skill acquired through the centuries.

One of the most prominent causes of catastrophe is abortion; in fact, 22 per cent of all fatalities arising from pregnancy may be laid on the doorstep of this deadly type of interference. With proper supervision every woman may look forward confidently to a healthy baby and a speedy recovery. But many thousands will fail to survive illegal tampering. This largely is a social and a moral problem.

We will not stem the tide until the public is brought face to face with the disastrous consequences. The number of casualties reported in the public press is only a fraction of those which actually occur. If every woman knew the risk she was running, there would be far more hesitation than at present before undergoing the clandestine procedure. Let society reframe its attitude toward the unmarried girl and protect her wisely. "There are no illegitimate children but many illegitimate parents."

ABOUT BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

J. M. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of Bright's disease?

2. Is this disease hereditary?

REPLY.

1. The onset of Bright's disease may be without obvious manifestations, except for changes in the urine. In some mild cases there may be slowly developing dropsy with anemia, shortness of breath, and weakness. If, however, the trouble begins suddenly there will be nausea, violent and persisting vomiting, and fever. The urine is reduced in amount. The skin may be pasty in appearance. Dropsy soon appears. Anemia and weakness are marked. Uremic symptoms—with unconsciousness—may develop at any time during an attack. The blood pressure may be increased. The urine may be smoky in color, due to the presence of blood. Albumin is found in large quantities.

2. The disease is not hereditary. Cold and exposure, scarlet fever, diphtheria, malaria, acute tonsilitis, pregnancy, and the continuous use of irritants are the most common causes.

AFTER LOSING FINGER.

E. C. writes: I am a victim of blood poisoning. Last November I had to have the index finger of my right hand amputated, which left that hand stiff. I have been going to the hospital every week for baking and massage. Is there anything I could do to bring my hand back to normal? My occupation is that of a butler and I doubt if I can ever follow it again.

REPLY.

You are doing all that can be done to restore your hand to usefulness. No doubt a tendon sheath became infected. Early attention to such conditions is the price we pay for safety. Many men who have lost a finger learn to use the hand skillfully.

SOAPS FOR BATHING.

F. B. F. writes: Recently my eyes became inflamed and the irritation persisted for several weeks. I was using a bath soap that contained a strong antiseptic. Could this be the cause? Since substituting another brand the trouble has disappeared.

REPLY.

Without doubt. Cases have been reported in which strong antiseptics used in the bath water have irritated not only the skin but the conjunctiva of the eyes. No one should use a medicated soap unless there is a distinct reason for so doing, and care should be taken not to allow the suds to come into contact with the eyes.

A BAD HABIT.

M. R. writes: Why are pacifiers for babies harmful?

REPLY.

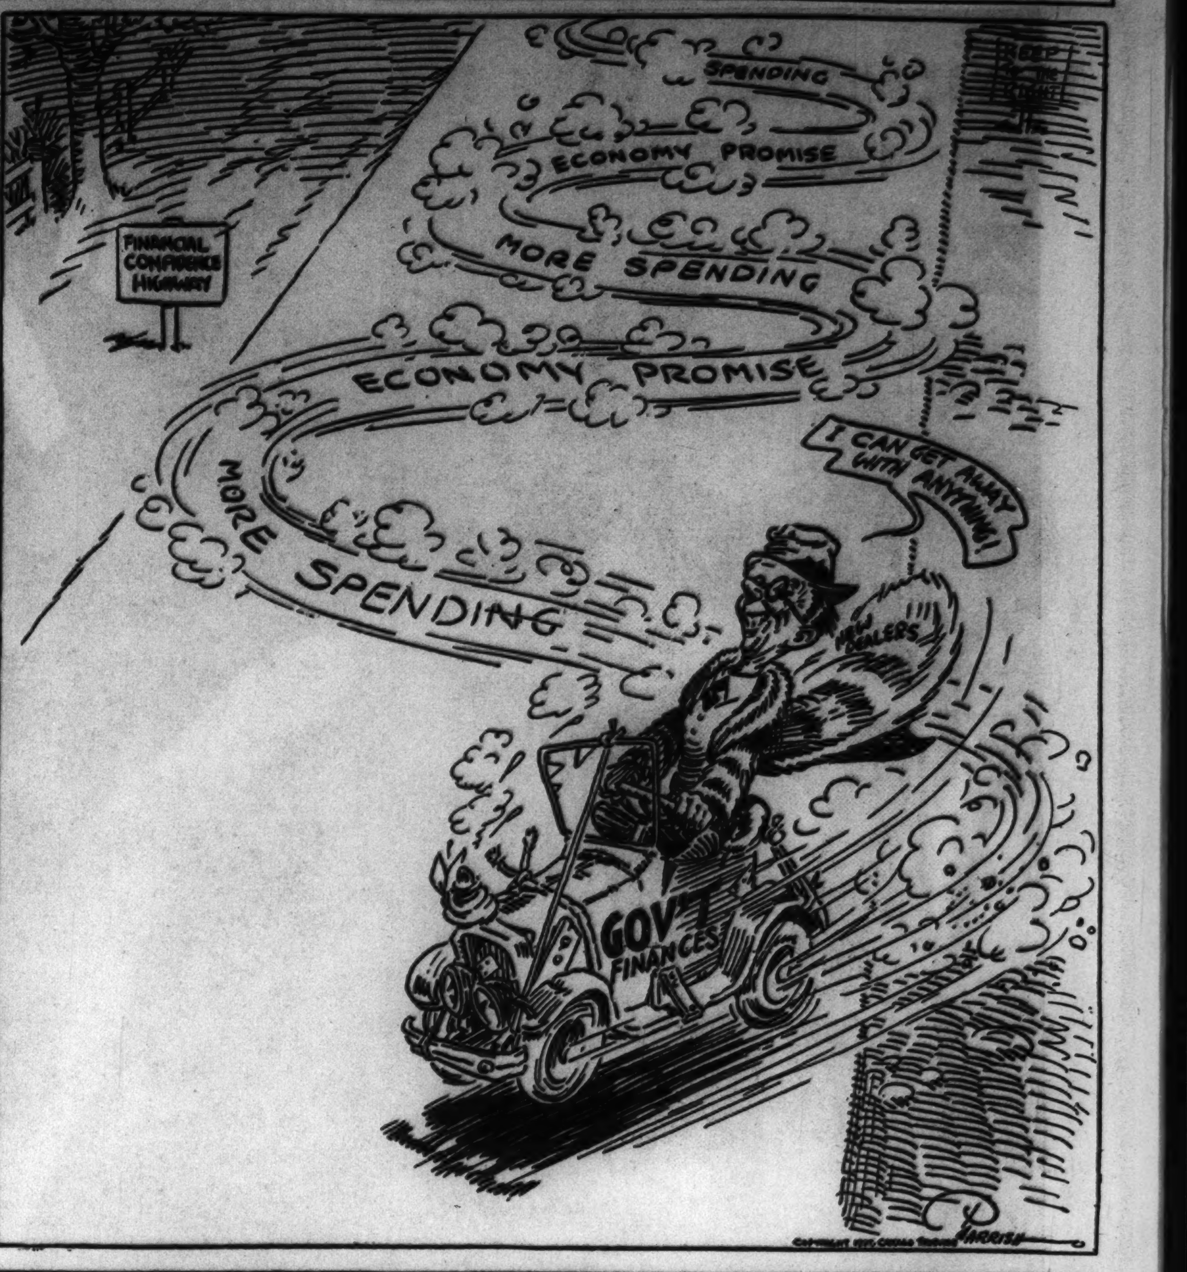
THE SNAKE DRIVER



From Across the Sea

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—No trade union or Socialist party leader will in the future speak on any platform in favor of recruiting for the defense services, it has been decided.

Their view is that promotion from the ranks to the officer classes must be made easier, and the individual soldier no longer can be expected to serve for a short term and then be thrown on the labor market technically unqualified.

Maj. Clement Attlee, chief of the Parliamentary party, and other leaders believe that if the army can be held up to a young man as a career, or if the serving soldier is given the position and pay of a skilled factory worker, the recruiting problem will disappear.

They have consulted army staf officers of the younger school, who agree with this, and have said they believe any future war will be decided not by armies in the mass, but by individual quality and initiative.

Socialist leaders, however, see that logically they must support the decisions of the party and the unions in favor of rearmament.

Therefore, they will back the campaign for recruits for the skilled engineering branches of the defense services provided that pay is raised to an appropriate level.

What they will not do is to stump the country in an effort to induce young men to join the army merely to become foot-slogging infantrymen, who older officers insist will continue to be the dominating factor in any war.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

DOG CHORUSES.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—[Friend of the People.]—Crowing roosters are classed as a public nuisance and are not tolerated in the city. Why are not barking dogs put under the same classification? In the 6100 block of this street there are two very large and vicious dogs which are the worst nuisance one could think of. They bark early in the morning and late at night, waking the whole neighborhood, and in barking attract the attention of three more dogs in the house just south of them. Our babies cannot sleep and we are at the end of our patience and endurance after about four years of this. We neighbors wish to know what measures to take to stop this before we are driven to drastic measures of getting rid of them. Could you refer this to the right department or tell us what measures to take to stop this noise? J. J.

The officer assigned reports he interviewed the owner of the two dogs and instructed her to abate the nuisance or her two dogs would be impounded. She had license tags for both dogs. Regarding the house to the south, the officer reports the owner of the three dogs has licenses for all dogs. She also was instructed to keep the dogs from causing annoyance through the neighborhood and warned unless same was complied with proper action would be taken. The officer has been instructed to keep this location under observation and prevent any future cause for complaint.

CLAIM AGAINST DECEASED.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Eighteen months after my wife's death I received a bill from a dentist, claiming he had worked on her teeth, although he was not our regular dentist. Would like to know [2] if there is a specified time limit in which creditors should present bills against a deceased person. I also received a bill from a garage claiming I owed them money for work done on my car in 1932, of which I know nothing. Does Illinois have a statute of limitations on such bills, and if so, how long can be it legally collectible? F. B. G.

1. The Illinois evidence act states that the claimant is not permitted to testify in his own behalf in support of a claim against the deceased person.

2. Claims are barred in one year from the commencement of probate proceedings. In absence of probate the period is seven years.

THE TELEPHONE AS TYRANT.

Decatur, Ill., Nov. 6.—I am building a home in the suburbs and have occasion to come into Chicago to buy most of the supplies that are not available in our town. These purchases have run into several thousand dollars, but I have had one exasperating experience everywhere I buy. I will have the attention of a salesman until the telephone rings and then I can wait until he gets through, regardless of how unimportant the call is. Often we have been interrupted four or five times in an hour. If some other customer comes in person he can wait, but some chap can sit in his office or some woman in her home and waste my valuable time by the hour.

Why must a telephone call take precedence over some one who has traveled miles to make personal selections?

I have decided that I have received this discourteous treatment for the last time and will walk out on the next salesman who leaves me to answer the telephone. LESLIE WHITE.

DIET IN OLD AGE.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 4.—Your editorial in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE recently in regard to the diet peculiarly suited to old age has brought me hundreds of letters of inquiry. It was a slip of my tongue in saying "alkaline diet" instead of "alkaline-dominant" diet. I meant to say that an alkaline-dominant diet served to the aged consistently will perk them up in body, mind, and spirit and tend to change their entire attitude toward life, with a renewed interest in its current affairs. I have dealt with this matter intimately in the management of my 1,000 member School of Maturates—all over 70 years old—and have witnessed personally the stimulating, curative effects of such a regimen of diet. I advocate the use of all good normal foods, but urge the alkaline-dominant menus for the aged as well as finding them health-giving for the younger generations.

CALAMITY.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—In so far as it is responsible for the duke's abandonment of his proposed American tour, THE TRIBUNE will bear a terrible responsibility before history. It is a greater calamity than the world war. Most people feel that, had the duke been permitted to study conditions in the United States for a whole month, his advice [if followed] would have put an end forever to all our labor, financial, and other troubles.

Something must be done about this.

CROWDED "L" TRAINS.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Why is it necessary to remove two or three cars from the Evanston express trains, loop bound, before 9 o'clock in the morning? I board this train every morning about 8:30 o'clock at Main street, Evanston. It is a five or six car train instead of being an eight car train as it should be to come anywhere near giving ordinary cattle car comfort. EVANSTONIAN.

SUPPOSITION.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Father and Son Roosevelt visiting Mundelein and me speaking at Temple Sholom, I suppose squares the Ku Klux appointment to the Supreme court. S. I.

DWELLINGS OF THE MIDDLE WEST.

Paris, Ill., Nov. 7.—This is in reply to your editorial, "Domestic Dwellings of the Midwest." The question the editorial asks is why the early settlers of the midwest did not carry the tradition of good domestic architecture with them to their new lands.

The answer is that they did. A trip throughout the midwest before the civil war would have shown domestic architecture at as high a level as in the east. Farmhouses, city dwellings, schoolhouses, and even commercial buildings exhibited the fine proportions and careful detailing characteristic of the architecture we are now inclined to associate with the Atlantic seaboard. In communities settled by southerners the work had all the features typical of the land from which they came. Emigrants from other sections brought their own styles and these were modified only in such ways as demanded by the differences in material available, which, but for the lack of building stone, was little. A good deal of this work was modified by the heavy hand of the Greek revival which swept the country at this time, but this left its mark in the east as much as in the west.

That so little of this now remains is due to the fact that most of this work did not survive the ravages of time, neglect, fire, and progress, especially of progress in a city like Chicago, where, in addition, the great fire destroyed many of the older examples. Then, too, a great and rapid deterioration of the quality of domestic work set in shortly after the civil war and most of the rural portions of the northern part of the state were not settled until then.

But if the editor will make an observing trip through some of the older settlements of the midwest he will find thousands of examples of fine old work. He can find in this neighborhood large old houses with two story galleries across front and back, built by emigrants from the south, tiny city dwellings that might have been moved directly from Connecticut. Along the waterfronts of great cities of pioneer days are blocks of brick structures directly from Philadelphia. He can find whole towns, like Madison, Ind., almost untouched by time, which will gladden the heart of any one sick of the gingerbread and pseudo-classic of our present cities.

JOHN C. RIEDELL.

IT WAS SO LISTED IN COL. 5.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—On page 21 of THE TRIBUNE for Nov. 8 appears a dispatch stating that Lafayette was the only undefeated, untied football team in the east. My old alma mater, Alfred university, Alfred, N. Y., also has a perfect record. It has played six games and won all of them. Alfred is over 100 years old with a small enrollment [under a thousand] and its schedule included teams from larger schools. Give her a break. A. E. WEBSTER.

A NEW DEAL, INDEED.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Today in passing through a department store I saw a sign on a counter advertising a sale of playing cards at 21 cents a deck.

There is an internal revenue stamp tax of 10 cents a deck on playing cards and the sales tax adds another cent. In other words, an article selling for 11 cents bears a direct 11 cent tax.

BURLESQUE GIRL WEDS LORD WITH 10 MILLION YEAR

Trades $3 a Day Job for Castles and Yacht.

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Rosezell Rowland, the Brooklyn girl who won renown as the "golden girl" of burlesque, was married in Budapest last Thursday to Baron Jean Empain, multi-millionaire Belgian, her mother revealed today.

Five years ago when she was 17, Miss Rowland had a $3 a day job at a burlesque theater, appearing clad in gold paint. This costume attracted the attention of the young baron when she appeared in London's Dorchester house, and in February, 1935, a report came from England that they were to be married.

Miss Rowland's mother, Mrs. Alvah B. Rowland, exhibited a radiogram from the former burlesque star, confirming the marriage.

Two Sisters on Stage.

The Rowlands live in a small apartment. Rosezell has three sisters. One, Lorraine, is married and lives in Columbus, O. Diane, who is a performer in night clubs, and Betty Jane, a dancer, live at home with their parents. Rosezell's father is a hotel clerk.

Mrs. Rowland did not seem greatly excited over her daughter's marriage to the wealthy baron. She was more concerned, she said, over the likelihood of her daughter losing her American citizenship.

10 Million Yearly Income.

The baron has an income estimated at $10,000,000 a year and is chief stockholder of the Paris subway system. Further than that, he has immense houses in Brussels, London, and in Egypt. He owns a stable of race horses, has a yacht formerly in possession of the German kaiser, and maintains a big plane.

Does Miss Rowland ever send home money or trinkets?

"No," said Mrs. Rowland. "The baron probably wouldn't like that. And anyway, the duty on trinkets is too high."

3 LEGION POSTS PLAN ARMISTICE SERVICE IN LOOP

Supplementing Chicago's official Armistice day service tomorrow morning at the City hall, another ceremony will be held at 11 a. m. at State and Madison streets under the auspices of the Carson Pirie Scott post No. 314, the Mandel Brothers post no. 103 and the Marine post No. 275 of the American Legion. The three posts will entertain the Allied World War council staf at luncheon in the men's grill room of Mandel Brothers' store.

Van Buren post No. 401 of the Legion will hold its Armistice day program in the lobby of the new postoffice building. Among the guests will be Edward Younger, who picked the unknown soldier, Francis H. Jeffrey, who carried the first American flag over the top, and Bergen Loman, who received many war decorations.

Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Protestant Episcopal church, a war chaplain, will deliver the Armistice day address at Armour Institute of Technology.

WINS PROBATION ON GUN CHARGE.

Arrested with an automatic pistol on the floor of his automobile, John DeYoung, 26 years old, 601 West 105th street, was put on probation for a year yesterday by Municipal Judge Eugene Holland on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

She Sues Again

Mrs. Claire Borin, who filed suit for divorce yesterday against Nathan Borin, thus ending reconciliation. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BORINS STRIKE NEW RIFT; WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

Charges Cruelty; 2 Yr. Reconciliation Ends.

After becoming reconciled two years ago following a bitter domestic wrangle in the courts, Nathan Borin, wealthy head of the Borin Art Products company, and his young wife, the former Claire Burman, are again separated.

This became known yesterday when Mrs. Borin, through Attorney Abe Marovitz, filed suit for divorce in the Superior court. Her bill says she left Borin Nov. 1 because of his cruelty. She asks alimony compatible with her husband's $25,000 annual income.

Mrs. Borin, who is 26 years old, lives at 4300 Sheridan road. In 1932 she won second place in a movie contest here and the following year she married Borin at Agua Caliente, Mexico.

Reconciliation Ends Suit.

Three months later, on Feb. 24, 1934, Mrs. Borin filed her first bill for separate maintenance, but dropped it after a reconciliation. Borin took the next step a year later in bringing a $500,000 suit for alienation of affections against Ephriam M. Asher, Hollywood producer.

Mrs. Borin countered immediately with her second separate maintenance bill, alleging cruelty. Her husband filed a cross bill for divorce, accusing her of misconduct with Asher.

Through the testimony of Harley Edrington, Asher's former chauffeur, Borin aired his charges of infidelity at a hearing in June, 1935, before a master in chancery.

Trysts Told by Chauffeur.

Edrington told of trysts between the movie magnate and Mrs. Borin at his Beverly Hills home, in automobiles, and hotel rooms. It was at this time Borin said that his wife stopped writing him passionate letters. Mrs. Borin denied his allegations.

In September of 1935 Borin dropped his alienation of affections suit, stating that Asher had made a settlement. Mrs. Borin subsequently announced she and her husband were living together again, and that their cross bills had been dropped.

SIGMA CHI PAYS TRIBUTE TONIGHT TO M'CUTCHEON

More than 500 members of the Sigma Chi alumni chapter of Chicago are expected to attend a testimonial banquet in honor of John T. McCutcheon, TRIBUNE cartoonist, and Mrs. McCutcheon at the Lake Shore Athletic club tonight.

The occasion is the 50th anniversary of Mr. McCutcheon's initiation into the fraternity at Purdue university in 1887. George Ade, noted humorist who pledged Mr. McCutcheon back in 1887, will make the principal address. Milton Caniff, creator of the "Terry and the Pirates" comic strip, who also is a Sigma Chi alumnus, will come from New York to attend. The present Sigma Chi chapter at Purdue will send a delegation of sixteen members.

As a special tribute to Mr. McCutcheon a score of nationally known cartoonists have contributed special drawings for a souvenir newspaper which will be distributed at the banquet.

Two Held to Grand Jury in Want Ad Girl Kidnaping

Charged with kidnaping Miss Velma Peterson, 21 years old, 2859 Lexington street, when she answered a newspaper advertisment for housework, Miss Josephine Serba, 21 years old, 5658 South Ashland avenue, and Herbert Reed, 31 years old, colored, 4554 South Park avenue, were held to the grand jury yesterday on $5,000 bonds each by Judge Joseph A. Graber in Felony court.

EXILED ETHIOPIAN RULER TO SELL HIS BRITISH HOME

Finds It Costs Too Much to Keep Up.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Haile Selassie, exiled emperor of Ethiopia, wants to sell his house, Fairfield, in the suburb of Bath. This was announced tonight. He finds that it costs him too much to keep it up.

If a purchaser is found Selassie will rent a small house in Bath, it was said.

Followers of Selassie claim his financial difficulties have arisen because he has used most of the money from the sale of valuables and bullion which he brought with him from Ethiopia to help Ethiopian refugees in Palestine and British Somaliland.

Maintains Many Servants.

The exiled emperor, who is an honorary member of a swanky Bath country club, has cut his housekeeping bills to a minimum. A meat fast is held at Fairfield two days every week. The staple food is curry [a stew] and vegetables grown in the garden. Although there are many servants, including an English nurse, a maid, and a local gardener, the former empress herself sometimes helps prepare vegetables for dinner.

Selassie frequently has bought oranges from a stall in one of the cheaper department stores in the city. He and his family now walk around Bath almost unnoticed. The former emperor daily walks down the hill from Fairfield and strolls along the main Bath-Bristol road, a conspicuous figure in his black coat and derby hat.

His Gold Plate Vanishes.

Fairfield is a solid Victorian house, heavily proportioned in Bath stone. Little of the furniture, apart from the former emperor's desk, came from the palace at Addis Ababa. Most of it, ornate end gilded, was bought in London by an Ethiopian who was sent ahead to prepare the house. Much of the former emperor's gold plate vanished from the strong room which he had specially constructed in the extensive cellars of the house.

Ethiopian golds cups and ornaments recently have been on view in the windows of a Bath jewelry shop. One large cup presented to Selassie by the late King George V. of Great Britain will be retained by the former emperor, it is reported, even if he and his family become destitute.

Fairfield has five principal bedrooms and two bathrooms. There are three servants' bedrooms and six bedrooms in the combined garage and gardener's cottage.

If the former emperor takes a smaller house, most of his dependants will be boarded out elsewhere or will travel to Palestine.

Du Page County to Pay Cost of Courthouse Annex Job

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Anthony Kircher, 62, a retired letter carrier, took a busman's holiday by hiking 67 miles into the wilds of New Jersey on an event sponsored by the Walk-for-Health club. He and George P. Paine, 54, a retired baker, were the only two of the large field to reach the destination, Blair academy in Warren county. After arrival they discovered there were no autos to take them home, so they had to hitch hike.

HEAD OF BRAZIL MOVES TO CREATE DICTATOR RULE

Corporate State Planned in New Constitution.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Francisco Campos, chief collaborator in the draft of a new constitution which is being considered to establish a corporate state for Brazil, was sworn in today as minister of justice and interior. Politically, this is the key post in the cabinet of President Getulio Vargas.

Term Expires in 1938.

The present term of President Vargas expires May 3, 1938, under the constitution promulgated in 1934. The constitution is now partly in abeyance under a state of war decreed Oct. 2 because of purported communist danger to the nation. Reelection of a president is expressly forbidden under the 1934 constitution.

While the exact terms of the proposed new constitution were not disclosed, it was learned that it follows lines of the Portuguese constitution.

It was said that the contemplated régime would vest executive powers in a president with indeterminate term of office, would vest limited legislative powers on a "corporate assembly" and certain powers of opinion on a "council of experts or elders."

Plan Executive Cabinet.

There would be an executive cabinet, in part responsible to the legislature, but whose chief would be picked by the president.

SOUTHWARD, HO! IS TRAVELERS' CRY THIS WINTER

Big Liners to Plough Tropic Seas.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

With most of the far east removed from the tourist map because of the Sino-Japanese war, this winter's travel will turn southward. South America, the West Indies, the Mediterranean, and the Antipodes will reap a record harvest.

Four huge liners—the Normandie, the Aquitania, the Empress of Australia, and the Rex—are to go on cruises to Rio de Janeiro. Three others — the Rotterdam, the Gripsholm, and the Columbus—will make journeys of from 47 to 61 days clear around South America. Never before have there been so many cruises to that continent.

Set a Cruise Record.

Last month it was announced that the trans-Atlantic lines would have eighty-eight cruises to the West Indies. Now the total has been increased to more than 100. This also sets a new mark.

Instead of visiting the major ports of China and Japan, the world cruises on the Empress of Britain, the Reliance, and the Franconia will veer off southward from India and call on Australia, New Zealand, and the Fiji Islands.

At least three liners—the Vulcania, the Roma, and the Saturnia—will cruise the Mediterranean this winter, and the Champlain and the Conte di Savoia will follow similar routes early next spring. These are in addition to the regular sailings of the Italian Line and the American Export Line.

Scheduled for Year.

"A striking indication of South America's biggest travel season," Thomas Cook & Son reported this week, "is to be found in the fact that 50 per cent more cruises and tours are scheduled for this year's calendar. Seven of the topnotch luxury liners will either go to Rio and back or make the complete circuit; not to mention the weekly sailings of the various steamship lines and the large number of West Indies tours with itineraries which include one or more of the ports on the northern coast of South America."

"The American spirit of wanderlust will bring to the fore many new travel lands this season," said the American Express company. "Australia, New Zealand, and Fiji will be among the special attractions for passengers on the world cruises, and both the east and west coasts of South America will see a new high in tourist patronage. A few years ago no travel agent would have dreamed that seven big ships could be filled for cruises down there."

Sails from New Orleans.

As a special bid for business from the middle west, the Veendam will be sent on three Caribbean cruises out of New Orleans. This service will supplement the regular sailings of the United Fruit company. Trafic to Bermuda promises to be so heavy around Eastertide that the Furness Lines will charter the Cunard-White Star liner Georgic for five sailings augmenting the service on the Queen of Bermuda and the Monarch of Bermuda.

Last summer the French Riviera had a 50 per cent gain in visitors over its previous season. On that basis the lands bordering the Mediterranean are anticipating their heaviest winter season since 1929.

MAKERS REPORT GAINS OVER '36 IN AUTO SHOW SALES

Chicago Leads New York in Orders and Interest.

Chicago's thirty-eighth annual automobile show, entering its fifth day today at the International amphitheater, is running ahead of the New York show in sales, buying interest, and attendance, according to the promoters. The show closes Saturday night.

"Attendance is on the upgrade every day," A. C. Faeh, show manager, said yesterday. "In the four days we are slightly ahead of last year, and buying interest is excellent."

One manufacturer said his orders in the first three days equaled an entire week at the New York show. Compared with last year, manufacturers have reported gains in sales from 25 to 400 per cent.

Increases in Other Divisions.

This same increase is also reflected in the trailer, coach, and truck divisions, according to H. T. Hollingshead, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, sponsors of the show.

In addition to an increase in retail orders, he said, the wholesale division is doing a huge volume of business, indicating the confidence of dealers in the new products. The response from the buying public, Hollingshead added, indicates good business for the next twelve months.

Two British Women Visitors.

Among the visitors yesterday were Miss Esma Park of Glasgow, Scotland, and Miss Melvina Bolus of London, England. These young women, both 29 years old, will arrive in New York next week, completing a 15,000 mile trailer tour of America.

The time of the evening performance of Fashions of the World, the entertainment provided twice daily for visitors, has been changed to 9 o'clock. The show remains open from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m.

AUTO SHOW NOTES

The Chevrolet division of General Motors plans to spend about 65 per cent of its advertising appropriation for the 1938 automobiles in the newspapers, C. P. Fiskin, Chevrolet advertising manager, who is in Chicago for the show, said yesterday. He said black and white space will take precedence, as in the last year, over other forms of advertising.

Sales of Grahams in the first two days of the Chicago show were the heaviest for the first two days of a Chicago show in history, B. G. Sykes of Bird-Sykes, Chicago distributors, said yesterday.

D. R. Ganey of the Ford Motor Sales company said sales of the 1938 Lincoln-Zephyr cars in the Chicago territory are well ahead of sales throughout the country, running 50 per cent over last year. Ganey said the company has a backlog of 500 orders which will be filled as fast as the new cars arrive from Detroit.

Dealer orders for the 1938 De Soto, received from all parts of the country, are double a year ago, R. M. Rowland, assistant general sales manager of the De Soto division of the Chrysler corporation, said.

Chicago's automobile show, more than the New York exhibit, is rated as the barometer forecasting what the automobile industry may expect and the business done at the Chicago show to date has been satisfactory, Joseph W. Frazer, vice president of Chrysler division, Chrysler corporation, said yesterday. "Chrysler's sales at the Chicago show this year have been running ahead of last year," he said.

A. van Der Zee, general sales manager Dodge division, Chrysler corporation, will arrive in Chicago today to attend the show and to address a meeting at the Blackstone hotel tonight. Dodge officials here now said yesterday that based on what has been achieved at the show they have no misgivings as to what business will be like, at least for their product.

DOG SAVES HIM FROM JAIL.

When Max F. Schneider, 55 years old, 1653 Addison street, was arrested for drunkenness early yesterday, his dog insisted on going to jail with him. "I'd keep you in jail, but the dog ought to be free," said Judge O. S. Caplan later. He fined Schneider $10.

DIES OF WOUNDS IN QUARREL OVER $500 MORTGAGE

Henry Hammarquist, 41 years old, real estate dealer who was shot Sunday when he entered the bungalow of Ackerson C. Hessler at 7246 Morgan street, died yesterday afternoon in the Jackson Park hospital. Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie said a murder charge would be placed against Hessler, who is held by Englewood police. Questioned by Prosecutor McCurrie again yesterday, Hessler repeated his denials that he had wounded Hammarquist. The two men had been at odds over a $500 mortgage on the bungalow, held by Hammarquist and now in process of foreclosure. Hammarquist entered the house in defiance of a sign that read: "No one to enter under penalty of death."

NEED FOR ISLAND AIRPORT IS TOLD BY RICKENBACKER

Aviation Executive Lauds Lake Front Proposal.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Chicago should build a downtown lake front airport as quickly as possible to stay abreast of the aviation tide, Capt. E. V. [Eddie] Rickenbacker, general manager of Eastern Air Lines, told 200 members of the Bond Club of Chicago yesterday. He spoke at a luncheon in the Union League club.

"It's your duty and the duty of every civic body to get behind such a movement now, while the spirit of spending seems to be with us," Rickenbacker declared.

"Only with the aid of Chicago's sound business groups will the dream of a downtown field be realized. The opposition to the project for Chicago would crumble if this city's business executives could understand the need for a central air terminal and visualize the opportunity for construction of a beautiful field of permanent value to the middle west that exists here."

Hour Lost on Land.

The air transportation industry, Rickenbacker pointed out, is selling speed, yet must let its passengers out on a field already ridiculously small, which is a full hour away from the business and financial district. With a downtown field, passengers could be discharged at a point less than ten minutes motor bus ride from the heart of the loop.

Aviation soon will bring enormous planes carrying from forty to sixty passengers, transcontinental passages at high altitudes in from eight to ten hours, with service every hour on the hour; service between Chicago and New York every fifteen minutes, with the trips completed in about three hours.

Value of Speed to Increase.

"All these matters of the future will increase the value of speed," he said. "They will mean that there will be a great need for airports large enough to bear the trafic and situated close to the markets they serve. Chicago can meet its immediate and future needs in a terminal field through an island aerodrome."

SYPHILIS TESTS GIVEN TO 11,774 IN OCTOBER SHOW 1,821 INFECTED

The board of health laboratories in the central police building examined blood specimens of 11,774 persons in free syphilis tests during October, it was reported yesterday by Dr. G. G. Taylor, laboratory director. The examinations disclosed 1,821 cases of the venereal disease, which now are under treatment.

The total number of syphilis blood tests given during July, August, and September, before the laboratories expanded their facilities, was 8,717. During August, September, and October 1,318 tests were given to persons applying for marriage licenses under the hygienic state law which went into effect July 1. In these tests twenty-seven persons were found to have syphilis and three to have gonorrhea. They were refused marriage licenses.

Mayor Urges That Waste Paper Be Kept Off Streets

Mayor Kelly yesterday called attention to the unsightly whirlpools of handbills, waste paper, and discarded newspapers at street corners and in front of prominent stores. He urged all citizens to make use of the street waste boxes and asked stores to see that their janitors sweep up the litter every day to promote civic pride and make a better impression on visitors.

Lonely Persons Lack Ability to Understand

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Yesterday, in discussing our current theme of getting on with people, we pointed out that laziness, sheer unintelligent laziness, is the basis of the social world's neglected people, the lonely ones, the ones who rub people the wrong way or make no impression whatsoever.

As we pointed out in previous chapters in this discussion, people are isolated socially, they are date-forgotten boys and girls, men and women because, primarily, they refuse to be honest with themselves. They will hold responsible for others' success anything and everything from loose moral behavior to the power of money, beauty, or position of some kind, because that's the easier thing to do than to sit down and figure out exactly why they are left out of things. But psychologists now are calling such folk by their right names and their behavior by the right name, too.

True, our psychologists give fear its due for its part in the inability to get along with others, but giving in to fear is an admitted form of laziness. If you are afraid of people, afraid to make a friendly gesture in their direaction, it is because you are too lazy to make it your business to understand others. If you were to delve into a study of human character you would find that people are much alike. You do not need books on psychology for this study. Just study folks close to you, your family, your friends, your co-workers. Some things you may not like in them. Some things you may thoroughly dislike, even as they are privileged to return the opinion in their summary of you.

The things you may not like may be due to some unfortunate trait of heredity, of education, or lack of it, of accident ending in a warped personality. But being actively interested in the whys and wherefores of human conduct, you learn to be big about people, generous, understanding, and sympathetic. And there will be good even in the worst of them, if you're not too lazy or indifferent to find it out.

◆

Therein lies the key to success in getting along with them. Look for the good in them and concentrate on the good points rather than the others. Do this for no other reason than that you hope they'll return the compliment.

Woman's City Club.

The Woman's City Club of Chicago will give a tea at 3 o'clock today for Miss Charlotte Carr, new head resident of Hull house, at the clubhouse, 410 South Michigan avenue. Miss Carr will speak. Mayor Kelly is expected to be a guest.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Yesterday's question was as follows:

Question 37: You are West, declarer, at a four spade contract in rubber bridge. Opponents made no bid. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

WEST	EAST [Dummy]
♠A Q 8 5 4	♠7 6 3 2
♥A 8 6 2	♥K 7 5
♦7 3	♦A K 4
♣A 5	♣6 3 2

North opens the diamond queen. How do you play the hand?

Answer: Win in dummy. Lead the spade deuce and go up with ace from the closed hand. You must lose one heart and one club. Your only problem then is to avoid the loss of two trump tricks. The play of the ace is a safety play against North's possible holding of the blank king. If you finesse to the queen and lose to the singleton king you still must lose another trick to South. If South's holding was the K x you have thrown away only the unimportant overtrick by failure to finesse. If South originally held K x x you have lost nothing by the safety play. Obviously, after playing the spade ace, if the king does not fall, you must reënter dummy and lead another spade toward your queen. [One point demerit for failure to make this safety play.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 38: Both sides vulnerable. You are South, the dealer, and hold:

♠None ♥A K 10 8 4 ♦K J 10 7 ♣J 9 4 3

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass

TODAY'S HAND

♣Q 10

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 club	1 spade
2 hearts	2 spades	Pass	Pass
3 hearts	3 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

West opened the club nine and dummy ducked. East, marking declarer for the queen-10, went up with the ace and returned a low club, hoping that the nine was a singleton. Declarer's queen held, however, and three rounds of spades drew the outstanding trumps. Then, apparently in a dither to get rid of his losing heart, declarer entered dummy with the heart ace to discard the heart jack on the club king. Whatever the "reason," the play was declarer's undoing. Obviously there was no danger of losing a heart trick while the ace remained in dummy, and by his haste declarer had landed in the wrong hand and, thereby, lost a vital tempo. Now in order to lead a diamond toward dummy's double honor he would have to waste one of his two remaining trumps. He realized [too late] that this would be fatal, hence attempted to build a diamond trick by leading dummy's queen.

Had East been foolish enough to cover, declarer would have won back the trick he had lost. East made no such mistake, however. He properly waited for the second diamond honor. West won with the ace and led a heart. Obviously there now was no chance to establish a diamond trick, since East lay over dummy's jack-5 with the king-10, and declarer was down to one trump.

If declarer, after drawing trumps, had properly conserved his entries by leading a diamond toward dummy, he would have made his contract with ease.

Dr. Gropius Asserts Artist Needs Training of Both Hand, Brain

Training of both the hand and the brain is essential in the education of the modern artist, Dr. Walter Gropius, professor of architecture, Harvard university, told members of the Association of Arts and Industries last night at a dinner in his honor at the Palmer house.

"The development of machinery in the last century forced the craftsman and the artist into separate fields," he declared, "but the artist today must appreciate the technical as well as the artistic value of his work. He must adopt the machine as the modern vehicle of form."

Dr. Gropius' lecture was a part of the dedication ceremonies of the New Bauhaus, a school of design recently established in the old Marshall Field mansion, 1905 Prairie avenue.

Sixty minutes flat should be more than ample time for the preparation of tonight's business woman's dinner. Half an hour is the longest cooking time for any item on the menu, and preliminaries such as cutting the potatoes into shreds and setting the table shouldn't require more than another half hour, if that.

Canadian Bacon with Fried Apple Rings
Baked Shredded Potatoes
Creamed Onions
Sliced Avocado and Tomato Salad on Shredded Endive
Crusty Bakery Rolls
Canned White Cherries
Chocolate Wafers
Coffee

The Canadian bacon needs only a brief period of cooking in a skillet over low heat. The apple rings may be placed in the pan and cooked at the same time.

The potatoes will need longer cooking, as will the onions, so these two vegetables should be started first.

Baked Shredded Potatoes.
[Serves Four.]

2 cups raw shredded potatoes
4 tablespoons milk
1 cup grated cheese
Salt, paprika
Butter

Alternate shredded potatoes with cheese and milk in individual buttered baking cups, sprinkling each layer of potatoes with salt and paprika. Dot the top of each cup with butter and place in a 400 degree oven to bake until the potatoes are tender, about half an hour. Unmold, place the molds of potatoes on a pan, and brown under the broiling unit.

Creamed Onions.
[Serves Four.]

2 cups small or sliced onions
Salt, paprika
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt

Cook the onions until tender in a fairly large amount of boiling, salted water. Make a white sauce from the butter, flour, milk, and salt, and, when smoothed and thickened, add the onions. Cook for one minute in the sauce. Sprinkle with paprika and serve.

There are fine, large avocados available in most groceries nowadays. For the salad select one which is rather firm but yields slightly to gentle pressure between the palms. Chill it thoroughly before making the salad. Then cut in halves lengthwise, remove the large pit, and peel half the avocado. The other half may be saved for a later salad. Slice the meat thinly crosswise and arrange with thin slices of well chilled tomato on beds of crisp, shredded endive. Pour a thin French dressing over the combination.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Martin Collis, 134 Herrick road, Riverside, announce the approaching marriage on Thanksgiving eve of their daughter, Maryjane Elizabeth, to Charles Frederick Coleman, son of Mrs. S. M. Coleman of Evanston.

The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents. Due to the recent illness of the bride's mother, the wedding will be a quiet affair. There will be no bridal attendants and only the immediate relatives will be present.

ENGAGEMENT

Dr. and Mrs. Ira Frank of the Drake Towers announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Lester R. Wellman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester R. Wellman of Highland Park.

Back Exposed by Decolletage Must Be Fair

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about sloping shoulders and the Victorian dress motif introduced into the season's novelties. Today, we might go on to backs as they are being seen on evening social scenes. Some of them are lovely, to be sure, and some of them are perfectly hideous. At the theater the other night I saw a back that made one shudder, with its collection of bones and skin blotches.

Maybe you may like that completely bare back with a mere halter line. But what a back it takes to carry that bold expanse of skin and bone and tissue neatly! For such display, one's back should be neat and fairly narrow, with sufficient padding so that a dimple might glow somewhere along its surface.

◆

It's a test of a beautiful back, my loves, as well a matter of good taste. Be sure you turn your super-critical friend, the mirror, full force upon your shoulder width, your shoulder wings and your side-back freedom of lumpy tissue before you succumb to the completely backless gown. There's always a bit of material that can be worked into lines of fault concealment. And why shouldn't such subterfuge be resorted to, just as one resorts to complexion coverups or any other of the dozens of artifices the clever one resorts to in order to minimize a liability?

◆

But, no matter how neatly molded the back by nature and heredity, there is the fine skin quality to be reckoned with. Satin-smooth must the skin back there be. Work with the long-handled brush here, and the showers of water, the better to tone it! If you're going to show a lot of back, show a lot of perfect back. No less will satisfy the eye, for remember, on this broad expanse of skin, there are no made-up eyes, no rose tinted cheek, no smiling mouth to distract the eye. So, the skin back there has to be letter perfect.

Two Exhibits Open Season at Arts Club

The Arts club looked at tea-time yesterday as though most of those who had attended the concert in Orchestra hall had walked or driven north to the Wrigley building, for the galleries were so filled with members and guests that some had to overflow into the lounge with their teacups. The tea opened two exhibitions, the first of the season at the club; contemporary Mexican paintings and paintings by Jack Gage Stark of Santa Barbara.

As interesting and colorful as the paintings are, they had to share the spotlight yesterday with two dark-eyed, black-haired young women who were there. Señorita Ampara Iturbi and Señorita Ines Amor. The former had been the soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra earlier in the afternoon and the latter assembled the Mexican paintings. Señorita Iturbi speaks practically no English, so only those who are able to converse in her native Spanish, or in French, could talk to her, but Señorita Amor speaks English very well.

Tea and coffee were served in a new way, from two small tables in the large gallery and from one small one in the round gallery. The sandwiches and cake were on Mexican pottery plates on a long refectory table in the large gallery, where the Mexican paintings are hanging.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne, social chairman, had achieved table decorations that were as unmistakably Mexican as the paintings on the walls. She used a cloth of Empire green, Mexican tin candelabra that held dark red carnations instead of candles, and a centerpiece of stunning artificial grasses and flowers in the vivid colors that one associates with the country south of the Rio Grande.

As fascinating as every one found the Mexican paintings, they did not overshadow Mr. Stark's charming California scenes. Many who attended the tea know his wife, the former Mrs. Edith Leonard Glass of Highland Park, so they were especially interested in seeing his work. It was a disappointment to Mrs. Stark's many friends here that she and her husband did not come east for the opening of the exhibition.

◆

Some of those who were at the tea were Mrs. Thorne, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, president of the club; Mrs. Robert S. Pirie, whom Señorita Amor is visiting; Mrs. Pirie's mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter; Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. Thomas Beacom, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg and her daughter, Miss Alice; Miss Emily Larned, Miss Harriet Stuart, the Thomas Hindes, Mrs. Jacob Baur and her guest, Mrs. Cara Ebert of Parkersburg, W. Va.; Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. James Winston, Mrs. Frank Fuller, Mrs. William B. Hale, Miss Alice Roullier, Mrs. Lloyd Laflin, Mrs. John C. Murphy, Miss Charlotte Yoe, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Daniel C. Rich, Mrs. Inez Stark, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Gilbert Smith, Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Lawrence and Mrs. Franklin M. Miller.

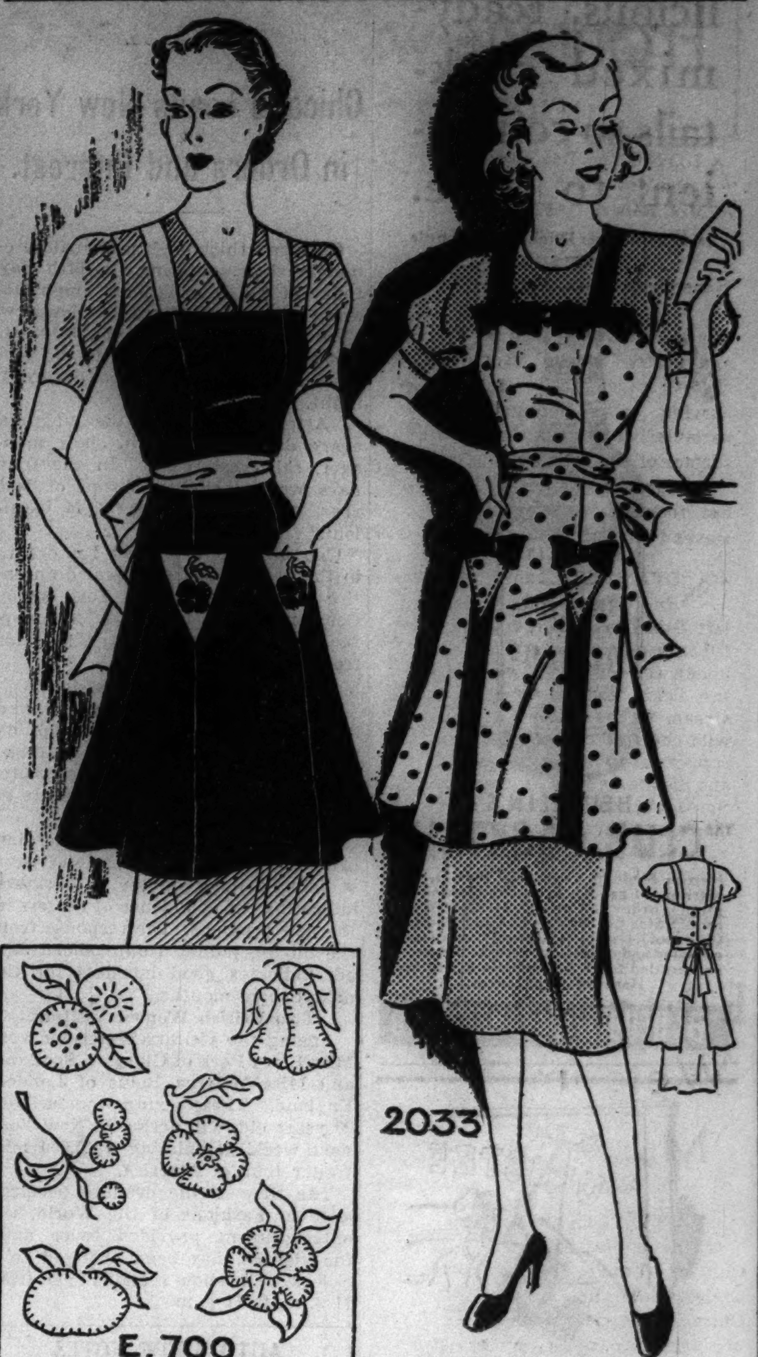
Some who went to the tea had not been to the concert earlier, but to the dedication of the New Bauhaus in the old Marshall Field house at 1905 Prairie avenue. It was startling to those who had been there before to see how changed the interior of the house is, but its cool-looking gray and white walls, uncurtained windows and bare floors are admirably suited to the needs of a school of design.

Without sacrificing the charm of the old house, an atmosphere of modernity has been created that fits in very well with the high ceilings, tall windows and oddly-shaped rooms that characterize the house.

A few late arrivals at the Arts club had been first to the party given at the Lake Shore Athletic club to raise funds for the Chicago Ethical society's organ fund. It was a bridge party with a fashion showing during the tea hour.

About 200 tables had been sold, but only about 680 women showed up to play cards and two of the expected four men found that business prevented their being there. Dr. Horace J. Bridges and Isaac M. Hamilton were there, however, but they decided to explore the club instead of playing bridge and only joined the ladies for tea. Mrs. Welch Dickinson and Mrs. Daniel Taylor were cochairmen of the party.

Apron for the Chic Hostess



WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRON.

This flattering and dressy little apron is ideal when you're hostessing. It may be slipped on over your frock without in the least detracting from the charm of your appearance. But the garment is practical in spite of its chic. It has enough breadth to cover your frock and protect it when you are puttering around the kitchen or serving at table.

The apron is cut straight across and is topped by shoulder straps, much in the manner of a princess slip. A soft sash ties around the waist and two triangular pockets grace the skirt.

There are many color and fabric schemes which you may work out. Illustrated are two that we think are particularly attractive. At the left is a version in dark cotton with contrasting lighter straps and pockets, the latter with appliqued designs. The version at the right features polka dotted cotton sheer with dark shoulder straps, inserts in the skirt, and matching dark bows, two at the top and one on each of the pockets.

The embroidery pattern is No. E-700, and is available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 2033 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 2 yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting for the apron with bows. The more tailored apron requires 1⅞ yards of 35 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A camellia dusting powder is one of the best after-bath joys we've found in months. It's a little hard for us to get excited about the average dusting powder—but this has the stamp of smart beauty.

We love the package. It looks for all the world like a little red flower pot, and there are some giddy little blossoms sketched on its silvery cover. This is a delectable French package, the kind we like best. It's not showy but it's charming.

There are three fragrances, all of them floral and all of them as good as you can find. The camellia is our special pet, but we should tell you that the fragrance is faint—which is just as it should be in dusting powders. A too highly perfumed body powder will fight with the other scents you use unless of course you can go in for perfect harmony.

Since corsets, now known by other fancier names such as "foundation garment" or girdles or whatever the manufacturer chooses to call them, are being worn so generally dusting powders have a new importance. If you film the skin with powder the snug girdles will slip on quite easily.

And it's always a good idea to dust your toes after your bath. Your feet will feel much more comfortable in their silken hose.

This powder [it comes in gardenia and jasmine as well as camellia] is very, very fine. The puff is a good sized one and the container would be decorative on any dressing table.

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

ALONG the Des Plaines [from the November nature journal of Mrs. Robert D. Phelps]:

November.

"When the cardinal whistles these frosty mornings from his thicket near the river, I carry sunflower seed offerings and hasten to the wood where russet leaves frolic along the curving paths pursued by the variable winds that ripple the surface of the slow stream. Along the edges of the river thin ice has formed, imprisoning brown leaves that drifted idly yesterday.

* *

"NOVEMBER donned the fading cloak that gay October left. Still beautiful it is and colorful in spots, ranging in tone from honey colored weeds that crowd the fields and border the dark stream to the yellows of a small wild cherry tree, accented by dull coppery shrubs and the dark gold and henna bronze of black oaks. Spreading far about the wood the emerald carpet that myrtle and wild ginger form is quite untouched by killing frosts, close patterned as it is with dead brown leaves.

"HANGING from dark leafless shrubs the countless bladdernuts like amber lanterns shine softly in the half clothed wood. A rarer sight is burning bush stripped of all foliage now, its stark, frail branches thickly strung and blazing with deep rose berries. Translucent colored berries of nightshade, beloved of Thoreau, hang ruby red among green foliage, unharmed by heavy frosts.

* *

"SOME lavendar wild asters still bloon palely in a sheltered spot and dandelions open yellow faces to the warmth of midday sun. All bright color has long since faded from the head of the goldenrod. It is grayhaired and ragged now. The silent trees kept well the secrets of the birds. In nesting time they graciously supplied a leafy shelter but now that nests are empty they flaunt them boldly from naked boughs. I never guessed that they were there . . . or there . . . or there. Incongruous November—when I watch gray wild geese fly south through somber skies and stoop to search and find a budding purple violet tucked beneath sere hawthorn leaves."

Edith Mason Welcomed to Music Season

BY CECIL SMITH.

At the invitation of the Musicians Club of Women, Edith Mason, lyric soprano of the Metropolitan and Chicago City Opera companies, made her first appearance of the season in a song recital in the ballroom of the Drake hotel last night. The club's recognition of one of Chicago's most gifted resident musicians attracted a large and warmly appreciative audience.

Miss Mason's recital, though brief, covered enough musical territory to give a many-sided résumé of her powers. The program opened with three operatic excerpts—the aria from Arne's "Comus," "Deh vieni non tardar" from Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," and the waltz song from Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet"—and continued with songs by Debussy, Richard Strauss, John Alden Carpenter, Leeds Mitchell, Charlotte Caldwell, and Richard Hageman.

The Mozart aria found Miss Mason in good form, for her voice is loveliest when she sings lightly and makes generous use of her spangled pianissimo. It is too bad that "The Marriage of Figaro," in which Miss Mason sang Suzanna, and for which the opera company constructed superb new sets, has been allowed to languish in silence since its three long performances in 1929.

The audience found much to enjoy and much to admire in Miss Mason's workmanlike approach to her music. She achieved a tasteful delicacy in Debussy's "Fantoches," gave a warmly Italianate quality to Strauss' "Allerseelen," and brought down the house with Leeds Mitchell's felicitous setting of Sara Teasdale's "Twilight."

As one of Miss Mason's heartiest admirers I am happy to say that her voice is basically as beautiful as ever and profoundly sorry to report that her use of it is getting to be extremely bad. That glorious upper voice [remember her wonderful high E flats in "Fra Diavolo" and "Martha"?] is now becoming strained and out of focus, largely because she sings the vowel "e" most of the time, in spite of the fact that her voice invariably spreads on this vowel.

I should like to see Miss Mason redevelop her faultless lyricism of a few years ago, leaving dramatic rôles like those in "Otello" and "Mefistofele" to those who can sing them without distorting their voices.

◆

At the Civic Opera house tonight "Lucia di Lammermoor" will serve as a vehicle for the debut of Galliano Masini, tenor of La Scala Opera in Milan, Italy, who arrives preceded by a glowing reputation. Carlo Morelli and Virgilio Lazzari will sing the other chief male rôles. The Lucia will be Erna Sack.

Amparo Iturbi Has Full Share of Family Talent

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Musical children, these Iturbis. Brother José has been here many times to play the piano and once to conduct. Younger sister Amparo came yesterday afternoon for the first time, introducing herself to the Tuesday patrons of the Chicago Symphony orchestra in a performance of the Beethoven Fourth piano concerto.

Amparo Iturbi is a black haired, dark, Spanish woman whose approach to the concerto is conditioned somewhat by her racial background. She does not care for a particularly cold, objective, architectural conception of the piece, but strives instead for as fervent an interpretation as the character of the music will permit.

An example of her general style was yesterday's mezzo-forte statement of the first theme, measures which are usually taken piano or pianissimo. Through much of the piece Miss Amparo's tone retained a fuller body than is customary in this particular concerto. However, there was no tampering with tempo or meter in the interest of a more forceful delivery.

The new pianist turns a phrase in a most lovely manner and seems fully conscious of the countless such opportunities offered by this most patrician of Beethoven's larger works. She did not always succeed in the task of keeping the piece's more fluent pages on an entirely unphysical plane, and there were places where an overdose of pedal compromised the clarity of the passage.

The audience received Miss Iturbi cordially and demanded an encore. It turned out to be a Scarlatti sonata.

Frederick Stock prefaced the concerto with a first local performance of Toch's "Pinocchio" overture, following it with the umpteenth presentation of the Glière "Ilia Mourometz" symphony.

Ernst Toch, Vienna born composer now living in Los Angeles, subtitled his "Pinocchio" "a merry overture." In it this serious minded admirer of Arnold Schönberg strives for an effect of gayety through rhythmic forthrightness and simple, open-hearted melody. Harmonically, the piece is not at all alarming—only a little pungent.

The overture was not played very merrily yesterday and failed to make an impression on the audience.

◆

Try listening to the "Ilia Mourometz" some time as pure music, forgetting all about the Russian heroes and their prodigies of valor. It is surprisingly lovely, especially the second and third movements.

R. H. Kimball and Cleveland Girl Engaged

BY JUDITH CASS.

FROM New Mexico, where Dr. and Mrs. Robert Ernest Vinson of Cleveland, O., are spending the winter, comes the announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Katherine, to Richard H. Kimball, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Cook Kimball of Chicago. Dr. Vinson is a former president of Western Reserve university.

Chicago has not seen much of young Mr. Kimball since he graduated from Harvard, for he has been engaged in business in Cleveland. His fiancée, who is a graduate of the Hathaway Brown school and of the Flora Mater college of Western Reserve, is a member of the Cleveland Junior league. She and Mr. Kimball's sister, Miss Marjorie Kimball, will have much in common through their league activities, for Miss Kimball is a member of the Chicago league, and was a co-chairman for the conference of the Association of Junior Leagues of America in Chicago and Evanston last spring.

Mr. Kimball prepared for Harvard at the Choate school in Wallingford, Conn. He and Miss Vinson will be married after the first of the year.

At a small dinner at home in Hinsdale last night Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Freer announced the engagement of their daughter Mary Jocelyn to Walter B. Briggs Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Briggs of Hinsdale. No date has been set for the wedding.

Fredrica Sargent Names Attendants.

Seven young women will precede Miss Fredrica Sargent to the altar of the First Methodist church in Evanston the night of Nov. 20 when she will become the bride of Frederick E. French.

Among them will be Mrs. David Gray Poston, a bride of last August, who would be in faraway Soochow, China, now if her husband had not been recalled from his prospective duties as instructor at the Soochow academy because of the war. Mrs. Poston is the former Elizabeth Tittle, daughter of the Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle, who will officiate at the French-Sargent wedding, and Mrs. Tittle. She and her bridegroom are at home on the south side, and Mr. Poston is taking courses at the University of Chicago.

Miss Sargent, daughter of the Fred W. Sargents of Evanston, has asked Miss Marion Klink to be her maid of honor. Miss Klink will return from her studies at Connecticut college the day before the wedding. Miss Virginia French, sister of the bridegroom, will come from Wells college to be a bridesmaid. Miss Betty Clark of Bloomington, Ill., Miss Doris Lane, and the bride-to-be's sisters-in-law, Mrs. Haskell Sargent and Mrs. Minier Sargent, complete the list.

Haskell and Minier Sargent will usher for Mr. French, who is the son of Mrs. Bayless French of Evanston. His best man will be John Davis, and the other ushers will include Carl Troup, Clark Kuebler, Leroy Kling, Allen Wilson Jr., Derrick Brewster, and Oliver Babcock Jr.

Parents to Give Bridal Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Sargent will give the bridal dinner for their daughter and Mr. French on the eve of the wedding at the Georgian hotel. The wedding reception will be held at their home.

Mr. Kling and Mr. Wilson will give a buffet supper at Mr. Kling's home in Evanston Friday night for Miss Sargent and Mr. French. The Minier and the Haskell Sargents will entertain at dinner and dancing Saturday night.

Miss Hoover and Mr. Troup will give a cocktail party Sunday afternoon at Miss Hoover's home in Evanston. Mr. Davis will give the bachelor dinner at his home Tuesday next week, the same night that Miss Sargent will hold her spinster dinner. Mrs. P. F. Gault will give a luncheon for the bridesmaids on the day before the wedding.

Another tea on the list for the Christmas holidays is one that Mrs. Joseph E. Otis will give for her debutante granddaughter, Nancy Otis, at the Casino on Dec. 29. The guests

Junior League Sale Tomorrow

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Elisabeth Dewes is wearing a handsome lynx trimmed tweed coat that will be sold at the Chicago Junior league's fall second hand clothes sale tomorrow morning at 1006 South Michigan avenue. The sale will start at 7:30 o'clock, a half hour earlier than usual.

Stylish Colors Are Ideal for White Haired

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Two of the most flattering colors for white haired clothes collectors are the two best colors featured in current fall and winter collections of accessories and clothes. Burgundy red and a vivid bright blue do more for flattering the skin and beautiful white or gray hair than any other colors.

The burgundy is a stunning, vital red with a lovely brown cast, and what it does for the complexion is almost beyond description.

◆

The red is especially stunning with brown or hazel eyes and effective with blue or gray. Suits, lovely duvetyn or dull crêpe dresses, ensembles, coats, and accessories to match this burgundy are plentiful.

Most of the clothes are exceedingly plain, distinguished outfits for these sophisticated women.

Gloves, smart small hats, bags, hosiery, and such frivolous but necessary creations as ostrich or marabou capes or short jackets for evening wear also come in this flattering color. Long velvet evening wraps and coats lined with contrasting satin or brocade complete the wardrobe possibilities in burgundy.

◆

The blue is a vivid, glowing king's blue, tempting bait indeed for any one's cash supply. Luscious blue velvet house robes and spectacular blue brocades for dress parade are among the collections. Short bright blue velvet jackets can be worn with long sheath gowns of dull crêpe. Crisp rustling taffeta in silvery gray can be topped with capes or boleros of this same blue. These are a few of the many ideas.

Long suede gloves, bags, belts, all kinds of hats, blouses, scarfs, even sweaters and simple skirts and slim two piece novelty wool suits come in this delightful and unusual blue tone that is so attractive for white or silver gray haired shoppers.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Two new and attractive glass containers are designed to avoid the annoyance of dripping sirup on a clean tablecloth. One is called a sirup dispenser and is so made that when you lift it from the table and press a little lever the sirup, or honey, or whatever, is expelled from a spout in the bottom of the pitcher instead of coming out the usual way from a spout on the side.

This prevents dripping, and when you've had enough sirup you replace the container in a glass dish that just fits it, so there is no danger of spotting the table or the cloth.

The second of the new jugs looks much like the usual glass sirup pitcher, with spout on the side, etc., but the top is covered by a metal lid, which is pushed aside when you press the slanting handle, and snaps back, cutting off dripping sirup when you release it.

Ancient Story Well Told in Dietrich Film

"ANGEL."

Produced by Paramount.
Directed by Ernst Lubitsch.
Based on play by Melchoir Lengyel.
Presented at the Oriental theater.

THE CAST.

Maria Barker	Marlene Dietrich
Sir Frederick Barker	Herbert Marshall
Anthony Halton	Melvyn Douglas
Graham	Edward Everett Horton
Greenwood	Herbert Mundin
Walten	Ernst Cossart
Grand Duchess	Laura Hope Crews

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"If they paid more than $1.50 for THAT story they got gypped!" growled a male voice from out the darkness of the Oriental theater.

And brothers and sisters, he spoke the truth. "Angel" is just a lot of leftover as to yarn. Another and not overbright treatment of the old plot about the busy, though—at heart—devoted husband, whose wife longs for attention, and gets it—from a different source.

◆

In the present instance, hubby's an English satesman. Sir Frederick Barker is the name, and cares of state weigh heavily on his capable shoulders. While absent at Geneva, his wife, Maria, runs up to Paris and has some crowded hours with a man she meets in a salon conducted by a needy Russian grand duchess.

The "other man," Anthony Halton, is mad over her and vows he'll follow her wherever she goes. Her name he doesn't know, so he just dubs her "Angel." He turns his back to buy her a bunch of violets—and his lady of mystery disappears. . . . Further developments prove Halton to have been one of Sir Frederick's war buddies. . . . Sir Frederick invites Anthony up to lunch to meet the little woman. . . .

◆

Follows a rather tedious period during which Maria and Anthony are suave, reticent and poker faced and Sir Frederick cordial, unwitting, and, as usual, preoccupied. He is called to the phone and Maria and Anthony have it out—after a fashion. . . . Freddie's failure, at the last moment, to take his darling on a trip he'd promised they'd have together, precipitates another Paris encounter—this time with three participants. The lady is permitted to make a choice. . . .

The film is gorgeously staged and photographed and Miss Dietrich is ravishing in Travis Banton creations. Messrs. Marshall and Douglas comport themselves creditably in their rather silly rôles, and supporting players — especially Laura Hope Crews—are aces. . . . You'll remember with a smile scenes between the Barker butler [Ernst Cossart] and his sweetie [Dennie Moore]. That little Moore number is fun!

Mr. Lubitsch directed with his usual eye for effect.

Friends of Writers.

David Seabury will speak on "The Influence of Literature on Our Thought" at a luncheon meeting of the Friends of American Writers at noon today at the Chicago Athletic association.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

A Columnist's Clock

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 9, 10 a. m.—For years you've read about the Lubitsch touch. So I asked Ernst Lubitsch to explain it to you readers. "I think it means that I have confidence in the intelligence of audiences," he said, but I won't attempt to express his German dialect. "For instance, Ed, in this picture with Miss Golbert and Gary Cooper, audiences will see him entering her hotel room in a furious temper. They'll see and hear him slam the door violently. Now, instead of following him into the room with the camera, I dissolve from the slamming of the door to a night club where the audience will next see them dancing together, romantically. I'll let the audience figure out for themselves what happened behind the closed door, and only show the result.

Ernst Lubitsch has a touch.

"I guess that's what they mean by the 'Lubitsch touch,' but oddly enough, you are the first writer ever to ask me about it, and I've been here fifteen years, ever since Mary Pickford brought me from Berlin to do 'Rosita'."

10:15 a. m.—"You want more illustrations of the Lubitsch touch? Let's see. In 'Angel,' you commented about the dinner scene with Marlene Dietrich, Herbert Marshall, and Melvyn Douglas. I didn't show the dinner table at all, showed instead the dishes returning to the pantry. The comments of the butler and the pantry servants told exactly what had happened at the table, because a plate of food can express the nervousness of the person who failed to eat it.

"In one of my early pictures, I had the cameraman photograph an Armistice day parade through the crutches of a war veteran. It expressed forcefully the horror of war contrasted to the blaring bands and the cheering." He lighted a cigar. "My greatest picture? Artistically, I'd say 'Trouble in Paradise'; commercially, 'Love Parade'."

10:30 a. m.—Returning along Melrose avenue to Beverly Hills. The car ahead with California license plate 8W711 has a sticker on the back window: "Beat Hoover."

◆

11:00 a. m.—Bing Crosby and myself team up against Bob Hope and Chris Dunphy, at Lakeside. Mary Carlisle and Shirley Ross, as caddies, pose for the cameraman, and a gallery of several hundred follow the match. Crosby shoots a 73 for our side, and the moans of Mother Dunphy and Mother Hope split the southern California air. The return match is on for Sunday at Bel-Air, which is Dunphy's club, and I will see that Crosby gets to bed early every night this week.

2 p. m.—Lunching with Jon Hall, co-starred with Dorothy Lamour in "Hurricane." His real name is Charles Locher, but Goldwyn re-baptized him, and as Norman Hall, coauthor of the picture, is related, Goldwyn made him Jon Hall.

"Gouverneur Morris, the novelist, really put me in pictures," says the 24 year old giant. "Robert Taylor was leaving the Hollywood community playhouse, and I got the job. Metro signed Taylor, Fox signed me out of the same part. I made one picture with Warner Oland, 'Charlie Chan in Shanghai' and they released me.

"For three years, I took whatever jobs in pictures they'd give me, so when I tell you that I'm staggered by what happened, you can believe it. You see, I worked for Republic, Monogram, any studio and every studio in town. I want to click; I've got a swell family and they'd get a kick out of it. Only squawk I've got is that a writer quoted me as saying I was so beautiful that I had trouble keeping the girls away. How do you like that? He's too small to slug, so what do you do with a runt like that?"

Hall was born in Fresno, Cal., attended high school there, was educated in Switzerland and England, and right now is interested in getting some money in the bank.

◆

3 p. m.—Faces around town—Bert Lahr and Mildred Schroeder on Wilshire. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Warner entertaining Harry Charnas and his frau.

◆

9 p. m.—The "Artists and Models" party at Countess Dorothy Di Frasso's, to which the whole town has been looking forward. The men dress as artists; the girls dress as their favorite portraits.

"Do you feel like an acrobat?" asks Mervyn Le Roy, uncomfortable in blue velvet smock and blue velvet pantaloons. Fay Wray is fetching: and carries a picture frame in front of her to frame the costume she's wearing. Dorothy Di Frasso's green tinted hair matches the peacock quills and emeralds. Virginia Bruce and Gladys Swarthout, arriving in heavy beaded costumes, go upstairs and change into simpler frocks. Beatrice Lillie is cute as a Swiss Alpine climber.

Tomorrow sixty-four members of the Dick Powell Fan club will gather at the railroad station to meet their honorary president for the first time.

Mr. Powell will arrive at 9:30 o'clock and remain in the city for twelve hours before departing for Cleveland, where he will make a personal appearance at the Cleveland Automobile show.

SYNOPSIS.

When rich old Caleb Winter died his wife, Isabella, once his housekeeper, wires her daughter, Sally Lee Keyne, at school in Maryland, to come home at last. Because Caleb had demanded a housekeeper without family ties Isabella had never told him about Sally. En route Sally meets Robin Ashe, whose family live near the old Crewe mansion, Sally's new home. He falls in love with her. The Winter chauffeur, driving Sally home, gives a lift to an arrogant tramp, called Vincent. Sally orders the chauffeur to put him out. The morning after Sally's homecoming Joseph Marr, his lawyer, reads Caleb's will and her mother has a stroke. Informed of his wife's deception, Caleb left everything to his first wife's nephew, Obadiah Crewe. Mrs. Winter, if she stays on as housekeeper, to have shelter and an income. The new heir turns out to be the tramp—Vincent Obadiah Crewe. Though she hates and fears him, Sally serves him as housekeeper in her mother's place. Vincent inherits Caleb's tricky West Indian valet, Manchi. Robin's mother and sister go to Crewe house on visitors' day. Manchi intimates to them that Sally is the new heir's mistress. Vincent surprises Sally when he tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him. He shocks her by harboring an evil looking tramp who is ill.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.

A LOVE REPULSED.

Vincent first stared at Sally and then produced his quick short sound of amusement. "Sure. You're right at that. But Fred was a great guy. He was one of the rum runners I was boat mechanic for . . . I reckon I told you once. And he was sure the best pal I ever did have . . . or any other guy. The other boy, Kiddy . . . well, did you ever get a stray dog or a homeless kid wished on to you? That was the way it was with me and Kiddy Bray. He hadn't the makings of a man, wasn't no good, really, but he was like a kid . . . sort of got round you. He trusted me like I was his dad. So . . . when they got him for killing, see? . . . they'd have given him the chair, or hanging. For the way evidence looked it was a lot worse case for Kiddy than it would be for Fred. Anyway, Bray couldn't have took it. He'd have gone nuts. Nor a man couldn't have stood to see him hanged. Besides knowing he wasn't guilty. He was innocent and he wouldn't ever have hurt a girl like Tinka . . . or any other girl. And I was the only witness that could get him off. I . . . well, I had got to squeal on Fred."

Vincent's face was twisted out of its mask of composure.

"I never did get to see Fred after the sentence. I guess he never would let me get to see him. But I got word all right that he was going to get me as soon as he got let out. . . ."

"Why wasn't he sent up for life?"

"Because the way it happened he kind of got a break. It looked like it might have been that he'd meant to hit her in self-defense. Besides, she was his wife . . . see? . . . and had quit him for the other guy. Mitigating circumstances."

Sally sat there, considering the young man in the lurid light of his association with Fred's history.

"And Fred is out?"

"Yes, ma'am. I got word about six months ago and I was kind of keeping me pretty dark. Then come this will of Winter's and I got dragged out into the limelight. Of course I never was known as Obadiah Crewe so I'm kind of counting on being alibied. But that will wear out. Fred will get on to me sooner or later. It ain't that I mind so much more than you'd naturally mind being shot. . . ."

"It's that you mind being shot by Fred," said Sally, "before you have a chance to tell him why you had to witness against him . . . a chance to explain . . . to make him understand?"

"My God, that's it. You surely can read a man's mind, Sally."

Sally smiled in a sphinxlike fashion and gave him through her eyelashes a rather guilty look. She was feeling like a "gunman's moll" and rather liking it, though prickles ran up and down her spine.

Vincent said, coming closer, "So, if you marry me, you likely wouldn't be troubled by me very long."

"I am not going to marry you."

He took this in silence and without any change of countenance. But half a minute later, he took her roughly into his arms and forced his lips upon her. Then, holding her in a grip that felt like the arms of an iron man, he spoke to her so closely that she felt the movement of his speech.

"You don't rightly know how I love you. You laughed at me for speaking poetry. But that's not because I feel just so goddam poetical. I'm hungry for you. I been close to starved a hundred times but that feeling's not anything for sharpness and . . . and hurt . . . to this. Don't try to hit me . . . I won't kiss you again. It was just to show you . . . no, my God, it was because I couldn't help it. I got your lips once. I didn't sleep for the feel and the taste of them. . . . Don't you run away from me . . . if I let you go."

"I am afraid of you," she whispered.

"You got no cause to be. I know how to keep myself in hand. Now that I am sure you won't ever give in to me, I can kill out the hunger I've got. . . ."

"You won't want me in your house. . . ."

"If you leave it . . . I swear . . ." he tightened his painful grip, "I swear I'll leave it, too. I'll sell it . . . burn it down . . ."

He let her go, stepping far back and holding down his hands. From the door she looked at him. Her eyes were cold, shining, wet.

"It's only for my mother's sake . . . that I must stay. It's only until I can think of something else to do . . . of somewhere else to go."

"My God, why do you hate me like that?"

"It isn't hating . . . it's that I'm afraid. Something inside of me has a . . . a terrible fear of you. It's creatures like that old man . . . I think, that come out of nowhere and fasten themselves on you . . . a murderer, prowling about to shoot you. There's a . . . a sort of . . . blackness behind you like . . . a storm coming up. You seem to be threatening. . . . I suppose you'd say—because it feels like that . . . threatening something inside of me . . . my heart feels scared."

At that, Vincent's eyes opened to the width of his delirium and when she had got herself well out of his sight, a mile away, running to the river, seeking the shelter of the trees . . . she could still see this sudden transformation, this changeling Vincent, evoked she could not tell by what sentence she had used for his repulsion.

Having gone through the uncomfortable ceremony of explanation, apology, and amends, Robin Ashe became a senior of Yale university and returned, thinner, whiter, and more silent than ever before in his life, to his Virginia home. Ronald saw no disturbing symptoms of broken heartedness in the conduct of his son.

There came a day, however, when Robin's car forsook its habitual channels of entrance and of exit, and, turning east from Hanbury, ran smoothly about the curves of a certain lane and in at a farm gate that opened upon the grounds of Crewe house. By this inconspicuous side entrance Robin betook himself to the front door at which he rang and presently asked of bobbing, smiling, almost dimpling Charles if he might see Miss Keyne.

As he followed Charles down the hall from which he had been, two months before, so abruptly dismissed, he glanced about admiringly and with a certain pang at the background of a great house which should have been the background of the girl who had picked him up at the St. Charles hotel in Baltimore.

The library made him open his eyes, it was so beautiful. He stood first at the window looking across the bed of tulips, now changed to pansies, heliotrope, and sweet alyssum; then, restless with suspense, turned t. the portrait of Jessica, whom he did not recognize as the cause of his young uncle's past transgression. He had always known the story . . . had heard it whispered that Heather Gayle's husband had loved Jessica Crewe, had been on the eve of divorcing Heather in order to marry her when he had, so opportunely for the marital conventions, been killed in a motor accident; that, shortly after the catastrophe, Jessica had married Caleb Winter. But the young woman in this portrait looked, Robin thought, gay and mocking, not in the least like his notion of a tragic heroine.

He heard a step, his pulses jumped, the heavy old door opened. There stood Crewe's young "housekeeper by courtesy," as white as her sheer sleeveless frock, and looked at him with her proud great eyes.

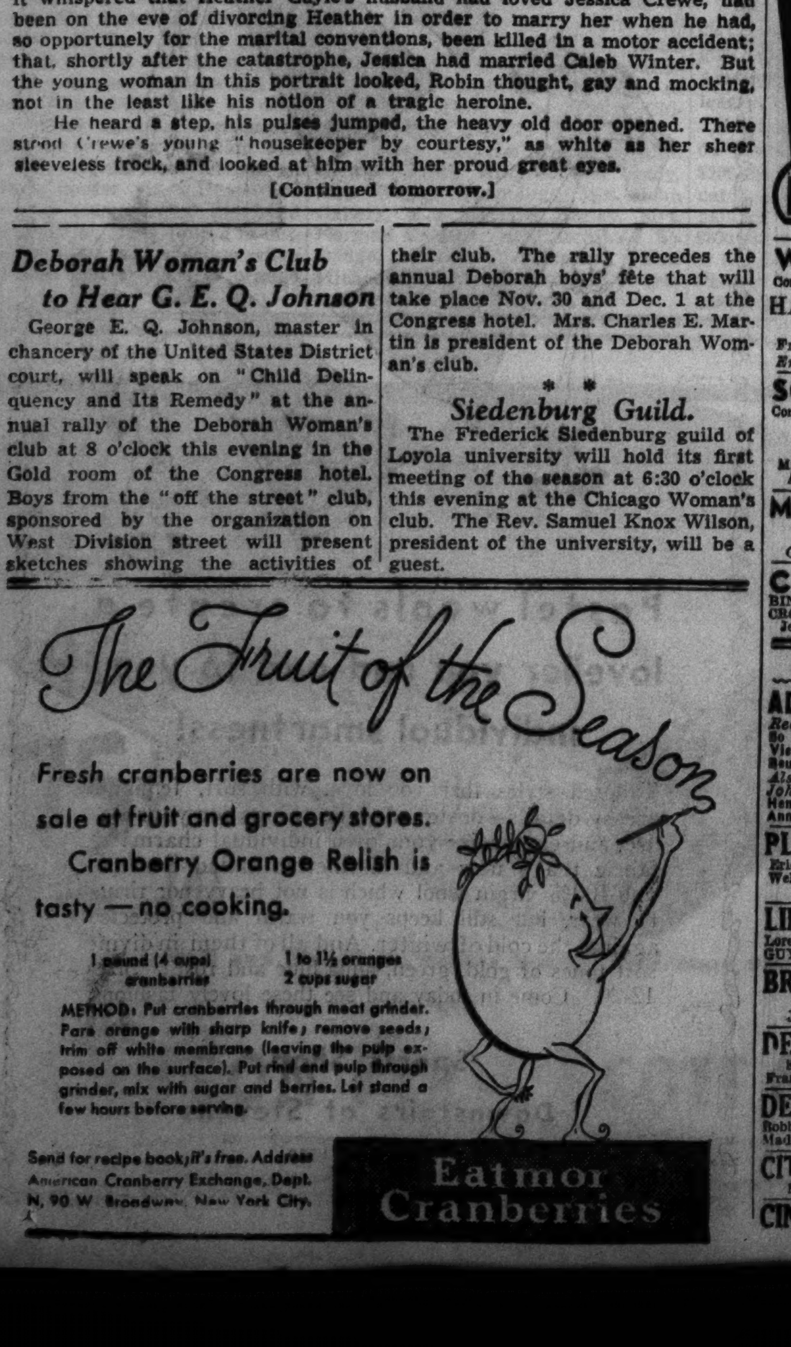
Siedenburg Guild.

The Frederick Siedenburg guild of Loyola university will hold its first meeting of the season at 6:30 o'clock this evening at the Chicago Woman's club. The Rev. Samuel Knox Wilson, president of the university, will be a guest.



The Fruit of the Season

Fresh cranberries are now on sale at fruit and grocery stores.

Cranberry Orange Relish is tasty — no cooking.

1 pound (4 cups) cranberries

1 to 1½ oranges

2 cups sugar

METHOD: Put cranberries through meat grinder. Pare orange with sharp knife; remove seeds; trim off white membrane (leaving the pulp exposed on the surface). Put rind and pulp through grinder, mix with sugar and berries. Let stand a few hours before serving.

Send for recipe book; it's free. Address American Cranberry Exchange, Dept. N, 90 W. Broadway, New York City.

will include friends of Mrs. Otis and of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Otis Jr. The only young people who will be present will be the debutante friends of Miss Otis, who will assist.

Miss Otis is at the Passavant hospital at the present time with an infected foot, but she expects to return to the Bennett school some time this week-end.

Christmas Windows Sells All Space.

The women planning this year's Christmas Windows, the sort of glorified bazar that is held each winter in the parish house of St. Chrysostom's church under the auspices of the Woman's guild, have several surprises up their sleeves which they are not telling about yet, but they are telling that they have sold all their space and that they are certain the affair will be the most successful they ever have given.

Christmas Windows will be open for shopping from 10 in the morning until 10 in the evening on Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 1 and 2. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings is honorary chairman of the large committee in charge and the active co-chairmen are Mrs. George A. Ranney and Mrs. Rensselaer Cox. Mrs. Harold Eldridge is in charge of building operations and Mrs. M. Paul Noyes has the task of seeing that the bazar is publicized.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr. is program and poster chairman and Mrs. William E. Parsons and Mrs. Ralph Sargent are co-chairmen of the committee planning the turkey dinner for the first night. Mrs. George B. Foster is in charge of tables and Mrs. William M. Collins Jr. of the waitresses.

Tea will be served both days, with Mrs. Ralph James as hostess on Wednesday and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague on Thursday. A play will be given on both nights. Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., assisted by Mrs. Roger D. Shaw, will produce it and although they are being very secretive about their plans, those to whom they have told anything say it is to be the funniest thing these two clever and amusing young women have done.

Within a week or ten days their Chicago friends will say good-by to the Webb Harrisons, who are moving to New York. The Harrisons—she is the former Betty Nash, sister of Mrs. Oliver M. Knode Jr.—have just finished settling an attractive little apartment in Commonwealth avenue, and now Mrs. Harrison is faced with the job of finding and decorating another one in New York.

James A. Drains Adopt Cradle Baby.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Drain, who are living in Michigan City but who have been spending almost every week-end in town since they moved from New York about two years ago, expect to be at home most of the time now, for they have a new baby. She is just 9 weeks old, and they have had her for two weeks, having adopted her from The Cradle. Her name is Anne Whitley Drain.

Mrs. Drain and Mrs. Francis Stanton have just finished making the sets for the Junior League Children's Theater production of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which will be given on four Saturday mornings at the Grand Opera house, starting this week.

Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine and Miss Frances Whedon, both of whom were in China in the late summer and both of whom are Smith alumnæ, will speak on their "Unforeseen Adventures in China" at the first fall meeting of the Chicago Smith College club on Saturday at the College club. At this same meeting, a luncheon one, "Favorite Recipes of Smith Alumnæ," will make its formal debut in Chicago.

The cookbook, which is published by the Chicago Smith club for the benefit of the general scholarship fund, is filled with delicious recipes.

A group of recent Smith college graduates will assist at a bridge tea to be given by the Evanston-North Shore Smith College club on Nov. 17 at the Evanston Country club. They will meet for tea with Mrs. John R. Montgomery this afternoon to discuss plans for the benefit.

Maternity Center Tea at Woodruff Home.

Mrs. George Woodruff will open her home to members and guests of the North Shore auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity center for a benefit bridge tea next Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Leonard Paidar is general chairman of the party. Mrs. Bentley Handwork, Mrs. Carey Orr, Mrs. Henry B. Vanzwoll, and Mrs. Paul Longone will pour.

The English Speaking union's meeting on Friday night, Nov. 19, will be at the Lake Shore Athletic club. At the meeting Aldous Huxley and Gerold Heard will conduct a symposium on "Roads to Peace." Tickets may be obtained at the club at the union's office, 360 North Michigan avenue.

Mrs. Henry Murphy, president of the Cenacle guild, and Mrs. George D. McLaughlin and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody are members of the general committee for the guild's benefit card party to be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Nov. 27, at the Stevens hotel. Miss Stella Trainor is the chairman. Mrs. Harry L. Drake is chairman of the junior committee, which includes Miss Marion Gordon, Miss Florence Hermes, Mrs. F. Strother Cary Jr., and Miss Dorothy Benedict.

Gives Lecture Today on Early Chinese Painting.

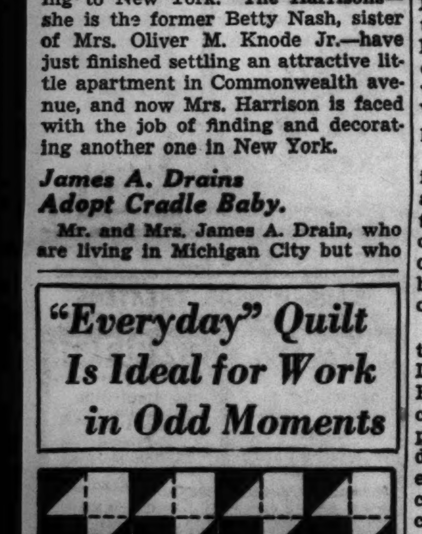
Charles Fabens Kelley will talk on "Early Chinese Painting Through the Sung Dynasty" at 11 o'clock this morning at the Art institute. The oriental department of the institute is sponsoring a series of five lectures by Mr. Kelley on "Masterpieces of Far Eastern Painting."

The third in a series of four Wednesday morning lectures will be given by Clifton Utley at 10:30 o'clock today in the ballroom of Mrs. George B. Dryden's Evanston home. The Evanston and North Shore Wells College club is sponsoring the series.

The Councilors, a group of alumnæ of the Sacred Heart in Chicago, will hold its first meeting at a buffet luncheon in the Winnetka home of Mrs. Walter Smith today. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for the fourth biennial conference of the Associated Alumnæ of the Sacred Heart to be held in Chicago in June, 1939.

Assisting Mrs. Smith will be Mrs. George Cooke, Mrs. William Healy, Mrs. Walter Cummings, Mrs. John Gallery, Mrs. Edward Bagley, Mrs. Norman Gerlach, Mrs. Archibald Eldridge, Countess Bolognesi, Mrs. Michael O'Brien, Miss Anna R. Ward, and Miss Joanna Fortune.

"Everyday" Quilt Is Ideal for Work in Odd Moments



Homeward Bound.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Homeward Bound" is one of those old quilts which were used for "everyday." It is a simple pieced block which is ideal for pickup work because it is so easy to piece and set together. The entire quilt is composed of these squares, surrounded by a five inch border of plain material. The original coverlet has an eight inch border of "Homeward Bound," but many prefer the band of plain material. It is quilted in outline and is extremely effective when done in ecru and a shade of orange brown.

Fears Europe's Unrest; Wants Art Treasures Sold to Americans

Patchogue, N. Y., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—T. Norman Palmer of Patchogue, director and trustee of the American Commercial Art Students league, today offered for sale the "Madonna and Infant," by Leonardo da Vinci, about 30 by 40 inches, for $200,000; a violin by Diuffopruggar, dated 1511-1516, and carved and painted by Leonardo da Vinci for $300,000, and a painting by Fragonard of a mythological subject for $100,000. Palmer is acting for a "wealthy American woman living abroad, with a desire to convert part of her fortune into United States dollars instead of francs, pounds, or lire." She also wants to assure the safety of the treasures, "which is threatened by European unrest."

Thinks Radio Erred in Leap to Hollywood

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Now that the bosses of broadcasting have just about finished moving the radio capital of the nation from New York to Hollywood, listeners might well begin considering what it has cost them. For the switch has by no means meant a gain on every front of radio entertainment. After all, the available listening channels in any metropolitan area and the choice evening hours are limited. For every sponsor who has chosen to put on a Hollywood glitter and glamor show there must be at least one potent radio performer, perhaps a half dozen, out of the broadcasting picture, temporarily.

Among those missing from regular sponsored broadcasts are such prime favorites as Paul Whiteman, Fred Waring, Dave Rubinoff, Lawrence Tibbett, Lily Pons, John Charles Thomas, Jane Froman, Ethel Shutta, Morton Downey, and James Melton. Among the comedians not in the broadcasting picture up to now this season are Ed Wynn, Joe Cook, Jack Pearl, Block and Sully, Howard and Shelton, and Milton Berle.

Any listener can make his own list of additional holes in the radio schedules. Ours includes Connie Boswell, Donald Novis, Arthur Tracy, the Street Singer, Jane Pickens, Harry Horlick, Wendell Hall, John Blaine, Bob Becker, Alice Joy, Ruth Etting, Irene Beasley, and many another.

And what have we in their place? Good news of 1938, an hour of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer promotion; Hollywood in Person, Cecil De Mille's Radio theater, Hollywood Hotel, Jack Oakie's Oakie Doakie college, Jack Haley and Wendy Barrie, Edward Robinson in Big City, a flock of movie commentators, interpreters and plain gossipers, and a few topnotch attractions such as the Bergen-McCarthy-Eddy-Ameche show, Bing Crosby's Music Hall, the Lanny Ross-Charley Butterworth hour, the Silver Theater, and Tyrone Power's dramatic series.

Such personalities as Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, Burns and Allen, Amos and Andy, Lum and Abner merely moved to Hollywood. They broadcast from other points in the same manner previously. Even Edgar Bergen, the hit of the year, merely switched from the Vallee program in New York to another vehicle in movieland.

With the trek to Hollywood, network program departments appear to have evolved few new program ideas this season. They have been too content to let outside interests do the trail blazing for them. The Zenith telepathy series, the Hobby Lobby, the Court of Missing Heirs, among the few new ideas of the year, came from individuals and agencies outside the fold of the big broadcasting program departments. One reason for that is that program departments, instead of being given more money for experimentation, have had their budgets trimmed.

In Hollywood the big movie concerns gamble a million or more dollars on a single picture. Every picture, after all, is largely a gamble until the box office receipts are known. Radio sponsors, being first business men and only secondly show men, seldom take chances like that.

What does all this prove? Precisely nothing. But it does raise the question as to whether the radio industry wouldn't be better off—and in better position to serve the listening public if broadcasters had retained a little firmer grip on their own private business instead of letting it slip so easily through their fingers.

The McClatchy Broadcasting company, Sacramento, Cal., was authorized by the communications commission yesterday to operate experimentally two facsimile radio stations for the transmission of visual reproductions of newspapers. Facilities of KFBK, Sacramento, and KMJ, Fresno, Cal., will be used.

Older Child Needs Petting Same as Baby

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Give it to him, he's only a baby!"

"Why, I'm surprised at you, Barbara, you must learn to give in, you're the oldest."

"You mustn't cry if he breaks it, he's only a baby, he doesn't know any better."

This sort of thing is unwise and unfair, especially when the older little sister or brother is really not very far past babyhood and can't be expected to understand.

Such an attitude on a mother's part may lead to unhappiness in the older child, or jealousy.

This is too bad because most little boys and girls take great joy in having a baby sister or brother, and treated fairly and lovingly themselves, they are only too ready to be generous and proud and protective. Really, it's cheating them of a lovely experience to make discriminations that are unfortunate, or to show favoritism to the littlest one.

Stop, think a little, and be fair, considerate, and as ready as ever with your interest and lovingness toward your first little boy or girl. But particularly, as today's point, think about it all in relation to her books, her playthings, her pencils and paper, and the work she may be doing at the moment.

◆

Protect her belongings. Don't let the baby break them or soil them. Don't make her give in to the baby always, don't make her give up whatever the adorable "King Pin" wants or "yips" for. Don't let him smudge her drawing or tear her books.

If you show a real respect for her things and protect them from the baby she will appreciate it, and be more generous and tolerant herself. It won't foster selfishness if done in the right way. It is the other attitude that makes an older child overly possessive.

Provide the baby with toys right for his age, let him climb and explore as much as possible, and divert his attention and substitute something else of interest when he yearns for the possessions dear to the heart of his bigger sister or brother.

Balk at Clark Gable as Star in British Film of Air Service

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A plan to star Clark Gable in a million dollar movie about the British air force which was to be made here with the coöperation of the air ministry aroused opposition in official circles, it was disclosed tonight.

The air ministry wants a British actor in the chief rôle, whereas the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer corporation claims that no suitable English star is available.

Several thousand feet of scenes from last summer's air force display at Hendon were obtained, with official help.

Some members of parliament even were reported to be urging the air ministry to refuse all aid in making the film unless a British actor were given the lead.

He's One Man Team, Rhodes Scholar.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The streamliner train City of Denver rolls majestically into the North Western station and comes to a graceful stop.

It isn't the speedy journey which these passengers have just recently enjoyed that they are discussing.

But who, you want to know, or what is this Whizzer White?

A new streamliner, maybe, which is threatening the supremacy of this speed demon of the rails that just brought them so hurriedly across the country to Chicago.

Well, almost, but not quite.

Meet the Whizzer.

Whizzer White is a young fellow from the University of Colorado who has been comin' round the mountains so fast and so often in this year's Rocky Mountain conference football games that even the melancholy night wail of the coyotes is now translated as simply "Nine Rahs and a Tiger for Whizzer."

Harry Hughes, coach of the Colorado State college team, is talking. He was in Salt Lake City last Saturday scouting Utah and watched Whizzer run wild to score all of the seventeen points of the game against the big and powerful Utah university Redskins.

"He is the greatest college player I have seen in the Rocky Mountain conference, and I have been head coach at Colorado State for twenty-five years and watched, among others, both Whizzer White and Dutch Clark play against my teams."

Only two weeks ago Coach Hughes had watched this same Whizzer personally rout his own Colorado State squad when White scored twenty-three points during the twenty minutes he played.

He's a Big Guy.

At the close of that game Hughes said, "I have never seen such a sensational exhibition of all-around play in a football game as White has just turned in."

Remember, Hughes had watched Dutch Clark play for three years.

He is 20 years old, stands six feet one inch tall, and weighs 185 pounds. On the university registrar's books the name is just plain Byron White.

He is president of the student body, a straight "A" scholar, Phi Beta Kappa, Rhodes scholarship candidate, and member of all campus scholastic honoraries.

He's Got a Record.

He played only 12 minutes against Colorado Mines this year and scored 24 points. On the first play of the game he went off tackle sixty-five yards for a touchdown. He has made fourteen runs this year longer than fifty yards. His seasonal punting average, including a lot of short out of bound kicks near the opposition's goal, is forty-seven yards.

He has kicked sixteen extra points out of twenty attempts. He has tossed forty-seven passes this season and has completed twenty-two of them. He is now in second place in the national scoring race with seventy-nine points and would be the leader if he craved scoring glory. Time and again he has driven the ball to within a short distance of the goal line only to call Full Back Erv Cheney's signal to carry the ball over. Cheney has made forty-two points this season taking the ball from up close on a signal called by Whizzer.

Against University of Missouri Whizzer turned in a sensational job of out of bounds kicking, brilliant signal calling, magnificent passing, made 175 yards from scrimmage lugging the ball and kicked both extra points. The Missouri ends finished the game with their tongues hanging out as a result of the Whizzer's quick change of pace and shiftiness.

Cracks Up Early.

White was the entire home town team during his high school days. Upon his matriculation into Colorado university the Whizzer reported for football and immediately got into the varsity's hair. This unknown player would run through the varsity night after night.

The Whizzer, who is a senior, played in one game as a sophomore. In that, his first appearance at quarter back against Oklahoma university, he was so severely injured that physicians told him he would never play again.

He fooled the doctors. He recovered soon enough to become, that season, the individual high scoring guard of the Rocky Mountain conference in basketball. Then he went on to win all conference honors in football in his junior year. His great

SASSE, ILL, QUITS AS MISSISSIPPI STATE COACH

State College, Miss., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Lieut. Col. Ralph Sasse, one of football's most colorful figures, resigned today as head coach of Mississippi State college.

G. D. Humphrey, university president, said Sasse resigned on orders of his physician, Dr. J. W. Eckford, who asked that the colonel relinquish his duties immediately. The resignation, however, will not take effect until the present season ends. Sasse, confined to bed at his home, was reported too ill to make a statement.

Before coming here, in January, 1935, Col. Sasse coached the United States Military academy team at West Point for three seasons. The Army hung up its greatest three year record under him.

Even Break This Year.

His Mississippi State teams have won 18 games, lost eight, and tied two. He lost to Duquesne, 13-12, in the Orange Bowl game Jan. 1 this year.

This season State has lost three games, won three and tied one. The team beat Delta State Teachers, 39 to 0, Florida, 14 to 13, and Howard, 38 to 0; played a scoreless tie with Centenary and dropped decisions to Auburn, 33 to 7, Texas A. and M., 14 to 0, and Louisiana State, 41 to 0.

President Humphrey said no change would be made in the present coaching staf and no successor to Sasse would be named until after the season closes.

Sasse was noted for his showmanship, his ideas including brine baths for his players, a "gridiron" julep and a suggestion that players wear kilts.

Is Distinquished as Officer.

The dual job as head of the military department and head football coach took heavy toll of Col. Sasse's physical and nervous energy. His resignation as head football coach does not affect his connection with the R. O. T. C. unit which he has commanded and which has won the highest rating given by the war department.

He left West Point to enter the war college from which he was graduated in 1934 with distinction. He was then assigend to Fort Knox, Ky., in charge of motorized cavalry, leaving that command to come to State college in 1935.

LOUIS TIRED OF LOAFING; ASKS 2 WINTER BATTLES

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Inactivity is becoming tiresome for Joe Louis, the heavyweight champion, and he has asked Promoter Mike Jacobs to arrange two fights for him this winter, Jacobs said today.

Jacobs talked with Julian Black, one of the champion's managers, by telephone today and told Black to come to New York to discuss sites and possible opponents. Black will be here Nov. 29 to see Bob Pastor and Nathan Mann fight in Madison Square Garden and the Louis fights may be arranged then.

Jacobs said he would like to match Joe for one bout in the Garden and another in Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, or some other city.

CARDINALS AND GUNNERS MEET IN GAME TONIGHT

The Chicago Cardinals will play their only game in three weeks tonight when they face the Chicago Gunners in the 124th armory.

College stars from Northwestern, Notre Dame, and De Paul make up the Gunner team which will outweigh the starting Cardinal eleven. Freddie Lind, Les Schreiber, Park Wray, John Zitko, and Hugh Duvall, all of Northwestern; Fred Mundee of Notre Dame, and Frank Butler, former Green Bay Packer center, carry the brunt of the Gunner attack.

The Cardinals' next league game is Sunday, Nov. 21, when the Detroit Lions return to Wrigley field.

To the Men Who Hold the Line.

O the full back bows to the cheering crowd,
And the halves and quarter, too,
And praise ascends for the plucky ends
Who fight for the Red and Blue.
To none so great do I dedicate this poor
Little verse of mine,
But here's to those in the fighting rows!
To the men who hold the line.
You watch the game and you all exclaim,
"Just look at that fellow run!"
And you'll shout and roar when the struggle's o'er
That the game was only won
By the full back's pluck in that splendid buck
That carried him toward the goal,
But you don't take time to think a bit
Of the men who made the hole.
Yes, the full back has his meed of thanks,
And the quarter did it all,
The halves are praised and a voice is raised
For the man who took the ball.
Now take your cup and fill it up
To the brim with dancing wine,
A toast to those in the fighting rows,
To the men who hold the line.

Hartnett Is Second, Two Points Behind.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Joe Medwick, middle name Michael, one of the leaders of the St. Louis Cardinals' so-called Gas House gang, was the National league's most valuable performer during the 1937 race. At least such was the judgment of a committee of baseball writers selected to confer the honorary award. The vote of the writers, announced yesterday, placed Ducky Wucky at the head of an array of 21 players with a total of 70 points.

Medwick won the award from Gabby Hartnett, veteran Cub catcher, by two points. Hartnett, who was rated twelfth with a total of six points last year, leaped into second with 68 points. Carl Hubbell of the Giants, victor with 61 points in 1936, continued to attract the attention of the voters. He polled 52 points for third place.

Hartnett Gets Three Firsts.

Although he finished second Hartnett has the satisfaction of knowing that he was named No. 1 man on three of the eight ballots cast. Medwick was first on two. Each drew a pair of No. 2 votes. What moved the mythical crown onto Medwick's head was the votes for third place. The Cardinals' star was named four times in this spot; Hartnett only once. Medwick didn't receive a point below third place, but on one ballot Hartnett was named fourth and on another sixth.

By naming Medwick the committee conceded that there was nobody in his class as a hitter. He was the 1937 batting king of the league with an average of .374. He produced 237 hits for a total of 405 bases and scored 111 runs. Fifty-seven of his hits were doubles and he drove in 154 runs. He also notched 31 homers, tying Mel Ott of the Giants for first place in this respect.

Four Other Cubs Named.

Two really deserving fellows in the league weren't overlooked, proving that the committee went beyond the first division for outstanding material. Jim Turner and Lou Fette, the aged freshman members of the Boston Bees' pitching staf, finished fourth and fifth with 30 and 29 points, respectively. Each won 20 games last season for a team pitifully weak on attack. The strangest feature of the voting was that Harry Danning, the Giants' catcher, was on only one ballot, but it was a first place vote for ten points.

Four Cubs besides Hartnett were among the 21 players listed on the eight ballots. Billy Herman was ninth with 19 points, Charley Root twelfth with 15, Frank Demaree fifteenth with nine, and Bill Jurges seventeenth with four. Dizzy Dean, the famous Cardinal pitching expert who won in 1934, didn't receive even one vote.

The voting, based on ten points for a first down to one for a tenth on the ballot, was as follows:

Name, team—	Pts.
Joe Medwick, St. Louis	70
Gabby Hartnett, Chicago	68
Carl Hubbell, New York	52

Pedens Gain One Lap Lead in Six Day Bicycle Race

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Four hundred and forty pounds of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Peden's redheaded boys, Torchy and Doug, the six day cyclists from Victoria, B. C., last night jammed their way into the lead at Chicago Stadium in the best exposition of power, speed, and vim the contest has developed since the race began Sunday evening.

For a brief period Monday night the Peden brothers had been able to usurp the persistent leadership of the Germans, Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, but had so exerted themselves that they were unable to hold their lap advantage. The Germans overtook them in mileage, and because of a greater sprint point total the Germans remained the boss men until the big surge of the Canadians shortly after 9:30 o'clock last night.

Then the Canuck giants seemed suddenly to have ridden into perfect physical shape. They really turned on the heat and had enough of what it takes to hang on to their edge through the remainder of the race's third day.

New Leaders Cheered.

The night's racing was the best the fans have seen here for several competitions. And there were 12,000 of the addicts present, most of them seeming to approve the big Peden idea, if hollering meant anything.

The other two teams, who with the Pedens are looked upon as the class of the race—Kilian and Vopel and the Frenchmen, Emile Ignat and Emile Diot—have shown no signs of weakening and continued to dominate the sprints.

Two neophyte teams yesterday found the pace too rigorous for their health and withdrew from the race. Ligman and Thelin dropped out during the afternoon and Baggio and Bedard allowed they had enough and carried off their bikes at 7 o'clock.

Debaets, Thomas Drop.

A four way mileage tie, which had existed at the beginning of the evening's whirling among Kilian-Vopel, Ignat-Diot, Peden-Peden, and Debaets-Thomas, was broken up during jamming throughout the 8 o'clock sprints to the extent that Debaets-Thomas, who had pedaled to the top flight in an afternoon jam, fell back in the early evening competition.

The vigorous spinning which resulted in the Pedens grabbing the race lead by a lap started at 9:05 o'clock and continued till 9:45 when the big Canadians shook off all their challengers to form the top flight alone.

Two minutes later the three leading teams each stole a lap on the field and at 9:10 the three leaders stole another lap, accompanied by Georgetti-Yaccino and Debaets-Thomas.

Walthour-Crossley at 9:14 stole a lap without much of a challenge since they were well down in the standings, and things went along without great significance for several minutes. At 9:30 o'clock, however, the three leading teams, accompanied by Letourner-Reboli and Rodman-Wals, lapped the field.

Biggest Drive of Race.

It was at 9:40 that the Peden brothers really turned on the heat with the biggest drive of the race up to that time. They were aided in their successful overhauling process by a near spill caused by Doug Peden's sidewiping of Rodman. While their pursuers were struggling to right their bikes after the Peden and Rodman bump, the Pedens roared on and at 9:45 it was announced they had gained the lap, leaving Kilian-Vopel and Ignat-Diot one lap back and the remainder of the field scattered back to Ottevaere-Behringer, who found themselves struggling almost two miles behind the leaders.

After the Pedens had forged to the fore the riders all appeared willing to declare an armistice and slowed down pending the start of the 10 o'clock sprints.

The 10 o'clock sprints were attended by the first cash premiums of the race. These were lively jousts but the lads were so eager for the prize sugar that they foreswore the usual jamming during the ten heats of the series.

Results of the midnight sprints:
1—Audy, Vopel, Ignat, Walthour.
2—Diot, Kilian, Debaets, Crossley.
3—Vopel, Ignat, Yaccino, Wals.
4—Kilian, Diot, Rodman, O'Brien.
5—Vopel, Audy, Ignat, Walthour.
6—Rodman, Debaets, O'Brien, Wals.
7—Vopel, Wals, Allen, Ignat.
8—W. Peden, Behringer, Lepage, Rodman.
9—D. Peden, Vopel, Ignat, Wals.
10—Debaets, Reboli, Behringer, Kilian.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A goal in the final minute of regulation time enabled the Canadiens to gain a 2 to 2 tie with the Chicago Blackhawks tonight in Montreal's opening game of the National Hocky league season.

Both Blackhawk goals, their first of the season, came in the third period and overcame a lead the Canadiens had assumed in the second period.

After climaxing two dull periods with an offensive burst in the third the teams went back to defensive hocky in the overtime. Only 4,000 were attracted by the Hawks, who lost their first game at home to New York's Americans last week, 3 to 0.

Blake Gets First Goal.

Bill Stewart, former chief of the National Hocky league referees, made his road debut as Blackhawk manager, and it was largely through the efforts of his veterans that the Hawks earned a tie. Louis Trudell got the first Chicago goal after seven minutes of the third period and Earl Seibert came through with the other two minutes later.

The teams went through a quiet first period that produced neither a goal nor a penalty. The Canadiens forced most of the early play and went ahead when Toe Blake sank Joffre Desilets' pass at 6:31 of the second period.

The Canadiens nearly lost the contest by playing defensive hocky in the third period. Trudell whipped in Mush March's pass and Seibert scored on an assist from Johnny Gottselig to put the Hawks ahead.

Seibert Rallies Canadiens.

Then Defenseman Babe Seibert, voted the league's most valuable player last winter, rallied the Canadiens, and after the Hawks had put down Canadien attacks several times, a break came when Earl Seibert of the Hawks was sent to the penalty box. Montreal turned on a power play and George Mantha took Johnny Gagnon's long pass beside the net and flipped the puck in as Mike Karakas fell in a desperate attempt to save.

The Hawks left after the game for New York, where Thursday night they play the new York Rangers in the second engagement of their three game road trip. From New York they come back to play the Toronto Maple Leafs at Toronto Saturday night, then return with the Leafs to Chicago that night for a game at the Chicago Stadium Sunday.

GREENLEAF AND MOSCONI WIN TO STAY IN CUE TIE

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Defending Champion Ralph Greenleaf of New York and Willie Mosconi, Philadelphia, remained deadlocked for the lead in the world pocket billiard tournament as each won his match tonight, the former defeating Marcel Camp of Detroit, 125 to 92, and Mosconi triumphing over Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia, 125 to 82.

Greenleaf had broken the tie to go into the lead earlier in the evening, but Mosconi, trailing Ponzi 80 points to minus 1 in the fifth inning of his match, rallied to win and remain in the first place deadlock.

Three of the twelve players completed their round-robin schedule today. Benny Allen of Kansas City beat Charles Seaback of Boston, 125 to 77, in 18 innings, to finish his schedule with five victories and six defeats. Seaback's defeat brought his total of losses to eight. He won three victories. Joe Diehl completed his string by losing to George Kelly of Philadelphia, 125 to 117, in 18 innings. Diehl had won four victories, and the loss was his seventh. For Kelly, the victory was his second in ten matches.

NUMBER OF PLAYS PROVE STRENGTH OF RIVAL TEAMS

Comparative Scores Are Misleading.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The best basis for comparison of two football teams is the record of the number of times each has the ball for plays from scrimmage. Continued possession will pile up a mark which can not be refuted.

This doesn't mean that the eleven which has the ball the greater number of times necessarily will win, any more than the greater number of first downs always indicates the victor. But it will be a more accurate record than net yards gained from scrimmage, since fumbles or losses while attempting to pass may erase well desered distances previously gained.

The record of the Pittsburgh-Notre Dame game last Saturday is most unusual. In the first place, exclusive of kickoffs and those plays on which penalties were assessed, there were only 116 plays by both teams. Thirteen of these were punts and sixteen were forward passes. One of these passes, a completion by Notre Dame, was called back in the fourth quarter because McCarthy, the passer, was not five yards behind the line of scrimmage when he threw. This violation cancelled a twenty-five yard gain.

Not Many Plays.

This number of plays is below the customary number in a game. Only by addition of eight plays on which penalties were inflicted, and the six kickoffs does the total exceed two plays a minute.

Most surprising in this summary is the fact that Pittsburgh put the ball in play seventy-seven times, including seven punts. Notre Dame put the ball in play thirty-nine times, including six punts. Obviously Pittsburgh was far stronger on attack than Notre Dame.

	N.D.	Pitt.		N.D.	Pitt.
First period	11	17	Third period	6	18
Second period	11	21	Fourth period	11	21

Notre Dame had fewer opportunities to score in the third period than in any other. But it was in this quarter that the Irish scored by a long forward pass, McCarthy to Puplis. Immediately, then, it can be seen how an inferior eleven sometimes whips a superior opponent. The Panthers' rally in the fourth quarter was produced from twenty-one plays from scrimmage, during which time Pitt did not have to punt.

Only Points Count, Though.

Such comparisons are the background for statements that Minnesota outplayed Nebraska; that Indiana outplayed Nebraska, and that Pittsburgh outplayed Fordham. Nebraska won the Minnesota and Indiana games and Pitt and Fordham played a scoreless tie.

Rebuttal consists of the fact that football results are only measured by points scored by touchdowns, points after touchdown, field goals, and safeties, and that it is possible for the winner to be outgained, to have fewer first touchdowns, and to have fewer chances to score.

Now include the errors that may be committed, fumbles, incomplete passes that might have been caught, blocked kicks, and losses by penalties, and you have listed the uncertainties of a game the attraction of which centers in uncertainty. If football followed form charts on personnel, weight, speed and individual ability, who would wish to watch the games?

Comparative scores, as a means of arriving at proof of superiority, generally have no bearing. There is no importance in a cycle of results such as: Illinois Wesleyan defeats De Paul, De Paul ties Illinois, Illinois ties Notre Dame, and Notre Dame defeats Minnesota, therefore Illinois Wesleyan can whip Minnesota.

It's a Hard Job.

But by this means, each week the nation's supposedly best ten teams are selected. Neither Minnesota nor Notre Dame is included in this week's list, and it is admitted that neither should be included by arbitrary comparisons. But Baylor, an outstanding team in this survey until the University of Texas proved otherwise, has been ranked above both.

It is difficult even to rank Western conference elevens where there is an advantage of knowledge of personnel and intra-conference competition to serve as a basis of argument. Probably most will agree that Minnesota now is the leading Big Ten team and that Iowa and Chicago are the weakest. But the Maroons almost whipped Michigan [and so did Iowa and Illinois], and Purdue never will be convinced that it isn't as formidable as Northwestern.

For that matter, Minnesota never was convinced it wasn't superior to Northwestern, last year's Big Ten champion, although the Wildcats whipped the Gophers, 6 to 0.

What Do You Think?

Here's a guess at the relative merits of the Big Ten, subject to your disapproval. Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio State, Illinois, Northwestern, Michigan, Purdue, and Wisconsin, tied for seventh, and Iowa and Chicago, tied for ninth.

Purdue plays Wisconsin this week. Illinois, conqueror of Northwestern but beaten by Michigan, 7 to 6, and by Indiana, meets Ohio State. Indiana, of course, must whip Iowa to retain second place, and Northwestern can upset the entire grouping by trouncing Minnesota.

MICHIGAN PROBES ALUMNI FUNDS FOR ATHLETES

Kromer was planning to enroll here I decided to come with him."

One of the Chicago boys who last year worked for an Ann Arbor firm which is alleged to have accepted money from the alumni fund to pay his salary has withdrawn from athletics this year to devote all his time to scholastic work. It was stated tonight he had been offered an athletic scholarship, good for two years, at the University of Chicago before he made up his mind to attend Michigan.

No Varsity Men Involved.

No athlete now representing Michigan in intercollegiate competition is involved in the rumors.

According to campus gossip, the athletic board will vote for Kipke's dismissal as head coach immediately after the close of the season. The faction on the board and in alumni circles which almost succeeded in forcing his resignation last winter is said to be ready for a new attack on his handling of the 1937 squad, which has failed to measure up to expectations.

Acquainted with Rumors.

The board refused to amplify its position beyond the following statement:

"The members of the board in control of physical education have become acquainted with the rumors that certain students who have been or who are in the university as probable candidates for intercollegiate athletic teams were or are subsidized contrary to conference rules and regulations.

"It should be stated emphatically, however, that these rumors affect no one whose eligibility has been declared by the board, or who has presented himself to the board as a candidate for any team.

Some Already Dropped.

"Certain men against whom these rumors and charges apply, freshmen on the campus last year, have been dropped from the university, never having become academically eligible for consideration as a member of any athletic team. The other men affected by these rumors are now freshmen, whose eligibility, of course, would not be considered until they have been in residence one full year and have completed satisfactorily one full year of college work and have then presented themselves as candidates for a team.

"Ordinarily a candidate for an athletic team is not declared ineligible, at least so far as improper subsidization is concerned, unless reasonably definite proof is at hand to support the charges. The board, however, in case of strong suspicion based upon evidence indicative of the probability of such improper subsidization may reverse the usual order and upon presentation declare a candidate ineligible, subject to his furnishing satisfactory evidence that his support is of the character permitted by the conference rules.

Responsibility Is Goal.

"The board takes this occasion to announce that it will not hesitate to employ this machinery. One thing the board will not permit is the violation of the standards declared by the group to which Michigan belongs, which standards Michigan's representatives helped to formulate.

"The board will, moreover, exert every effort to determine whether the rumors referred to at the beginning are substantiated, and, if so, to fix the responsibility."

The conference rules referred to by the board's statement provide that no cholarships, loans, or remissions of tuition shall be awarded on the basis of athletic skill, and no financial aid shall be given by alumni organizations, alumni, or others with the purpose of subsidizing them as athletes or of promoting the athletic success of a particular university.

Fenwick Seeks Another Title---So Does St. George

Fenwick of Oak Park, 1936 football champion of the Catholic high school league and co-holder with Austin of the city title, will find out Sunday afternoon whether or not it will make another appearance in Mayor Kelly's charity game on Nov. 27. The champions will meet St. George of Evanston at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, for the north section championship and the right to oppose Leo, south division winner, for the league title on Nov. 21.

Fenwick, with only Don Kruger remaining from its 1936 regular lineup has traveled a rocky road to reach a tie for first place with St. George in the north section. Facing defeat several times the champions rallied on each occasion and have a record of five consecutive victories. Kruger, a slow kicker last year, but a fine runner and passer, has improved considerably in this department of the game, according to Coach Tony Lawless. Lawless gloomily shakes his head when title possibilities are discussed, however.

St. George Is Powerful.

"Man for man, we are licked," said Lawless. "We have a chance, but St. George is too powerful."

St. George has suffered no anxious moments against its five opponents. With Jim Partland leading the attack, the north shore eleven has piled up 145 points to its opponents' 31 in the drive to first place. The team's strength was shown when it overwhelmed De Paul, always a strong contender, 52 to 0. Fenwick has scored 83 points to its opponents' 20.

St. George also has the advantage of an extra week's preparation for the Fenwick game. The Evanston team drew a bye in last Sunday's schedule, while Fenwick played Andy Pilney's Weber eleven and triumphed, 19 to 14.

Austin vs. Fenger.

The greatest crowd in the history of the Chicago Public High School league semi-finals will watch Austin and Fenger at Soldiers' field Saturday afternoon. More than 15,000 sents already have been disposed of and a crowd of 25,000 is expected. Another crowd of 15,000 is expected at Loyola stadium, where Senn and Tilden Tech will meet in the other semi-final contest.

Austin's eleven, favorite to win the league championship, went to work yesterday for the first time since it defeated Crane Tech, 31 to 0, last Friday night. Bill De Correvont, who has scored 156 of his team's 289 points, suffered a slight leg injury in the game. He participated in yesterday's drill, however.

play plus his fifty-four points as leading scorer made him even this early the outstanding player in the Rockies. He also won all conference honors in baseball as an outfielder and first baseman with a batting average of .419.

But this ability to arrive at stardom didn't come easy for Whizzer. Even after the reputation he had made as a junior, White worked all of last summer to improve his football. He labored to become more skilful in what he believed were the two weak points in his game—throwing a football and kicking one.

He Goes for Practice.

To improve his throwing accuracy he spent hours tossing a football through a rubber automobile tire forty yards away. To become a more accurate punter he set a red flag on the 2 yard line of a football field. He booted thousands of spirals aiming to roll the ball out of bounds where the red flag was located.

What of his future? He hasn't considered professional football. He has rejected one major league offer to play baseball. It is the Rhodes scholarship examination next month that gets most of his attention.

Definitly Whizzer has decided some day to become a lawyer.

And that is the story, so far, of Whizzer White, No. 1 citizen of Wellington, a town of 400 population, in northern Colorado.

MUTUAL SYSTEM WILL BROADCAST EAST-WEST GAME

When the annual east-west all-star football game is played in San Francisco on New Year's day the Mutual broadcasting system will present an exclusive coast-to-coast broadcast. This announcement was made yesterday by William Coffman, of San Francisco, managing director of the all-star game, after a conference with Mutual broadcasting system officials in Chicago.

Wright College Plays Wesleyan Team Tonight

Wright college, 1937 champion of the Illinois Junior College conference, and a team of freshman and varsity reserves from Illinois Wesleyan university will play tonight at the Spencer Coals park, 4200 North Central avenue. The kickoff is set for 8:15 o'clock.

Dr. Harry J. Fausel, Wright coach, considers his team the greatest in the history of the northwest side school.

14 Suburban Boys Advance in C. Y. O. Meet

Eight suburban boxers in the open division and six in the novice class qualified for the semi-finals of the Catholic Youth Organization Amateur tournament in 16 bouts held at Catholic High school gymnasium in Joliet last night before a near capacity crowd of 1,200.

The semi-finals are scheduled at C. Y. O. center Nov. 22 and 23. North Side challengers will compete in sectional trials at Marigold Gardens tonight, tomorrow, and Friday.

Louis Ginnetti, welterweight representing St. Anthony parish, Joliet, and Bob Meehan, featherweight of Lewis Holy Name Technical school, Lockport, were particularly impressive in last night's bouts. Ginnetti, a star football player at Joliet Township High school last year, stopped Frank Smosma of Lewis Holy Name school in his second round fight and then returned to conquer Dan McCarthy of St. Viator college in the quarter finals.

Last night's results:

Veteran End Rewarded for Comeback.

Benz was regarded last year, as one of the outstanding pass receivers in the western conference. He continued to play great football during the first four games this fall, but against Pittsburgh and Northwestern he was used less at left end than Jimmy Riordan, a 200 pound sophomore from Rhinelander.

Virtually recovered from a minor injury, Benz was back at his former position today on the first team and certain to start against the Boilermakers.

The first two teams ran through a long dummy scrimmage this afternoon against Purdue's running and pass plays while the third stringers scrimmaged the freshmen.

PURDUE HAS SCRIMMAGE.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Revising the defense in the hope of halting the Wisconsin attack that has carried the Badgers through the Big Ten season with only one defeat occupied attention of Purdue's coaching staf tonight in a brisk scrimmage session.

The Boilermakers, once again underdogs, are hopeful of springing one of the upsets that has characterized the spectacular series with the Badgers, although they are fully aware of the fact that it will take a tighter defense and a more sustained attack if they are to attain their goal.

The coaches were pleasantly surprised tonight to find that the regulars had come through the bruising Fordham encounter in comparatively good physical condition. They expect the team to be at nearly top strength in the effort to repulse a Badger crew that has had two weeks of rest.

Colen Named Basketball Coach at Loyola U.

HUNTERS START TODAY ON QUEST FOR UPLAND GAME

Pheasants and Rabbits Are Plentiful.

Thousands of rabbit and pheasant hunters will be in the marshes and sloughs of northern Illinois this morning to salute the opening of the 1937 season on upland game.

While hunters are bombarding the cottontails and the ringnecks in Chicagoland other upland game shooters will be in the quail fields downstate as the Illinois game code permits the taking of bobwhites starting Nov. 10. The pheasant season will continue through Nov. 15. Quail hunting will be legal until Dec. 9.

A last minute checkup of possible hunting places within fifty miles of Chicago's loop showed yesterday that hundreds of available sloughs or lowlands where weeds and grass form ideal cover for pheasant and rabbits already had been leased by hunters.

Ringnecks Are Plentiful.

With a pretty fair crop of pheasants hatched during the summer and thousands of additional birds released by the state, hunters should find plenty of ringnecks in the coverts on their opening day hunt this morning. The rabbit crop also is good this year. Many hunters, especially those without bird dogs, will devote the day to the sport of rabbit hunting, if they are able to find farms and other acreage which is not posted with no trespassing signs.

This is the first upland game season with the state law requiring all hunters to use guns holding not more than three shells. In former years the federal law prohibited duck and goose hunters from using repeating guns [holding more than three shells] for waterfowl hunting. The last legislature amended the game code to apply this regulation to the hunting of all Illinois game.

Wardens on Lookout.

Therefore, all pheasant, rabbit, and quail hunters who go into the field today or during the current upland game season, must use guns capable of holding not more than three shells.

Wardens will cruise through the northern counties from sunrise to sunset to check hunters on this regulation and also to see that bag limits and the trespassing provision in the game code are not violated.

REMOVE SHIFT RULE, LAYDEN TELLS WARNER

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Coach Elmer Layden, of Notre Dame, is willing to lend support to Glenn [Pop] Warner's appeal for a rules, revision to aid the football offensive—but the Irish coach wants to revoke some of the present measures instead of drafting new ones.

"Back in 1926," Layden said today in commenting on the Temple university coach's suppestion, "Pop Warner led a campaign to put the shift rule into the football code. He and his followers succeeded.

"Now, if he really wants to help the offense, let him lead a drive to revoke the shift rule. Take that one-second halt out of the shift and the offense will have everything it needs to cope with special defenses.

"You can't set up a special defense against an attack which is moving before the defense can get set."

Layden recalled the shift rule was aimed directly at the Notre Dame style of offense and hindered its effectiveness by forcing the backfield to come to a complete stop after shifting.

Prior to the rule, Irish backs—and those of other teams using the same system—had a running start toward the point of attack and the defense did not have time to shift over to meet the play.

GEESE PROVIDING THEIR SHARE OF HUNTING THRILLS

BY BOB BECKER.

The sonorous honking of hundreds of wild geese now is one of the musical features of the countryside near Bath, Ill., a small town on the lower Illinois river.

When we were hunting out of Loganberry lodge [northeast of Bath] a few days ago we never tired of watching the geese from the field or duck blinds. The way the flocks of honkers tumbled out of the sky to their favorite rye fields, the short flights of small flocks of geese from one field to another, and the supreme thrill of seeing honkers swing over the decoys within gun range were experiences that gave us a high temperature for several hours.

A Great Show.

The other day [when a southwest wind was blowing] Stuart Logan, owner of the field which the geese like to frequent, had us in a blind along with other members of his hunting party around seven o'clock in the morning. A flock of geese came up to the decoys within a few minutes. After the shooting at this flock the field was rested until about 1:30 in the afternoon. From then until about 2:45 p. m. the smart honkers put on a great show. Sometimes 20 would drop down to the field out of range. But they were not allowed to park there very long. Virgil Miller would climb out of the blind, walk out on the field and shoo them away. Then up would come five or six, swing just right, the guns would speak, and geese would fall out of the sky. We recall one moment during this fun when there were four birds falling at once.

We occupied a blind with David Peck and William O'Donnell. On our right was another blind with shooters. In the course of banging at one of the small flocks which worked the decoys there occured one of the most laughable incidents that we have ever seen on a goose hunt.

On the Head.

Either Peck or O'Donnell shot at a goose rather high in the air over the other blind. When the bird started to fall it was right over John Gorin who was in the adjoining blind. Before he could shoot a big bundle of feathers came out of the sky and hit him a glancing blow on the left side of his head . . . a surprise that caused him to give up the idea of shooting for the moment. A few inches to the right and the 8 or 9 pound goose would have made a direct hit on Gorin's head.

One of the extra "dividends" on this goose shooting in the fields is the way the mallards and pintails flock to the big goose decoys. The ducks put on a beautiful show when they swoop down low over these decoys. It has been possible to get a nice bag of ducks right out in the dry goose field because the ducks decoy perfectly.

Center Lost to N. U. for Gopher Game

The crippled condition of Northwestern's football team was further complicated yesterday when John Haman, sophomore center, was called to his home at Naperville by the death of his father. Haman was to have started the Minnesota game Saturday in place of the injured Erwin Wegner.

Northwestern will face Minnesota with a team greatly weakened by a run of injuries to key players. This is particularly true in the line where Bob Voigts, right tackle, is the only letter man available for duty from tackle to tackle.

Nick Cutlich, a sophomore, will be stationed at left tackle. Hal Method and Don Guritz, sophomores, will be at the guard positions in place of Mike Calvano and Dick Wells, letter men, who are injured. Guritz who was unable to play against Illinois reported for the first time yesterday and may be able to start against the Gophers.

Rose May Start at Center.

The center position offers a problem. It is probable that John Rose, a junior who has not seen action in any major game this fall, will get the starting assignment. He played full back as a sophomore but was shifted to center this fall because of the shortage of pivotmen.

The backfield also has its quota of injuries but all of the ailing players are expected to be able to play Saturday, Dan Heap, half back, and Nick Conteas, quarter back, will be held out of practice this week in an effort to have them ready for action by Saturday.

Although the team as a whole showed need of further drills on blocking, Coach Lynn Waldorf said yesterday that heavy contact work was out of the question because of the depleted physical strength of the team.

BIERMAN FEARS N. U.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Coach Bernie Bierman admits that Minnesota didn't get the best of the bargain when Illinois bowled over Northwestern last Saturday. He expects the Wildcats to bounce back from that defeat in the right mood psychologically and be ready to play their best game of the year against Minnesota this week.

But, since Bernie Bierman came into the Western conference as coach, no team has been able to defeat him twice in a row. That record provides the Wildcats with an urge as they knocked the Gophers out of a title last year.

After a day off yesterday, except for pictures and a chalk talk, the Gophers went back to work today. Sunny skies allowed them to work outdoors, but they did retreat to the fieldhouse to complete their secret practice.

Three players, Capt. Ray King, Charlie Schultz, and Wilbur Moore, were bothered by bruises, with Moore the most severely hurt of the lot. But even he will be ready for some service Saturday.

TICKETS HARD TO GET, AS USUAL, FOR IRISH-ARMY GAME

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Tickets, which are always at a premium for the Army-Notre Dame football games, were, if it is possible to imagine such a situation, even scarcer than is usual during the week of New York's big game, and indications today were that scalpers would find their seats bringing prices in excess of pre-depression bids.

For it seems that there are some 500,000 people in metropolitan New York who would like to see the once beaten Cadets duel Coach Elmer Layden's Irish from Indiana, and the hitch develops when it is remembered that there are only 80,000 seats available, all of which were sold weeks ago.

A tour of the ticket agencies today revealed that the lowest price at which a ticket, not too well located, could be purchased was $8.30. One scalper had seats on the 40 yard line, either in the grandstand or out in the open, at $15 each, and another agency wanted $10 for tickets on the 20 yard line and there were bids of $30 for a brace of $4.40 as the boys who scalp dug themselves in for a big week.

IRISH SEEK HALF BACK.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame today still was looking for a left half back, and his search took him from coast to coast in two hours.

While the varsity rested again, the second and third teams scrimmaged against the B team. The shock troops had Harry Stevenson Jr., Orange, N. J., at left half back at the start on the basis of his punting against Pittsburgh Saturday. Then Layden moved westward to Chicago, and Johnny Sullivan, Chicago sophomore, got his chance. Bradley Lynn, San Francisco sophomore, was the third man used.

Max Burnell of Duluth, was at right half, while Ben Binkowski and Ed Simonish shared the full backing duties. Chuck O'Reilly was at quarter back. Babe Marshall, Philadelphia right guard, was kept out of scrimmage pending a final examination of the ear injury he received in the Navy game. Joe Race replaced him, with Jim McGoldrick at the other guard and Ed Longhi at center.

Brandt Florals Meet Austin Bears Sunday

The Brandt Florals, undefeated in semi-pro football this season, will meet the Austin Bears at Harlem and North avenue Sunday.

Illinois (Victor Over N. U.) Ahead, So Ohio State Gets Busy

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Their air of superiority gone Ohio State's football players got down to hard work tonight in preparation for their homecoming game with Illinois Saturday. Since the Illinois defeat of Northwestern last Saturday, the Buckeyes seem to realize they have a battle just ahead.

Once more the cripples of the Buckeye team, Rabb, Wasylik, McDonald, Crow, Schoenbaum and Wolf, spent most of the session on the side lines. Rabb and Wasylik didn't even put on uniforms. Wasylik's ankle is responding to treatment so well that Dr. Walter Duffey, team physician, said the speedy back might play Saturday.

A long drill was held by the regulars with offense, both in the air and on the ground, being stressed. A scrimmage against the freshman team, with the latter demonstrating Illinois plays, will be held Wednesday.

BOUDREAU MAY KICK.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Louis Boudreau, the "Flying Frenchman" of basketball and baseball fame may join the Illinois football squad on its invasion of Ohio State this week for possible service as a place kicker for the point after touchdown—if and when the Illini score a touchdown.

Boudreau, who has never played high school or college football, but has had experience as a kicker in physical education classes, appeared today and showed considerable dexterity in kicking goals. If Zuppke decides to take him to Columbus, his service would be limited to the happy contingency of trying for a goal after touchdown.

The Illini have missed four tries for points after touchdown this season, one failure causing the loss of the Michigan game.

Iowa Changes Pass Defense for Indiana

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Iowa's pass defense was changed today when the first practice was held since the Minnesota game. One guard will pull out of the line to aid the secondary in an attempt to stop the passes in the two remaining games. This will leave a five man line.

Chuck Brady, left guard, probably will be added to the secondary defense against Indiana here Saturday and Nebraska the following week.

The squad was sent through a prolonged blocking drill in an effort to brush up on that phase of the game. Nile Kinnick was held to thirty yards in runback of punts against Minnesota, and his failure to gain was attributed to the inability of the secondary to carry out blocking assignments.

HOOSIERS FEAR LETDOWN.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Blocking and defense received major attention at Indiana today as the coaching staf sought to guard against a letdown when the Hoosiers invade Iowa Saturday.

Coach Bo McMillin, who was confined to bed with a cold and laryngitis this morning, was able to direct practice in the afternoon.

Chicago Stadium to Hold Annual Ice Show Nov. 24-28

MAROON SECOND TEAM WILL START AGAINST BELOIT

Though his team is scarcely in a position to be overconfident, Coach Clark Shaughnessy yesterday indicated that he will start his second team against Beloit in the final home game for the Maroons, at Stagg field Saturday. The attention of the first team will be directed toward preparing for Illinois the following week.

Part of Shaughnessy's logic is that the squadmen who have seen but little service in games ought to be rewarded for their season's effort with a chance to start. The lineup which will take the field for Chicago will probably be Fetman and Meyer, ends; Shackleton and Goldsmith, tackles; Sass and Anderson, guards; Parsons, center; Greenebaum, quarter back; Davenport and Palmer, half backs, and Irwin, full back. The regulars, however, doubtless will see considerable action.

Silver Arrows Meet Berwyn Eleven Tomorrow Night

The undefeated Silver Arrows of Cicero will play the Berwyn Parrots in a Windy City Football league game tomorrow night at St. Philip stadium. The last meeting of these two teams resulted in a 7 to 7 tie. Manager Jimmy Goodman of the Silver Arrows will start his crack backfield of former Morton High school stars, consisting of Chudy, Doscotch, Pietrak, and Bilek.

DE PAUL DRILLS HARD FOR SOUTH DAKOTA STATE

Fearful of a letdown, Coach Ben Connor has been giving his De Paul reserves plenty of work in practice for the homecoming clash Saturday at Wrigley field with South Dakota State.

The problem is to find a suitable replacement for the injured tackle, Joe Gagliardo. Red Chaddock, a reserve of two years' experience, probably will start regular Saturday. He has had more experience than any other tackle on the squad. John McInerney, a sophomore, also has been showing well in practice.

Twelve Blue Demon players will make their final bow before a home crowd Saturday. Eight of these are linemen.

P. G. A. MEETING OPENS; ELECTION EXPECTED TODAY

Jacobus Likely to Win Fifth Term.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the Professional Golfers' association opened yesterday in the Morrison hotel with the reading of official reports. Most important action of the day was the opinion of Arthur J. W. Hilly, New York attorney, that the P. G. A. will not be liable to any penalty as a result of the complaint filed against it last June by the federal trade commission, charging the P. G. A. and a number of manufacturers with unfair business practice in connection with the manufacture and sale of golf balls bearing the insignia of the P. G. A.

In addition to Attorney Hilly's opinion, reports were read by George R. Jacobs of Ridgewood, N. J., president of the organization; Jack Mackie of New York, treasurer; Tom Walsh of Chicago, secretary; Fred Corcoran of Boston, manager of the P. G. A. tournament bureau; A. W. Tillinghast of New York, consultant architect, and Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, chairman of the tournament committee.

Cunningham Leading Candidate.

The election of officers probably will be held at one of today's sessions. Jacobus is a candidate for reelection to a fifth term, but his administration has been under fire on several counts during the last year, and it is expected that there may be considerable opposition to his election. A number of candidates have been suggested as successors to Jacobus, the leading one being Alex Cunningham, North Shore professional, who has the backing of the Illinois section and a number of other central states units.

Aside from stating that any mistakes which had been made during his last term were honest ones, Jacobus was reported to have made his report to the closed meeting in routine fashion.

Corcoran's report showed that the P. G. A. will have conducted thirty-four tournaments for the calendar year ending Dec. 31, with aggregate purses of $163,000. In this will be included tournaments at Pinehurst, Miami, Nassau, and Hollywood, Fla., and the first annual national P. G. A. seniors event at Augusta, Ga., on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and 2.

Including pro-amateur events held by P. G. A. members within their own sections, and state and district events, the total purses for the year will reach approximately $200,000, Corcoran said.

Removes Traps from Courses.

Tillinghast, who has inspected 600 courses within the last two years as the P. G. A.'s consultant architect, said the club members throughout the country have reacted favorably to the plan whereby he makes suggestions for the improvement of courses. Ridding courses of superfluous traps and thus reducing maintenance costs has been one of the major factors in the Tillinghast program. Recently he caused 49 of the 143 traps at the Whitemarsh Country club of Philadelphia to be removed at a saving of $1,500. Sixteen traps were removed from one hole, the eleventh, at the Aronimink club of Philadelphia.

Secretary Walsh announced that the present P. G. A. membership, which covers 28 sections throughout the country, has now reached 1,818, the highest in the organization's history. New members received within the year made the membership higher by twelve than any other year.

Corcoran's report also conceded the low scoring trophy for the year to Harry Cooper of Chicago, who has rolled up 490 points in the standings against 366 for his nearest rival, Ralph Guldahl, Chicago's national open champion, who has undergone a minor operation in a Miami hospital. This victory will not only insure Cooper the trophy but will also bring him a cash prize of $500 offered by a national clothing manufacturer to the winner of the trophy.

DUTCH ARMY WINS ITS FIRST TITLE IN A HORSE SHOW

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Netherlands army team tonight won its first major title in National Horse show history, when Lieut. Col. L. R. De Kruyff piloted the veteran jumper, Godard, to victory in the international individual military championship competition before a crowd of 13,000 in Madison Square Garden.

The Dutch combination came through with a clean performance the first time over the eight difficult jumps to tie the Belgian entry of Ramona, ridden by Lieut. Yves Vanstrydonck. In the jumpoff Ramona knocked over three obstacles for a total of twelve faults, while Godard bowled over only two for eight errors.

The Belgians also finished third with their ace, Ibrahim, which, under the guidance of Lieut. Paul Mondron, cleared all the jumps, but refused one and was charged with three mistakes. In a jumpoff for fourth place, the United States combination of Lieut. Franklin S. Wing and Dakota went perfect to win the position.

Mrs. Loula Long Combs' Captivation of Kansas City was crowned champion harness horse, over 14.2 hands, succeeding Judy King's Knight Bachellor of Atlanta, which failed to defend his title. Mrs. Combs' Invasion was runner-up, with third going to Miss King's Killearn Magi.

Dixie Maid, a 4 year old chestnut mare owned by L. Victor Weil's Fair City stables of Elberon, N. J., turned in something of an upset when she won the championship for three-gaited saddle horses under 15.2 hands. My Nu-Joy of Hubert S. Silberman's Delaine Farm of Glenview farm was favored to win after taking four out of five preliminary events, but had to be content with the reserve ribbon.

Ross and Louis to Referee on Stadium Card

The state boxing commission yesterday granted Barney Ross and Joe Louis honorary refereeing cards. Both champions will use the privilege by officiating in the Schenley show at the Stadium Nov. 16.

It also was revealed by Commissioner Joe Triner that Jim McMillen is heavyweight wrestling king of Illinois. The crown will be at stake in Jim's struggle with Ruffy Silverstein on the Stadium card.

James C. Mullen, veteran Chicago promoter is coöperating with Kid Howard Carr in promoting a ten round bout between Bob La Monte and Johnny Barbara at Park Casino one week from tonight. . . . The commission has sanctioned supporting encounters to the heavyweight wrestling engagement between Champion Everett Marshall and Bobby Bruns at the Coliseum Monday. Frankie Talaber will meet Al Williams, Fritz von Schacht is paired with Pat Kelly, Mike Kilonis will encounter Dorv Roche, and Orville Brown is matched with Jack Claybourn. . . . Jimmy Bidwill, former fight manager, and Miss Florence Elizabeth Donegan will be married at St. Ignatius chapel, Glenwood and Loyola avenues, Nov. 25. . . .

Frankie Talaber, who continued his march by throwing Roy Rickenbacker at White City Monday will make his debut as light heavyweight champion of Illinois in a one hour bout against Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer tonight at Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. The state athletic commission yesterday handed Talaber the championship in recognition of his fine record, compiled since he turned professional a year ago.

In addition there will be an amateur card this evening at Cicero stadium, 18th street and 52d avenue, and a professional show at Memorial hall in Gary. A number of Chicagoans will attend the Gary program, which is topped by a ten round fight between Pete Lello, 1936 Chicago Golden Gloves lightweight titleholder, and Sixto Morales of Detroit. Supplementary encounters:

Tony Zale vs. Leon Jackson [6], 160.
Moon Mullins vs. Bobby Yantes [6], 133.
Mike [Little Pal] Primitch vs. Orville Eighmey [4], 135.
Joe Chizar vs. Pat O'Brien [4], 130.
William Joyce vs. John Fairchild [4], 132.

Bouts at the Cicero arena will include those involving Eddie Shapiro and Jim Lydell, Luke Baylark and Bill Madden, and George Kontalis and Walter Palmer. . . . The winner of the Harvey Woods-Kid Irish scrap at Marigold Gardens Monday will be in line for an assignment against Billy Marquart or Sammy Angott.

"I'VE FOUND A WHISKEY that Makes My Money Go Farther"

An Interview with Allan McDonald, WORLD TRAVELER, Washington, D. C.

"THEY SAY TRAVEL teaches you things—and that's certainly true. But I learned more about whiskey right here in the United States than during my travels over three continents. Like every one else...

"I ALWAYS THOUGHT good whiskey had to cost a lot. But when I returned to America, a friend told me about Silver Dollar, and asked me to try it. I'm hard to please, and I admit I was skeptical...

"BUT WAS I SURPRISED! Silver Dollar tasted better than whiskies costing a lot more. Silver Dollar is my whiskey now...and I'm saving money on every bottle."

ACCURATE MAPS OF CITY OFFERED AS WPA PROJECT

U. S. Experts Propose 1st Survey Since 1836.

A new geodetic survey of Chicago, a map project, that would save citizens and local governments millions of dollars in years to come was proposed to city officials by federal experts yesterday. It would become one of the WPA projects in the joint city-federal efforts to provide jobs for 7,000 additional white collar workers now on relief.

The survey would provide the first accurate plats of Chicago, supplementing the government's original survey of 1836. Although errors of as much as 110 feet in a mile have been found in the old survey, present property titles based upon it would not be disturbed by the project.

Brodman Is Enthusiastic.

Howard Brodman, city superintendent of maps and plats, was enthusiastic over the government's proposal, which will be submitted to Mayor Kelly. The city was asked to contribute $4,000 a month to the work, but would be given $3,000 credit for the aid of its present map department. The government would contribute $30,000 monthly for WPA workers' salaries, a school to train them, and instruments and technicians from the geodetic and coast survey.

Between four and six years would be required for the survey, employing 500 men, but any portion of it would be useful as soon as completed, Brodman said.

"This survey would be accurate within .0005 of an inch where the old one was off as much as 110 feet in a mile, in a city where some property is worth $15,000 per front foot," Brodman said.

Submit Proposals Today.

Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, and other city department heads conferred with Will Cotton, national director of white collar projects for WPA. Today they will submit to Cotton projects designed to take up the slack among clerical workers and employable women still on relief rolls.

Some projects pigeon-holed when WPA was not ready to finance them were brought forth. Deputy Smoke Inspector Frank A. Chambers said he could use 500 men in an anti-smoke survey. Thomas S. Gordon, city vehicle commissioner, offered to take 450 for survey and inspection. John R. Fugard, chairman of the city housing authority, wanted 500 for a survey of land use, and John A. Richert, chief of staf for the council finance committee, pledged to use 50 to investigate accidents to city employés.

Renews Subway Request.

Mayor Kelly announced he will renew the city's request at Washington Monday for a PWA grant of $22,500,000 for downtown subways.

"Although PWA announced recently that no further grants would be made, I will remind them that the city's proposal was in before the deadline," the mayor said. "I expect to talk to both Harold E. Ickes, head of PWA, and Harry Hopkins, head of WPA."

In Washington, the mayor will attend the United States Conference of Mayors of which he is vice president.

UNIONISTS HALT REBEL MEETING OF CAB DRIVERS

A group of dissenting members of the Chicago Taxicab Drivers' union, local No. 777, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, were dispersed by other unionists early today when they tried to hold a meeting in a hall at 1426 Cortez street. Between midnight and 12:30 o'clock fifteen cabs and eight private cars were ordered away from the hall.

One of the dissenters, James Martin, 37 years old, 428 West 58th street, a trustee of the Yellow Cab branch of the union, reported that several shots were fired at him at Milwaukee avenue and Augusta boulevard. Two bullets went through his cab, but he was unhurt. On Oct. 25 Martin was wounded twice in another mysterious shooting in front of 920 South Fairfield avenue.

The Racine avenue police arrested five men in an automobile at Noble street and Milwaukee avenue after they had broken the windows of a car in which several of the dissenters had been riding.

John D. M. Hamilton Goes to Ailing Mother's Bedside

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, will arrive here tomorrow to visit his mother, Mrs. John D. M. Hamilton Sr., seriously ill at the home of another son, Hale, a motion picture actor. She suffered a slight apoplectic stroke four weeks ago and developed a cold. Last Saturday physicians pronounced her condition critical. She is 80 years old.

DISBAR FORMER LEGAL PARTNER OF LA FOLLETTE

Wisconsin Court Rules Against Rogers.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The disbarment for two years of Alfred T. Rogers, one of Madison's oldest practicing attorneys and a former law partner of the late Robert M. La Follette Sr., was ordered today by the Wisconsin Supreme court.

All the counts on which the court based its decision grew out of the collapse of the Joseph M. Boyd Investment company here a little more than four years ago. The high court accepted the findings and recommendations of its referee, George A. Afeldt of Milwaukee, by ordering the disbarment on grounds that Rogers had participated in violations of the state securities law, for which he was fined $3,000 in Columbia County Circuit court three years ago.

Eight charges originally were filed against Rogers when the state board of bar commissioners filed a petition for his disbarment on Dec. 4, 1934. The first three alleged violations of Wisconsin's "blue sky" laws, and all were sustained by the referee and the state Supreme court.

Acquitted on Fourth Charge.

On the fourth charge, that Rogers participated in the embezzlement of $216,000 in Beecroft Building corporation bonds by the Boyd company, he was acquitted in the Circuit court suit that sent the elderly Joseph M. Boyd to the state prison. The referee also exonerated Rogers on that charge and today the high court sustained that finding.

Rogers, however, was found guilty of the charge that he knew of the wrongful conversion of Beecroft bonds by the Boyd company and that he failed to notify and protect Beecroft investors. The state Supreme court declined to go into the other four charges against Rogers, all dealing with misconduct. The court's referee had found Rogers not guilty on all of them.

Dual Capacity Criticized.

Rogers was serving in an unusual dual capacity of attorney for both Beecroft and Boyd companies when the latter's collapse created a major scandal in 1932. In discussing that dual capacity, the Supreme court pointed out that while an attorney may sometimes serve both parties to a transaction, "when he does so he places himself in a very equivocal and precarious position, one which attorneys under most circumstances scrupulously avoid."

"He was under a duty to the Boyd company to respect its confidences," the court continued. "He was under a duty to the Beecroft firm to convey to it any information received by him in the course of his employment which affected its interests.

"The defendant chose to disregard his duty to the Beecroft company and, as found by the jury and referee, was a party to the continued oversale of the bonds, the misapplication of funds derived therefrom, and the fraudulent advertisment of securities to the public.

Find Failure to Act.

"We find it impossible to reconcile this conduct by the defendant with the standards of conduct which should obtain in the relationship of attorney to client."

The court said it was obliged to reach its conclusions with "personal regret," since the defendant "is well known to every member of this court who have entertained for him a high regard." Rogers has been practicing attorney in Madison for forty-one years.

25 Patients in Veterans' Hospital Guests at Lunch

Twenty-five world war veterans from the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital visited the Merchandise Mart for an Armistice day luncheon and a tour of the building yesterday as guests of the Fourteenth floor club. Commander George B. Hall of the United States navy; Maj. E. C. Gere of the United States army, and Maj. Leslie Ireland of the 33d division [National Guard] staff, were speakers at the luncheon.

TOM D. COCHRANE, 68, PIONEER OF MOVIES, DEAD IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Tom D. Cochrane, 68 years old, pioneer movie producer and general manager in the orient for Paramount pictures, died today of a paralytic stroke suffered Sunday night.

Cochrane came here for medical treatment three weeks ago from his home in Tokio. He had lived in the orient since 1911, first heading the oriental offices of Universal pictures company and transferring to Paramount in 1922. He was an early associate of Carl Laemmle in the infancy of the motion picture industry and in 1909 he produced "Hiawatha," Laemmle's first picture. He is survived by five brothers, including Witt K. Cochrane of Chicago; a sister, two sons and his widow. A brother, Robert H. Cochrane, was elected president of Universal Pictures last year.

RAIL WATCHMEN REBUKED IN TWO WOMEN'S DEATHS

A coroner's jury yesterday censured two North Western railway crossing watchmen for lack of care, but returned a verdict of accident in the deaths of Mrs. Janet Getgood and Mrs. Sibyl Brittain, both of Winnetka, who were killed on Oct. 30 when a train struck their automobile at the Pine street crossing in the suburb.

The jury held the watchmen were not criminally responsible for the accident. They are Albert Snyder, 39 years old, 390 Greenwood avenue, Glencoe, who was about to go off duty at the time of the crash, and Joseph F. Cletcher, 56 years old, 4447 North Seeley avenue, who was to relieve him.

The accident stirred renewed agitation for elevation of the North Western and North Shore line tracks, which run parallel through Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka and Glencoe. A recent survey showed 70 persons had been killed by trains there in the last 22 years.

$1,718,089 FINAL VALUE PLACED ON STROBEL ESTATE

Charles L. Strobel, Chicago engineer who was a pioneer in the construction of steel skyscrapers, left a $1,718,089 estate, according to a final accounting on file yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Its value was estimated at $500,000 when his will was admitted to probate.

Mr. Strobel died April 4, 1936, at the age of 83. He was the former president of the Strobel Steel Construction company.

The Northern Trust company, as executor, reported disbursements of $494,133. These included $343,271 for federal estate tax, $70,891 for the state inheritance tax, $25,000 in legal expenses, and $27,500 to the executor. The balance of the estate, amounting to $1,210,781, is left in three trusts for the widow, Mrs. Mary Wilkins Strobel, 33 Bellevue place, and their children, Charles L. Jr. and Mrs. Marion S. Mitchell, poet and author.

ARMY OF 10,000 ON WHEELS GOES ON THROUGH MUD

Advances to Contact Foe in North Texas.

San Saba, Tex., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The army's experimental infantry division made another great mechanical bound toward the north today over roads mired and matted in Texas mud.

The army on wheels—10,000 men in 1,070 motor vehicles—advanced toward the Oklahoma line, traveling over a wide network of roads.

The precise schedule of yesterday was not maintained, but the western column, which made the longest march, covered 140 miles of hill country in seven hours and the day's tests demonstrated, officers believed, the triumph of men and machines over mud and the mobility of the small, motorized division even on earth and semi-surfaced roads.

Lashed by Severe Storm.

Last night's bivouacs at Johnson City and Fredericksburg were lashed by a severe storm. It was what the officers had been hoping for, some of the first really bad weather the division has experienced in the two months it has been assembled near here for experimental field exercises.

The division started rolling at 8 a. m., the scout cars of the reconnoisance squadron poking about the rain swept roads far in the van. At places the great six wheeled trucks were almost up to their hubs in mud. But the mud splattered column six pushed on north despite the treacherous gumbo which had the trucks slithering and shimmying across the mire. Virtually all of division had reached the bivouac areas and was establishing camp between 12:45 and 4:10 p. m.

The complicated trafic problem presented by 1,070 motor vehicles rolling in tight formation in bad weather over muddy roads was well solved by the engineers attached to the division.

Day's Test Satisfactory.

The motor movement of the test division, the first such exercise on the present scale ever conducted in this country—is to be continued with night marches tomorrow and Thursday. The test division is moving northwards to meet a concentration of a simulated red "enemy" near Wichita Falls, Tex. The division is expected to be in position to strike the "enemy" Friday morning, and after the "battle" it will attempt to return to the San Antonio area in one long "march" of 300 miles.

DOOLITTLE TESTS NEW FUEL IN HIGH ALTITUDE FLIGHT OF 2,000 MILES

Maj. James H. Doolittle landed at Chicago airport yesterday afternoon after completing a high altitude experimental nonstop flight from the Union Air terminal at Los Angeles—a distance of about 2,000 miles. The trip was made in a new single seater, all metal Seversky monoplane with a 1,000 horsepower Cyclone engine and a constant speed propeller.

The entire trip was flown at heights ranging from 16,000 to 22,000 feet in order to test a new type of fuel which is to be offered to commercial airlines for sub-stratosphere operation of passenger planes. He averaged about 220 miles an hour.

AMISH TO GIVE GOVERNOR FOOD; HELPED SCHOOLS

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Amish and Mennonite residents of East Lancaster, who won a fight for the reopening of their ten "little red schoolhouses," tonight voted an annual gift of fowl, pumpkins, and apple cider to Gov. George H. Earle and others who aided them.

When the $125,000 Smoketown consolidated school, built partly with WPA funds, was opened ten of the eleven small schools were closed despite protests of Amish leaders, who had taken the matter to the federal court.

They objected to governmental "charity," protested against indebtedness, and said it was against their tenets to permit their children to ride in buses.

"One pumpkin and two corns from our field; one fowl from our poultry yard; one gallon of apple cider made in our homes."

PEACE TOPIC OF ROOSEVELT CALL TO THANKSGIVING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—America can be thankful for the blessing of peace, President Roosevelt asserted today in a proclamation designating Nov. 25 as Thanksgiving day.

"A period unhappily marked in many parts of the world by strife and threats of war finds our people enjoying the blessing of peace," he said. "We have no selfish designs against other nations.

"We have been fortunate in devoting our energies and our resources to constructive purposes and useful works. We have sought to fulfill our obligation to use our national heritage by common effort for the common good."

At the outset of the proclamation the President said, "the harvests of our fields have been abundant and many men and women have been given the blessing of stable employment." He closed with "let us, therefore, on the day appointed forego our usual occupations and, in our accustomed places of worship, each in his own way, humbly acknowledge the mercy of God from whom comes every good and perfect gift."

OPEN PARLEY TO SETTLE 'STAMP' BORDER DISPUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Nov. 9.—The conference to settle the "postage stamp" dispute between Nicaragua and Honduras was inaugurated today by President Leon Cortes of Costa Rica. Cabinet members and diplomats attended the opening.

President Cortes appealed for peace in settling the dispute over frontiers in accordance with the spirit of the Buenos Aires pact signed last year. Tobias Zuniga of Costa Rica, president of the conference, and the Nicaraguan and Honduran delegates talked. The United States and Venezuela are the other members of the mediation group.

The quarrel began when Nicaragua issued a postage stamp bearing a map which showed territory on the Nicaraguan-Honduras border as being "in dispute." Hondurans claimed the border differences were settled in 1906.

COURT UPHOLDS SEATTLE BAR ON COMMUNIST FETE

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 9.—(AP)—On the strength of an affidavit expressing fear of riot, the Superior court today upheld Mayor John F. Dore's cancelation of a lease on the Civic auditorium to the communist party for an Armistice eve massmeeting.

Cutting short an argument over "subversive activities," Judge Calvin S. Hall held city authorities had the right to cancel a lease on "reasonable grounds." He denied the communists a writ designed to block the cancelation order.

Dore, silent throughout the hearing, defended his instructions for lease cancellation by an affidavit stating such a meeting would result in a riot "which would have to be suppressed by the police . . . with great danger to life and limb."

RAISE DIVIDEND ON SAFETY CAR HEATING STOCK

Other Concerns Announce Favorable Action.

The Safety Car Heating and Lighting company yesterday declared a dividend of $3.50 on the capital stock. Previous payments this year were $1.50 on April 1 and payments of $2.50 each on July 1 and Oct. 1. The current dividend will be paid Dec. 23 to stockholders of record Dec. 9.

The Libby-Owens-Ford Glass company declared a dividend of $1 on its common stock, bringing the total for this year to $4 a share.

International Railways of Central America declared a dividend of $5 on the 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock. The last previous payment was $1.25 on Aug. 15, 1931.

The Virginian Railway company authorized $2 on the common stock, the same as was paid in previous quarters this year.

American Investment Pays Extra.

An extra dividend of 40 cents and the regular quarterly payment of the same amount were declared by the American Investment company. Stockholders have the option of applying dividends to purchasing common stock at $20 per share.

The Columbian Carbon company voted a special dividend of 75 cents and the usual quarterly payment of $1 on the common stock. Similar payments were made Sept. 10.

A dividend of $1 for the final quarter of the year was declared by the G. C. Murphy company. Previously this year the company paid dividends of 65 cents on March 1, 80 cents on June 1, and 90 cents on Sept. 1.

The New York Air Brake company authorized a dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, the same as in previous quarters this year.

U. S. to Buy Surplus Rye for Price Stabilization

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment administration said today the government will purchase surplus rye in an effort to stabilize cash prices for the grain. The grain will be bought at market prices by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation and milled into rye flour for distribution to the needy. Most of the purchases will be made at the Minneapolis market.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Tree Planting Time

November 9, 1937.

THIS is tree planting time at the Tribune Wheaton farm, the time of year when shade trees can best be set and nuts gathered and planted in nurseries to start new seedlings. Many kinds of deciduous trees, including oak, ash, maple, elms, basswood, cherry, crabapple, hawthorns, horse chestnut, willow, poplar, hickory, and mountain ash, can be transplanted from now until the ground freezes.

The farm gardeners follow the practice of planting for shade trees both seed and young sprouts of the different kinds of trees that grow naturally in the woods. This year they hope to make plantings of most of the six kinds of oaks found at the farm. Acorns are being selected to be planted in seedling beds this fall. The seedlings later will be transferred to the nursery.

A Difficult Task.

Transplanting oak trees is not so easy a job as setting out most of the other deciduous kinds that are used for shade. Oaks have long tap roots that run far down into the subsoil, making it difficult to dig up a young tree that has grown in its natural state in the forest without leaving a good portion of the tap root in the ground. A two inch oak sapling usually will have a tap root four or five feet long and only a few of the smaller lateral or fibrous roots.

The plan most commonly followed by gardeners at the farm in transplanting oaks is to get trees that have been trained for about ten years in the nursery. By a series of transplantings in which the tap roots are kept cut back, encouraging the growth of fibrous roots, nurserymen are able to prepare oak seedlings for planting in permanent locations without danger of the trees being seriously stunted when set. Once the trees are established in places where they are to grow the tap roots penetrate deeper into the soil and make normal growth.

Rules for Transplanting.

Small sprouts two or three feet high can be transplanted successfully directly from the woods by getting all the roots possible. A good time to plant oaks is from early October until the ground freezes. The roots should not be left exposed to the air after the trees are dug because they soon dry out and may freeze.

When set, the trees should be mulched with year old leaves or German peat moss. This will protect the roots during the winter and prevent them from freezing dry. Gardeners at the Wheaton farm say the mulch should be removed in the spring and the soil cultivated until the weather gets hot and dry in the summer. Then the mulch should be put back around the tree to help conserve moisture.

GRAIN IN OTHER MARKETS

GRAINS ADVANCE ON REVIVAL OF EXPORT DEMAND

Rise in Outside Markets Also Helps Prices.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$0.87⅛	$0.86¼	$1.15¼
Corn	.56¼	.55¼	1.02¼
Oats	.30⅛	.29⅞	.43¼
Rye	.67¼	.65½	.87½
Soy beans	.95¼	.93¼	1.23⅝

Stimulated by strength in outside markets and a revival of export demand, all grain futures advanced moderately on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. Best prices of the session were pared by local profit taking near the close.

The improvement also was partly due to further technical recovery from the recent sharp declines. Better security prices and advances in other commodities also were regarded as factors.

Practically all the advance was due to local buying, as outside interest was small during most of the session. Chicago traders were encouraged by failure of liquidation to appear on the bulge. Most rallies in recent weeks have been met with large offerings.

Prices Improve Most of Day.

After opening higher all grains improved rather steadily until the final half hour, when profit taking appeared. Wheat closed ⅝ to 1⅛ cents a bushel higher, corn 1 to 1⅛ cents higher, oats ⅝ cent higher, and rye 1 to 1⅝ cents higher.

As regards wheat the Chicago market was sluggish in comparison with outside markets. In Winnipeg, Minneapolis, Kansas City, and Duluth wheat advanced around 2 cents a bushel. Wheat closed ⅞ to 1⅛ cents a bushel higher in Liverpool.

Export business in North American wheat was reported at 1,250,000 bushels, the largest amount in several weeks. All except about 200,000 bushels was Canadian wheat. Smaller exports of corn and rye were reported, but amounts were not given.

Europeans Buy Grain.

All the export business was for European account. Despite the small takings from the United States, the brisk movement from North America was regarded as encouraging. European countries have been slow to make commitments during recent weeks due to declining prices.

The feature of the Canadian business was the sale of two cargoes of durum wheat. Buoyancy of the Winnipeg futures market was attributed in part to the sale, as this was the first real business in durum wheat from Canada, which has a burdensome surplus of that variety.

FARM INCOME RISES 743 MILLIONS IN NINE MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics reported today that American farmers received approximately $743,000,000 more from the sale of principal farm products, and from government payments during the first nine months of 1937, than during the same period last year.

It is estimated receipts for the 1937 period at $6,175,000,000, compared with $5,532,000,000 for the 1936 period. Government payments in connection with soil conservation and other farm adjustment programs totaled $350,000,000. Major crop receipts for the 1937 period were estimated at $2,655,000,000.

Iowa led all states with receipts estimated at $367,000,000 for the period.

OCEAN RATE MAY WIDEN SPREAD IN GRAIN PRICES

Possibility of a further average spread between Chicago and Liverpool grain prices was indicated yesterday by announcement that, effective Jan. 1, 1938, the North Atlantic shipping conference, meeting in Hamburg, Germany, had decided to increase freight rates between Europe and North America by 20 per cent.

The present cost of shipping a bushel of wheat from Chicago to Liverpool is approximately 36½ cents, including 3½ cents port charges at Liverpool and about 6 cents a bushel British import duty. Although in the past the spread between Chicago and Liverpool has fluctuated widely, the shipping cost roughly governs the difference in prices of the same deliveries in the two markets.

To Walworth Company Stockholders

Important Notice about Dividends

The Directors of your company have recommended to the stockholders a plan for the payment of dividends on the common stock, to be paid partly in a new issue of 6 per cent. convertible preferred stock. Such dividends are proposed to be paid before the close of this year.

The plan which your Directors recommend requires the approval of two-thirds in interest of the Common stockholders. A special stockholders meeting has been called for November 23, 1937, to secure such approval. A letter has been mailed to all stockholders of record describing this dividend plan, and enclosing a proxy to be signed and returned for use at this special meeting.

If for any reason you do not receive this letter, please communicate with the undersigned at once, so that you may receive complete information. All stockholders who want the proposed plan to become operative should see that their stock is voted in favor of the plan. Without the affirmative vote of two-thirds in interest of the Common stockholders, the proposed dividend cannot be paid.

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL REPORTS LARGER PROFIT

McKesson&Robbins Has Decline.

The International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., one of the world's largest metallurgical companies, yesterday reported a net profit for the third quarter of this year of $13,030,028, equal after preferred dividends to 86 cents a common share. In the same period of 1936 profit was $9,572,105, or 62 cents a share, and in the second quarter of this year net totaled $14,199,394, equal to 94 cents a share.

For the first nine months of 1937 net profit was $38,944,380, equal to $2.57 a share, against $27,029,079, or $1.75 a share, in the corresponding 1936 period. The balance sheet as of Sept. 30 showed current assets of $85,481,272, including $48,898,727 cash, and current liabilities of $17,126,379.

Drug Maker Earns Less.

McKesson & Robbins, Inc., manufacturer of drug products, reported third quarter net profit of $734,983, equivalent to 25 cents a share, against $770,581, or 29 cents a share, in the preceding quarter and $832,502, or 34 cents a share, in the third quarter of 1936.

Cushman's Sons, Inc., retail bakery chain, in the twelve weeks ended Oct. 9 suffered a net loss of $77,499 after all charges, compared with a loss of $117,004 in the same 1936 period. For the forty weeks ended Oct. 9 the loss was $212,153, against net loss of $563,724 in the corresponding 1936 period. Processing tax refunds received in the first forty weeks of 1937 are not included.

American Gas Profit Higher.

American Gas and Electric company and subsidiaries for the twelve months ended Sept. 30 had net income of $13,389,922, equal after preferred dividends to $2.51 a share on the outstanding common stock. This compares with $11,726,885, or $2.14 a common share, in the twelve months to Sept. 30, 1936.

The Butte Copper and Zinc company had third quarter profit of $43,009, equal to 7 cents a share, against $21,782, or 3 cents a share, in the same 1936 quarter. For the first nine months net profit was $93,984, equal to 15 cents a share, against $12,057, or 2 cents a share.

LARGER FRUIT CROPS EXPECTED IN NEXT 5 YEARS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The bureau of agricultural economics today predicted the nation's fruit harvest in the next five years will be larger than in the 1932-'36 period. The agency also foresaw a greater demand with a higher return for producers. Outstanding predictions were:

"The citrus industry cannot expect much improvement in prices. Apple, pear, peach, and grape producers may look for price gains. Production probably will average higher in peaches, grapes, cherries, pears, and strawberries. Apple production is expected to register a gradual decline because of the yearly decreasing number of producing trees."

The bureau said that record crops of almonds, English walnuts, and filberts would be harvested this year and that pecan production would be somewhat below average.

MARKETS, BANKS CLOSE TOMORROW

Principal security and commodity exchanges in the United States and Canada will be closed tomorrow, Armistice day. Except for London and Liverpool, leading foreign markets also will be closed. Live stock markets will remain open. In Chicago stores and most other business houses will be open, but banks and other financial organizations will be closed.

Stocks Rally Sharply, but Trade Is Light

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 9.—Stocks advanced on a broad front today with leading shares closing 1 to 6 points higher. Utility and steel issues led the upturn and railroad equities displayed a firm tone throughout the day. Volume continued light, sales totaling 1,048,770 shares. Of the 763 issues traded, 477 were higher at the finish, 149 were lower, and 137 closed unchanged.

Most of the activity in utilities occurred around midday. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals decision in the Securities and Exchange commission suit, which ordered the Electric Bond and Share company to comply with requirements of the public utility act, was welcomed in public utility circles, for this action opens the way for the case to be brought before the Supreme court for final consideration.

Utilities Push Higher.

Electric Power and Light was the most active issue of the day, closing ⅝ higher at 12⅝. North American moved up 1⅜ and Columbia Gas and Electric rose ⅝. Consolidated Edison improved more than 1 point, while Standard Gas and Electric and American Water Works added sizable fractions.

Among the preferred issues, Electric Power and Light 6s and 7s jumped 5 and 4 points, respectively, and the Standard Gas group rose 1 to 2 points.

Favorite industrial issues such as United States Steel common, Chrysler, General Motors, and Republic Steel closed with gains despite scattered profit taking. Chrysler rose more than 2 points. General Motors again touched 40, Steel common added 1 point, and Republic Steel improved 1¼ points.

Copper Shares Rebound.

Reflecting firmer metal prices abroad, copper shares rebounded from recent lows. Anaconda moved up 2⅛ points to 27⅛. Kennecott added 1⅛ points and Phelps and International each closed 1⅛ points higher.

New York Central set the pace in the railroad division, improving ¾ point. Similar gains were recorded by Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, and Union Pacific.

Farm equipment issues closed 1 to 2 points higher.

$900,000 IN FEES ASKED IN UNITED CIGAR STORE CASE

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Fees and expense allowances for more than $900,000 were asked today by attorneys and others who took part in the reorganization of the United Cigar Stores Company of America and its subsidiaries at a hearing before Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe. The company emerged from reorganization proceedings last July.

The Irving Trust company as receiver and trustee requested an allowance of $100,000 in addition to $108,000 that it already has received. Cravath, De Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood asked for a final allowance of $150,000 as attorneys for the trustee.

M. Carl Levine, attorney for the Jacob Ruppert Realty corporation, asked for $350,000. The reorganization committee headed by Peter Grimm asked for $32,500. The Landlords' Protective committee requested $30,000.

Attorneys for the reorganization committee asked for $90,000, attorneys for the landlords' committee $108,000. Attorneys for the Stockholders' Protective committee asked for $100,000. Attorneys for the Debenture Holders' Protective committee requested $58,895, and that committee itself asked for $9,923.

HUNT FOR MONEY TO SUBSIDIZE CROP CONTROL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A quest for money to finance subsidies to farmers under a proposed new crop control program began in earnest today when President Roosevelt discussed taxes with other administration leaders.

Informed persons expressed belief that the discussion touched on a plan to separate the crop adjustment bill and the revenue measure designed to find the money. Some legislators have advocated such a step, declaring that the separate treatment would expedite the control bill, and leave the controversial question of levying processing or other taxes to be threshed out later.

It has become increasingly evident that the senate and house agriculture committees are working at cross purposes on taxes. The house bill, a tentative draft of which Jones took with him to the White House, proposed excise, or processing taxes on major commodities. Senate farm leaders are standing by proposals of the last session to pay farm benefits from direct treasury appropriations.

Commodities Advance, First Gain in Week

Commodity prices scored their first broad advance in more than a week yesterday under the leadership of export copper, copper futures, hides, tin, and wool tops. Cocoa, sugar, and cottonseed oil also advanced in brisk futures trading. Except in a few instances, however, the gains were fairly small.

The Dow-Jones commodity futures index closed at 53.05, up 0.48, and the Associated Press index of 35 cash commodities advanced 0.04 to 78.48, after touching a new low for the year Monday. In the last six months the average had fallen 20.1 per cent with the sharpest downswing occurring since mid-September. The high for the year was on April 5. The year 1926 equaled 100 in the average.

Export Copper Advances.

Export copper closed at 10.18 cents a pound, compared with a final price of 9.65 cents Monday. Improvement was due to a sharp advance of copper, as well as other metals, on the London Metal exchange. Scrap copper was advanced ¾ cent a pound and copper futures closed 0.29 to 0.30 cent a pound higher.

Tin for immediate delivery advanced 0.35 cent to 43.12 cents a pound, and tin futures were 0.35 to 0.40 cent higher. Cash prices of lead and zinc were unchanged.

Hide futures advanced 0.14 to 0.16 cent a pound on sales of 114 lots of 40,000 pounds each, a larger volume than usual. December contracts closed at 10.31 to 10.33 cents a pound. In the Chicago cash market only about 8,000 hides changed hands, compared with 67,000 Monday. Prices were unchanged.

Wool Prices Are Higher.

Wool tops for immediate delivery closed 2½ cents higher at 87 cents a pound and wool top futures were 2.1 to 2.5 cents a pound higher. Silk was irregular. Rubber also was irregular in futures trading, but crude rubber for immediate delivery closed 0.03 cent lower at 14.25 cents a pound.

World sugar futures were 0.02 to 0.03 cent a pound higher and domestic contracts closed unchanged to 0.01 cent higher. Rio coffee was unchanged to 0.03 cent higher and Santos finished irregular, 0.04 cent higher to 0.08 cent lower. Some grades of cash coffee were lower.

Eggs closed ⅛ to ¼ cent a dozen lower at the Chicago Mercantile exchange, due to late selling which erased early gains of as much as ⅜ cent. In cash dealings, fresh eggs were unchanged and storage eggs ½ cent a dozen higher.

Egg futures advanced ¼ cent a pound and cash butter was unchanged to ¼ cent a pound higher for undergrades. In ten big markets withdrawals Sunday totaled 1,012,634 pounds, against 310,000 pounds on the corresponding day a year ago.

Steel Ingot Production Declines During October

Production of steel ingots in October totaled 3,392,691 gross tons, compared with 4,301,869 tons in September, a decrease of 21 per cent, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. In October, 1936, ingot production totaled 4,534,246 gross tons.

U.S. AWARDS CONTRACT TO DOUGLAS AIRCRAFT FOR ATTACK PLANES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—A supplemental contract was awarded by the war department today to the Douglas Aircraft company, Santa Monica, Cal., for 29 additional attack airplanes at a cost of $654,155.

These new planes are in addition to similar aircraft now being built for the army by this company. The planes will be constructed at the factory of the Northrop corporation, Inglewood, Cal., a subsidiary of the Douglas company. They are low wing monoplanes, with provision for a crew of two—pilot and gunner—and powered by two row engines, developing more than 750 horse power, furnished by the government.

The planes are capable of cruising over 220 miles per hour and of maintaining that speed for eight hours. They carry four fixed .30 caliber and one flexible .30 caliber guns and are designed to house twenty small bombs internally or four of larger type swung outside.

INTERLAKE IRON FIRST QUARTER PRICES STEADY

The Interlake Iron corporation, one of the leading producers of pig iron, yesterday announced that it has reaffirmed prices for the first quarter of 1938. The price for base grades at Chicago, Toledo, and Erie is $24 a ton and at Duluth $24.50 a ton. This action follows that of the leading steel companies in reaffiming their prices for the first quarter. The leading pig iron companies in the Pittsburgh district also reaffirmed their prices.

Steel company officials in Chicago said yesterday that the action of the pig iron producers, together with their own, should have a stabilizing effect in the steel industry.

MAINTAIN BRITISH PRICES.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—British steel producers announced today a move to stabilize the price of steel until the end of 1938. The decision, in conformity with a recommendation of the British Iron and Steel Federation, was to maintain prices at their present level until the end of 1938. All sales and contracts deliveries after that time will be at the association price then ruling.

Plymouth Cuts De Luxe Model Prices by $15

The Plymouth division of the Chrysler corporation yesterday announced a reduction of $15 in the prices of its deluxe line of automobiles for 1938. No change has been made on the standard business models. The company announced its 1938 model prices before either Ford or Chevrolet and subsequent announcement of the latter showed that increases on the Plymouth deluxe models were considerably larger than on the comparable Chevrolet and Ford models.

Dollar Rallies on U. S. Plan to Export Gold

The American dollar rose in value against principal foreign currencies yesterday following the announcement late Monday of plans for the export of 10¼ millions of gold to France. The shipment, which leaves New York today on the Normandie, is the first gold that has been sent out of the country in about a year and a half.

The British pound lost 2⅛ cents against the dollar yesterday, after an advance which lasted for several days and carried the unit to a new high for the year.

French Franc Declines.

The demand for gold in the London market abated somewhat, dispatches said, and the price declined to the equivalent of $35.10 an ounce, compared with $35.22 on the preceding day. The drop in the British pound against the dollar was chiefly responsible for the loss in the gold price.

No engagements of gold for shipment to this country were reported. The price in London must attain a premium of 22 cents an ounce over the American treasury's price of $35 to make shipments to this country profitable.

Report Funds Active.

The American and British stabilization funds were reported to have been active in the exchange market yesterday. Some experts believed the reversal in the market trend was the result chiefly of control operations of the American fund.

The receipt of $10,000,000 of Japanese bar gold at San Francisco in the last two days was reported yesterday.

MEXICAN RESERVES DROP.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Bank of Mexico's weekly statement today again showed losses of gold and silver.

The metal reserve slumped from 146,042,000 pesos to 145,525,000 pesos, while the coverage of total bills in circulation, deposits and other sight obligations dropped from 49.80 to 48.84 per cent.

Since the first of the year the metal reserve has increased 48,000,000 pesos and coverage has fallen from 67 per cent. This trend has been accelerated since Aug. 1, when the reserve was 189,000,000 pesos and the coverage 60.7 per cent.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX REVISION APPEARS NEAR Agree on Principle; Study Methods.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Definite signs that the capital gains tax may be relaxed appeared today at a meeting of a house tax subcommittee. Members and treasury experts were described as in tentative agreement on a principle, if not a method, of permitting a loss carryover for one or two years.

Business and financial circles have assailed the capital gains levy on grounds it discourages transactions in the securities market and impedes the flow of capital into productive enterprise. The tax is imposed on profits made on capital assets, including securities and real estate.

Treasury Advice Asked.

A loss carryover, committeemen said, probably would decrease returns from the levy. The treasury has been asked to determine how it would affect the yield.

If approved on a two-year basis, one tax expert said, it would work something like this:

A person who loses $10,000 on capital investments this year would be allowed to use it to offset any capital gains realized in 1938 or 1939. If the gains in the two years totaled $10,000, there would be no capital gains subject to tax.

If gains aggregated $15,000, only $5,000 of the total would enter into tax computations. If the gains amounted to only $7,000 the $3,000 net loss could not be carried over into 1940.

The treasury likewise was asked to tell the committee how several other changes might affect the capital gains yield.

Other Changes Proposed.

Among the proposals, committee members disclosed, were:

1. The imposition of a flat tax on capital gains similar to the 12½ per cent flat levy in effect before 1934. Rates of 15, 20, 22½, and 25 per cent have been suggested. At present certain percentages of the gains are included in individual taxable income, the percentages varying according to the length of time the assets are held. Regular income tax rates apply to the taxable gains.

2. Realignment of the percentages of capital gains subjected to taxation.

3. A provision which would allow a taxpayer to include the smallest percentage of capital gains in his taxable income if the gains were realized on assets held five years or more, instead of ten years or more as at present.

Suggest More Liberal Credit.

4. Liberalization of a provision which now allows a maximum tax credit of $2,000 for a net capital loss, regardless of how much the loss exceeds that amount.

The present law provides that 100 per cent of capital gains must be included in an individual's taxable income if they are obtained on assets held no more than a year. Eighty per cent of gains on assets held more than a year but not more than two years are subject to taxation; 60 per cent of those on assets held two to five years; 40 per cent of those on assets held five to ten years, and 30 per cent on those held more than ten years.

One reported proposal was that virtually the same percentages be used, but that they apply to periods of one, two, three, four, and five years. This arrangement, a committee member said, might increase the volume of transactions.

President May Aid Utilities If They Cut Value

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt offered the public utilities industry the coöperation of his administration today—on one condition.

The utilities, he said, must radically alter their methods of determining the value of their properties. Rates are based on these valuations, and they, in turn, have been based, generally, upon the original or reproduction cost of the properties involved.

Instead, Mr. Roosevelt asked that the utilities return to what he termed the old principles of the common law in determining valuations. He did not go into the point, but his words recalled a government move last week to make so-called "prudent investment" a controling factor in valuation.

May Involve Federal Aid.

Just what favors the utilities might expect, if they complied, was not made clear. Those familiar with the situation, however, were distinctly of the impression that the concessions might involve government help in carrying out long delayed construction programs.

Only a few days ago the committee of utility executives estimated that the industry had fallen $2,600,000,000 below its normal construction schedule, because, it said, "a series of administration measures have so frightened capital that it has proved impossible to finance most of the needed construction."

"It has long been apparent," the committee said, "that the construction lethargy of the utilities has proved a drag on recovery, especially in the durable goods industry. It is at least an important factor in the present industrial retreat from prosperity. Thus a vast untapped reservoir of jobs outrivaling the programs of the PWA and WPA awaits release."

President Discusses Power.

The President talked power early in the day with a small group of callers—Clyde L. Seavey of the federal power commission, John M. Carmody, rural electrification administrator, and Ervin E. King, master of the Washington State grange.

Mr. Roosevelt asserted later at a press conference that if the utilities would come down to the old common law mode of valuation and capitalization they could quickly obtain a meeting of minds with the administration. In return, he said, they could expect a virtual monopoly, subject to the decision of municipalities to go into the power distribution business.

The government's move for a "prudent investment" valuation was made in a brief filed with the Supreme court by the power commission.

"By prudent investment," it said, "is meant the amount reasonably and honestly invested in public utility properties used and useful in the public service. Prudent investment is synonymous with historical cost of properties."

BRITAIN SEEKS TO HALT HOOF AND MOUTH DISEASE

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The ministry of agriculture tonight took drastic steps to halt the alarming spread of an epidemic of hoof and mouth disease affecting the prosperous cattle area of eastern England. A government order prohibited marketing, sales, exhibitions, and movements of animals in 17 counties visited by the plague, officially described as "possibly one of the most dangerous experienced in recent years."

Only marketing or sale of fat stock for immediate slaughter was permitted. Wholesale destruction of cattle already had been ordered to check the disease which authorities said threatened to spread.

U. S. MERCHANT MARINE CALLED 'SICK INDUSTRY'

Federal Commission Urges Changes.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—A survey of the American merchant marine, which discloses it is a "very sick industry," was made public today by the chairman of the maritime commission, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Joseph P. Kennedy.

The study, 600,000 words long, the most comprehensive analysis ever undertaken of the shipping industry, contains among other items recommendations for the liberalization of the merchant marine act of 1936 through amendment, estimates placing subsidy costs for years to come between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 a year, proposals to support twenty-three essential trade routes, a suggestion for the establishment of training schools for seamen under the supervision of the coast guard, and a mediation board for labor troubles.

Condemns "Super-Liners."

The report further condemns superliners of the Queen Mary type as uneconomic and suggests that ocean air transport be placed under the jurisdiction of the commission. It also discourages government support for tramp shipping, which, it declares, is fast losing ground against liners on regular trade routes.

Weaknesses in the merchant marine act of 1936 are pointed out, with specific reference to the difficulties of the subsidy plan. In the discussion of the present financial status of the merchant marine, which is the most discouraging part of the report, the commission intimates that the government may have to undertake the building of a new merchant fleet because the shipping companies are unable to do it, and inferentially suggests the possibility of a government operated merchant marine.

Two supplemental reports, one advocating control by the maritime commission of the country's trans-oceanic air lines and the other discussing tramp shipping, will be sent to con-

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Railroad issues led the bond market to higher ground today. Federal loans closed with gains predominating. Advances ranged up to 5-32 of a point, although a few scattered losers were off around 6-32 of a point.

Lower priced rails thrust forward fractions to around 2 points. Among the wider gainers were Erie 5s, up 2; Baltimore and Ohio 4½s, up 1⅜; Missouri Pacific 5s, up 1¾; Southern Railway, up 1; Southern Pacific 4½s, up 1½. Other gainers included International Hydro Electric 6s and American Water Works 6s.

Foreign dollar loans were marked by a brisk runup of 2¾ points in Cuba 5½s. German and Japanese obligations worked up fractions to around a point, but Italian issues slumped. South American bonds improved with few exceptions.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks moved somewhat higher yesterday in trading that was even more quiet than on the preceding day. Only 24,000 shares changed hands, with almost half of the volume being accounted for by the ten most active issues.

Central and South West Utilities common stock, most active issue, advanced ¼ point to 2⅜ in a 2,600 share turnover. Commonwealth Edison was unchanged at 27. Middle West, up ½, and General Household Utilities, unchanged, were the only other issues in which more than 1,000 shares were traded.

Of the 86 issues traded, 42 advanced, 24 were unchanged, and 20 declined. Six of the ten most active stocks advanced, and the other four closed unchanged. THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks closed at 11.66, up 0.22, after ranging between 11.74 and 11.61.

Bank Stocks.

First National bank and Chicago Title and Trust company stocks each advanced $3 a share in yesterday's trading. Merchandise National gained $5 and Continental Illinois was $1 higher. Northern Trust and Harris Trust each lost $5. Other Chicago bank stocks were unchanged.

Plant Location.

Why does a particular industry develop in one locality instead of another? The chief factors influencing plant locations are sources of materials, nearness to market, transportation facilities, and labor and capital supplies. The relative importance of each of these factors varies with different industries.

Capital is the most mobile of factors influencing plant location. If there is available capital anywhere it will move to any location where it seems assured of a fair return, and thus is the least important in locating an industry.

Labor is less mobile than capital, involving always the expense of transportation for the laborer and his family, but where the prospect of improvement of the laborer's economic status seems relatively high labor will be attracted.

Transportation facilities sometimes precede the development of industrial activity and sometimes follow it. A river may provide cheap transportation which will induce industry to locate near it. On the other hand the development of a mining site or any other primary industry which depends for its location on its source of raw materials will result in the building of transportation facilities.

Nearness to market and to sources of materials are determining factors in plant location which depend to a great extent on the relative weights and costs of the raw materials and finished product, perishability of either, and the type of product or service to be marketed.

COTTON

After opening lower, cotton scored small advances in leading markets yesterday on trade buying and the lessening of hedging pressure. The New York market closed 0.03 to 0.05 cent a pound higher, the Chicago market 0.03 to 0.14 cent higher, and the New Orleans market 0.03 to 0.06 cent higher.

Trading was fairly active and prices rose steadily during the session until near the close when there was a moderate recession.

Southern spot sales totaled 30,445 bales. Middling cotton for immediate delivery was 0.03 cent higher at 8 cents a pound in the New York market. In New Orleans middling cotton also sold at 8 cents, up 0.10 cents. The Galveston and Houston cash prices were 7.70 cents a pound.

OUTPUT OF MEAT SHOWS INCREASE DURING OCTOBER

Month's Production Largest Since Last March.

Meat production in the United States last month was the largest since March, according to the department of agriculture's report on slaughtering in plants under federal inspection released yesterday. Packers killed 5,723,403 cattle, calves, hogs, and sheep during October, compared with 5,179,983 in September and only 4,485,472 in August.

It was estimated at the Chicago stock yards that the month's slaughter produced approximately one billion pounds of beef, veal, pork, lard, and lamb, compared with the revised estimate of 891 millions in September and 792 millions in August. However, the output was second smallest for October since 1921, and compared with 1,209,657,000 pounds in the corresponding month last year which was obtained from a total slaughter of 6,943,069 animals.

Feeding Situation Better.

The seasonal increase in meat production this fall is not as marked as a year ago due to the feed situation, which is more in favor of holding live stock longer on the farms. A year ago farmers were selling meat animals freely, and earlier than usual, because of the rising prices of grain and the feed shortage in the country. This resulted in the acute meat shortage during most of 1937.

Packers received and slaughtered 958,384 cattle last month, the largest kill for any month since last December, but smallest in four years for October. This compared with 1,124,175 a year ago, when farmers were liquidating stock to escape high feed bills. The calf slaughter at 524,528, compared with 585,425 a year ago.

More Hogs Slaughtered.

Hog slaughtering at 2,710,916 head, the largest since last April, was the second smallest for October since 1920, and compared with 3,491,671 a year ago. Only 1,529,575 sheep were killed, the smallest for October since 1929. A year ago the total was 1,741,798.

During the first ten months of 1937 packers slaughtered a total of 52,650,491 meat animals, compared with 55,276,837 a year ago. The cattle total at 8,354,274, compared with 8,996,589 last year. Calves totaled 5,361,216 this year and 5,099,185 last year. Hogs at 24,388,937, compared with 27,082,233, and sheep at 14,546,064, compared with 14,098,830 a year ago.

INSURANCE FIRMS OFFER I. C. C. PLAN FOR NEW HAVEN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Fourteen major insurance companies holding more than $55,000,000 in securities of the New York, New Haven, and Hartford railroad, introduced a new plan today in that carrier's reorganization proceedings before the interstate commerce commission.

The new plan objected to merger of the Old Colony railroad with the New Haven system. It proposed further development of the existing alternate route to Boston, unless some "fair and equitable" terms are proposed for operation of the Boston and Providence Railroad corporation lines in connection with the New Haven's property.

The insurance group tentatively estimated assets of the New Haven road subject to capitalization at $365,000,000, and allocated new securities in such a manner as to provide for about 58 per cent secured debt, 18 per cent of $5 participating preferred stock, and 24 per cent of common stock. About $57,000,000 of equipment trust obligations and divisional bonds would remain undisturbed.

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS DECREE OF FORECLOSURE

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday affirmed a foreclosure decree for $112,485, including interest, entered against the property bounded by Pulaski road, Cicero avenue, 75th and 79th streets, comprising 213 acres, by Judge George Fred Rush on May 27, 1936.

The eight defendants who appealed from Judge Rush's ruling included two syndicate managers, Robert G. McKay, a paving contractor, and Thomas E. Sullivan, a real estate man, and six members of the syndicate of seventeen that bought the land for nearly a million dollars. They paid all but $334,000 originally covered by the mortgage, according to their attorney, Carl A. Waldron.

The First National Bank of Chicago was plaintiff in the suit and holder of the mortgage made through the Foreman-State Trust & Savings bank in 1931.

Chevrolet Foundry Cuts Work Week to Four Days

The Chevrolet gray iron foundry at Saginaw, Mich., employing 6,000 men, will operate on a four-day instead of a five-day week until its output is brought into line with other parts plants, it was announced yesterday. The transmission department of Chevrolet parts plants at Saginaw, also ahead of schedule, will also be on a four-day week. Chevrolet plants at Flint, Mich., are working two turns, five days a week, with assembly lines operating at full capacity.

Order Masonite Company to End Using Word 'Tile'

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The federal trade commission announced today it had ordered the Masonite corporation of Chicago and Laurel, Miss., to discontinue misleading representations in the sale of wall board and wall covering products. The order directed the company to stop using a trade name containing the word "tile" to represent that its products were of that material.

GREEKS HAD A NAME FOR IT; AMERICANS HAVE A FEW MORE

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Thousands of Americans who were induced by a country-wide campaign guaranteeing "absolute and undisputed safety" to deposit $25,000,000 in the National Bank of Greece are now unable to get it back, a suit in Supreme court disclosed today. Conspiracy, continuous violations of the banking laws, false advertisements and mail fraud are charged as part of a scheme to defraud inexperienced depositors throughout the country of their life savings.

The campaign, it is alleged, took advantage of the depression here to arouse distrust in American banking institutions and to play up the Greek bank as the "financial colossus of the entire near east" and "faithful guardian of the savings of Hellenism." Once removed from the protection of American banking laws, it is charged, the American deposits were, in effect, confiscated by governmental decrees.

The suit is a representative action to force repayment of all the moneys. It was filed by Abner J. Rubien and Alexander D. Diamond, in behalf of the Society Milion Athena, Inc., Loucas A. Aggelopoulos and other depositors.

Named as co-defendant is the Hellanic Bank and Trust company, a New York state bank, described in joint advertisements as the American "branch" or "establishment" of the Greek bank, which owned 95 per cent of its stock. Through its counsel, Cordozo and Nathan, the Hellenic bank issued a brief statement today that the charges "are without any basis in fact."

PRICES OF HOGS AT LOWEST MARK SINCE LATE '34

Large Receipts Cause Further Decline.

Live costs of hogs at the stockyards yesterday sank to the lowest levels since December, 1934, under pressure of the heaviest receipts in nine months. The top price fell 30 cents to $9.25, with the average off 20 cents at $9. A year ago the prices were $9.75 and $9.55, respectively, and two years ago packers paid $11.80 for top grades and an average of $11.45, including $2.25 processing tax collected by the federal government.

Slaughtering of hogs has been increased substantially at all points in the country this week as a result of the increased receipts. Despite the broadest consumer demand of the year for fresh pork at current low prices, supplies on the wholesale market exceeded requirements again yesterday.

Fresh Pork Prices Lower.

Fresh pork at Chicago sold weak to $1 per hundred pounds lower than on Monday and 50 cents to $1.50 under last week's close. The decline in recent weeks has brought top grades of fresh pork loins down from $33 at the high time of the summer to $21 yesterday, a reduction of $12 per hundred pounds, or 36 per cent. This is one of the sharpest declines in wholesale pork in many years.

Top hogs during the same time fell from $13.75 to $9.25, a drop of $4.50, or 32 per cent.

Cattle Prices Irregular.

Cheaper grades of cattle strengthened yesterday as buyers continued to favor the lower priced offerings in an attempt to hold live costs down as much as possible. Most steers in good flesh were weak, although no prime offerings were in the market. The best on sale sold at $16.25, with the bulk from $8.50 to $14.

Numerous loads of unfinished steers sold downwards from $8. Beef cows, hefers, canners and cutters were wanted at strong to 15 cents higher rates. Calves advanced 25 to 50 cents.

Packers absorbed the supply of lambs at steady to strong prices, giving $10.15 for sorted natives and fed westers.

Intl. Paper to Purchase Entire Brompton Output

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The International Paper company, subsidiary of International Paper and Power company, has purchased the entire 40,000 ton newsprint output of the Brompton Pulp and Paper company, Ltd., at Bromptonville, Que., for five years. International has also purchased the surplus tonnage of the J. R. Booth, Ltd., mill at Ottawa, Ont., which is about 40,000 tons, according to an American Newspaper Publishers' association bulletin.

Testifies Rye Whisky Costs 40 Cents a Gallon to Make

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Leon Gerngross, an employé of Bernheim Distilling company, Louisville, Ky., testified today in the state's suit against A. Overholt & Co., Inc., to collect more than $1,800,000 claimed under the floor tax law of 1933, that manufacturing rye whisky costs from 40 to 45 cents a gallon, and the manufacturing cost of bourbon whisky is about 10 cents lower. His testimony was offered as evidence that the floor tax was not passed on to the consuming public.

Great Lakes Dredge Given Pennsylvania Dock Award

Sandusky, O., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, Chicago, has been awarded a contract by the Pennsylvania railroad to build a coal dock here, George Patterson, superintendent of construction for the railroad, announced today. The total project will cost approximately $4,000,000.

October Sales of Buick Cars Far Above Year Ago

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—October sales of Buick cars totaled 18,009, against 10,181 in the same month last year, with 7,439 cars being sold in the last ten days of the month. Used car sales by Buick dealers in October totaled 10,476 units.

MISSOURI PACIFIC BOND GROUP'S ACTIONS STUDIED

Seek to Prove Plan Would Continue Old Control.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The part played by the protective committee for the holders of Missouri Pacific railroad first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, in the plans for reorganization of that railroad, was the subject of inquiry today by the senate committee on interstate commerce.

The committee sought to show that in the event the plan is approved by the interstate commerce commission, control of the Missouri Pacific would be in large degree restored to the same persons who exercised control when the road went into bankruptcy in 1933.

Insurance Chiefs Testify.

Frederic W. Ecker, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and Alfred H. Meyers, treasurer of the New York Life Insurance company, appeared as members of the Stedman bondholders committee, composed chiefly of insurance companies holding Missouri Pacific securities. Earlier testimony showed the Stedman committee had prepared a reorganization plan of its own, but had agreed to accept the debtor's plan if other creditors did not oppose it.

Under the railroad's reorganization plan, twelve of eighteen members of the board of directors would be nominated by Missouri Pacific, and six by the creditors. The investigators contended Alleghany corporation, top holding company of the Van Sweringen system, would actually nominate the twelve representing Missouri Pacific.

Meyers and Ecker asserted the plan would give the creditors control of the road's financial affairs through majority membership on a finance committee of five. Committee investigators said actually the finance committee would not have jurisdiction over some financial matters and that Alleghany representation on the board could veto creditors' nominations to the finance committee.

U. S. NEARS END OF EVIDENCE IN OIL PRICE TRIAL

Madison, Wis., Nov. 9.—(AP)—With testimony of thirty-four witnesses written into the record, government attorneys today neared the close of their presentation of evidence in the gasoline price fixing conspiracy case, now in its sixth week. Special Prosecutor Hammond Chaffetz reassured Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone that the prosecution staf hoped to conclude its portion of the case tomorrow as predicted.

The government charges that the oil companies, in two buying programs, removed surplus gasoline from the market to keep up the price. Prosecutors continued their parade of witnesses to tell of the functions of various defendants in their companies.

L. S. Wescoat, Chicago, a vice president of the Pure Oil company, said his company had purchased as much as 40,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year from independent refiners, the top figure having been reached in 1936.

Pennsylvania Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Please advise me how you consider Pennsylvania Power and Light $7 preferred stock as an investment. It now is selling about $10 below par.—R. L. J.

Answer: The stock deserves a good rating. The company has covered interest charges and dividend requirements on its $5, $6, and $7 preferred stocks by a consistently comfortable margin for years.

The company provides electricity and gas for a large portion of the industrial, mining, and agricultural communities in the northeastern sections of Pennsylvania. All common stock is owned by the Lehigh Power Securities corporation, which is controled by the National Power and Light company.

Callability of Governments.

Investors' Guide: I had an argument with my bank cashier. He claims the government cannot collect United States treasury bonds before they are matured. I said they called treasury bonds. I would like correct information.—W. J. L.

Answer: The callability of a government bond depends on the specific provisions covering the issue of which it is a part. Some issues are not callable until maturity. Others are callable, usually within a stated period of years before maturity. For example, the treasury 3¼s of 1944-'46 mature April 15, 1946, but are callable in whole or in part at par on April 15, 1944, or any succeeding interest date.

Colorado Fuel Warants.

Investors' Guide: What are the provisions of Colorado Fuel and Iron company warants? When do they expire?—J. S.

Answer: Warants of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company were issued under a reorganization plan effected by the company in June, 1936.

Preferred stockholders of the old company received warants entitling them to subscribe to new common stock at $35 a share, in the ratio of three new shares for each old share held.

Warants given to holders of the old common entitled them to subscribe to new common at $35 a share, in the ratio of ¾ of a new share for each old share held.

The warants expire Feb. 1, 1950.

BUSINESS BITS

Albert H. Stumpf, who became a member of the Chicago Board of Trade in 1889, will retire from business today. His membership has been posted for transfer to his stepson, William H. Dwyer, who has been associated with him in the grain brokerage business for the last six years.

Appointment of Irvin K. McCubbin as sales manager of the Chicago and northern Illinois territory of the Glenmore Distilleries company is announced by Raymond E. Deateale, sales manager and a director of the company.

L. H. Burns has been appointed sales manager for the central division for Graham-Paige Motors corporation.

The National Industrial Trafic league will hold its 30th annual meeting in Chicago Nov. 18 and 19, according to Edward F. Lacey, executive secretary of the league at Washington, D. C.

U. S. MERCHANT MARINE CALLED 'SICK INDUSTRY'

Changes in Law Urged by Federal Commission.

gress within a few days. The present study already has been sent to the capitol and it is the hope of Chairman Kennedy that the special session of congress will be able to take some action on the amendments that the commission has recommended.

"The ills of shipping are felt throughout the industry," Chairman Kennedy said today. "They have left their mark with equal severity on owner, manager, and worker. Some of the lines are heavily burdened with debt; most of them have been operating until recently at a loss. Now they are faced with the problem of replacing their fleets just when, after eight years of depression, they are beginning to make a little money."

Views Replacement Difficult.

The replacement problem, the chairman said, was acute. The lines which must build would find it difficult, almost without exception, to raise the down payments necessary for new vessels.

Kennedy placed, next to replacements, the present labor situation as the most serious problem.

"Conditions aboard American vessels have been disgraceful," he said, adding that the commission recommends establishment of a mediation board similar to that provided by the railway labor act as a solution of present chaotic conditions in the ranks of maritime labor.

The commission finds that there are only two sound considerations justifying the spending of taxpayers' money to maintain a foreign going fleet by the United States.

"One of these considerations is the importance of shipping to foreign commerce," Chairman Kennedy said, "and the other is the relationship that exists between merchant vessels and national defense."

Opposes "Luxury" Vessels.

In studying the types of vessels needed, the commission has concluded that the government should not support the building of "extremely large, extremely fast or inordinately luxurious vessels." Instead, it plans to concentrate on a total of five types of combination passenger and cargo vessels, and is considering two types of refrigerator ships, two types of tankers and three types of cargo vessels. The largest passenger liner would be a twenty knot vessel of the Manhattan and Washington class.

Ship building facilities in existence, the study has found, are sufficient for any building likely to be required. It suggests that instead of a spectacular ship building program the commission should start a small volume of work at once.

Would Liberalize Law.

In its survey the maritime commission recommended a number of amendments which would liberalize the law and more clearly define the commission's powers.

The commission recommended that the law be amended to protect a contractor against the cancelation of his subsidy without just cause. The survey pointed out the difficulty of getting private capital to invest in the merchant marine and stated that a major part of this difficulty lay in the uncertainty of the government's subsidies policy. The commission would amend the law to provide for the repurchase by the government of any ship at cost, less 5 per cent a year depreciation, or to permit the transfer of the ship to foreign registry upon the payment of all secured indebtedness.

Cut Down Payments.

Another amendment would cut the amount of the down payment required on new construction. The act now requires that the line buying a new vessel must pay down 25 per cent of the domestic cost of the vessel. The recommended change would ask the buyer to pay 25 per cent of the "foreign cost" of the vessel.

The commission would further amend the act to permit operators to build their vessels abroad where the construction differential between domestic and foreign costs exceed 50 per cent of the total cost of the vessel. The amendment, the commission's survey points out, while providing for sending work abroad, would provide a protection amounting to a tarif of 100 per cent of foreign costs and would act to keep shipbuilding costs from rising too rapidly.

Change Profits Basis.

Another amendment would change the provisions of the law so that profits would be figured on the basis of a ten year instead of a five year period to enable shipping companies to build up a reserve to face possible depressions.

The commission suggests that the law be changed to enlarge its power to relax restrictions concerning subsidiaries and affiliated companies operating vessels under foreign flags.

The law as it reads prohibits the payment of a salary of more than $25,000 a year to any executive of a line receiving a government subsidy. The commission would relax this provision on the ground the law does not give shipping the proper opportunity to retain the best men in competition with other industries.

TVA Tries Experiment; May Ship Frozen Fruit

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Tennessee Valley authority is constructing a refrigerating unit on a barge here to test the economy of shipping frozen fruits on the Tennessee river. R. Brooks Taylor, TVA research engineer, said it was planned to move 1,000,000 pounds of strawberries and other fruits on the barge to St. Louis and Chicago markets.

MANUFACTURERS URGE SIMPLIFIED EMPLOYE RECORD

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday urged the adoption of an administrative plan which will involve keeping a minimum of employé pay roll and personnel records by employers under the Illinois unemployment compensation act. The act provides benefit payments to employés losing their jobs.

The association said there are two basic systems for handling benefit payments under state unemployment compensation laws. Under the first system employers maintain minimum employée records and furnish all information required by the state when the need arises. In the second the state makes a detailed personal record for each employé and receives quarterly reports from employers showing each employé's earnings.

The report said the detailed system would be impracticable, inefficient, and unduly expensive.

Box Number Ads

Reply by phone as well as by letter may be made to any Tribune Want Ad with a box number as an address except Help Wanted advertisments. Call SUPerior 0100—Local 257. Your name, address and phone number will be placed at once in the box of the advertiser.

24-Hour Service

Tribune Want Ad-Visers are on duty 24 hours a day, every day of the year, to receive Want Ads by telephone or at the Want Ad Store, 1 South Dearborn. The Want Ad Store in Tribune Tower is open daily until 10 p. m., Sunday until 5 p. m.

Convenience

A Want Ad-Viser is as near to you as your telephone. If you have a telephone, your ad will be charged to you. If not, or if you prefer, a Tribune man will call at your home or office.

Ad Writing Assistance

The Tribune maintains an expert ad writing department to help you word your Want Ad to secure the best results. There is no charge for this service.

MARINELLO

NOVEMBER 10, 1937

AN OPEN LETTER TO AMBITIOUS GIRLS.

"If a thing is worth doing, it's worth doing well." That is the philosophy of Marinello. We consider the training of ambitious girls and women to become better than average Beauty Operators worth doing, and therefore, worth doing well.

"How well we train students who enroll for our course is best shown by the high regard beauty shop owners have for Marinello graduates. They know that a Marinello-trained operator is capable of rising above the average, both in performance of the mechanical operations of Beauty Culture, and in her capabilities for positions of responsibility.

"If you are interested in a career in Beauty Culture, be sure you take advantage of the finest training available—the Marinello course. Come in and have a personal talk with me at Marinello [National School of Cosmeticians, Inc.] 108 N. State-st., Chicago, the foremost school of Beauty Culture in the world. Day and evening classes at Marinello must necessarily be limited, therefore it will pay you to visit our school today. If you cannot do this, write or phone State 5057 for National Descriptive Manual. A limited number of students enrolling for our class of November 15th will receive an extra dividend.

"LOUIS A. PERRAUD, DEAN."

LEGAL NOTICES.

To the above named Defendant:
YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty [20] days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.
Dated April 26, 1937.
MORRIS SPEVACK, Attorney for Plaintiff, Office and P. O. Address, 299 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.
To Philip Kirschen: The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of Hon. Henry G. Wenzel Jr., one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, dated October 20, 1937, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of Kings, at the Kings County Hall of Records, Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York.
MORRIS SPEVACK, Attorney for Plaintiff, 299 Broadway, New York City.

A New Process Developed by Community Motors, Inc.

Community Motors has developed a new process for reconditioning used cars that is so new—so different—so changed as to revolutionize this industry.

No matter what your previous idea may have been about a used car—how it should look and how it should run—you have a surprise in store for you when you see a "COMMUNITY RE-NEWED" Good-Will Used Car.

Space does not permit us to describe this process to you, but one look at a "COMMUNITY RE-NEWED" Good-Will Used Car will quickly tell you the story.

Before you buy any used car, by all means see a "COMMUNITY RE-NEWED" Good-Will Used Car, or ask for our folder describing this new process.

SHREWD BUYERS CAN EFFECT A BIG SAVING BY BUYING NOW

Because we are selling these cars at JANUARY, MID-WINTER PRICES, and in addition passing on to buyers the savings on our normal cost of insurance, handling, and storage on these cars.

In our stocks you will find late model Ford, Dodge, Chevrolet, Plymouth, Pontiac, and other popular makes.

Your present car no doubt will represent the down payment and liberal terms can be arranged for the balance.

ORDERED HELD IN BABY'S DEATH—Miss Cora Mae Marsh, unwed mother who threw infant to death down hotel incinerator shaft, at inquest yesterday where she was ordered held on charge of murder. She did not testify.

BARRED FROM THE UNITED STATES—Magda de Fontanges, self styled former mistress of Benito Mussolini, in her cabin on the liner Normandie in New York. After a hearing yesterday immigration officials refused her entry into the country on the grounds of moral turpitude.

HOW CHINA IS BEING DISMEMBERED BY NIPPONESE ARMIES—Looking back a few years you will recall how Japan acquired Corea and followed with the conquest of Manchukuo (ruled area at upper right). Now after four months' heavy fighting Japan's northern army has conquered virtually all of four rich provinces and portions of two others (shown in white). Along the sea coast Japanese victories have won Shanghai and its environs. (Note the small white area.) The inset map shows in detail the Shanghai area and the arrow points to location of China's "suicide battalions" now facing death rather than surrender. (Story on page 1.)

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]
